many, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Malta, Poland, Romania, and Yugoslavia. (Italics added.)

Of these 14 nations, seven are Communist.

2. Communists Serve on UNICEF's Executive Board

The 1962 membership of the Executive Board elected by the United Nations' Economic and Social Council, lists among others Communist Poland and Communist U.S.S.R. In order, therefore, to minimize the presence of the Communists, we are told, "All decisions are majority vote." Thus, we are led to believe that the Communists are outvoted. In dealing with the charge that UNICEF policies are "controlled by Communists," a charge which we have not heard anyone make, we are told, "As in all UN bodies there are representatives of Communist countries on the UNICEF Executive Board; in 1962, three out of 30. Each member has one vote. In most instances decisions have been taken by a unanimous vote." If this proves anything, it proves that the three Communists who represent Nikita Khrushchev are satisfied with the program of UNICEF.

3. Communists Are Employed by UNICEF

The report says: "The UNICEF administrative staff is composed of citizens of more than 42 countries. This staff, which carries out the decisions of the UNICEF Executive Board, is composed of 575 persons. Of these, 105 are U. S. citizens; 11 are citizens of countries with Communist governments. Of the total employed, 163 persons are professional and executive staff and come from 35 countries. Of these, 42 are U. S. citizens; seven come from countries with Communist governments."

This is evidence that the Communists have infiltrated the administrative and executive staff of UNICEF, and the reason the Communists are there is, we are told, "Each member government of the UN is entitled to have its nationals employed by the UN and its related agencies."

There is no way that UNICEF could get rid of the Communists if it wanted to, and it does not want to, for here is the prime example of co-operation between those of differing "political systems." The American people must accept this organization and be willing not only peacefully to coexist with the Communists in UNICEF, but to co-operate with them as good humanitarians.

4. The Communists Supervise and Control UNICEF Projects in Their Own Countries

The report says, "Although UNICEF aid is provided only for projects for which a government accepts responsibility, in a number of instances the government relies on voluntary agencies to carry out part of the operations."

There are no voluntary agencies in Communist countries. This indicates that, not only in Communist countries but in all countries, responsibility for UNICEF projects is that of a government. Thus, UNICEF is promoting the benevolence State!

At this point we are told, "The charge has been made that since UNICEF works through governments, it has no control over distribution of assistance provided."

UNICEF's own statement indicates that it has no control over the distribution of the assistance provided for the Communist government. When the Communists take charge, it is operated according to the Communists' desires.

The only answer to this charge reads as follows, "The care with which an aid program is established and the guarantees which surround it offer complete reassurance that UNICEF's aid serves the intended purpose which is to reach children in need." It is affirmed that the Communist government controls and supervises, but the makers of this report insist that the Communists are doing a good work in carrying out the purposes of UNICEF in their Communist countries. We wonder how they know?

This ought to cause the most serious re-evaluation of the whole UNICEF program by every liberty-loving American.

5. UNICEF Ties in Its Activities With Government

In answering the charge that UNICEF aid "is only temporary and, at best, a partial alleviation," UNICEF gives itself completely away, for the report says, "Each recipient government must provide assurances that the project being aided by UNICEF will contribute to expanding government services to children of the country." So it is government! So it is government direction! It is government assurance, and more, the spirit of socialism! Thus we say that the de facto world government of the U.N. is working directly with the governments that constitute the U.N. and UNICEF in helping to cement and to establish this relationship, and our precious children are doing this "great" work.

6. USA Bears Major Responsibility of Government Contributions

The document says: "In 1961 contributions to the central account of UNICEF totalled $22,959,796. The US contributed $12,000,000 of this amount subject to the condition that its contribution should not exceed 46% of the total government audited contributions. Other governments contributed $10,959,796 to the central account. In addition, other governments contributed $3,314,932 towards the implementation of UNICEF aided projects and for local administrative and related costs of UNICEF field offices."

These facts are offered to answer the generalized charge that two and a half times the total contributions of all other governments are offered by the United States. We have never seen such a charge, but when the UNICEF officials attempt to answer a "wild charge," they produce facts which should shock every American. The United States Government limited its contributions in 1961 to only 46 per cent of the total of all governments. Here the Communists are helping to shape policy, benefiting from the contributions, and being a "humanitarian" government, too! The United States Government should give absolutely nothing to such a Soviet build-up. In no circumstances should the American people permit their tax money to be used in such a way that the Communists are recognized as great humanitarians, together with the American people, in the interest of the children of the world. To grant the Communists such a position far exceeds in damage the amount of money involved. UNICEF honors the Reds and dignifies them before the world!

7. Communists Contribute Only in Their Own Red Currencies

We are told, "Most of the governments which contribute to UNICEF do so in their own currency." For the most part UNICEF spends these currencies in the contributing country for the purchase and shipment of supplies and equipment for programs it is aiding in other countries. The Russian ruble is of little value outside of Russia; neither are the currencies of other Communist countries. The Communists, therefore, make sure that what they contribute will be spent 100 per cent inside of the Communist block. UNICEF tries to justify this by saying that over the years "85% of the US contribution to UNICEF has been spent in the United States." But 100 per cent of the Communists' has been spent in Communist lands. They see to that. The charge which is supposed to be answered is, "The Russian donations must be used to purchase supplies from Russia." But it is here admitted, and the answer is the comment, "The practice is identical for all." But the evidence of this document indicates otherwise.

8. Communist Cuba Aided

In discussing UNICEF allocations since 1950, we are told, "The allocations have no relation to contributions which the government may make to UNICEF's central fund," but "are based upon the needs of children and the aided government's willingness to do its share to assure that the programs will be effective."

In answer to the charge that the Communist countries that gave nothing have been favored, we read: "Since 1950, five countries with Communist governments (including Cuba), have received aid. The same governments made contributions to UNICEF. In 1961, three countries with Communist governments received aid; ten countries with Communist governments made contributions to UNICEF." According to this, the Communists are very generous indeed! But they are there to do their job for Mr. K.

If Americans can work with the Communists in UNICEF, they can work with the Communists in Cuba. It is Castro's government with which UNICEF has been cooperating. UNICEF helps Castro's children; the USSR helps Castro's army! If it is all right to work with the Communists in UNICEF, it is all right to work with the Communists anywhere in the world.

UNICEF demands the acceptance of Communism and Communist governments. But UNICEF aids 148 million children, and this
