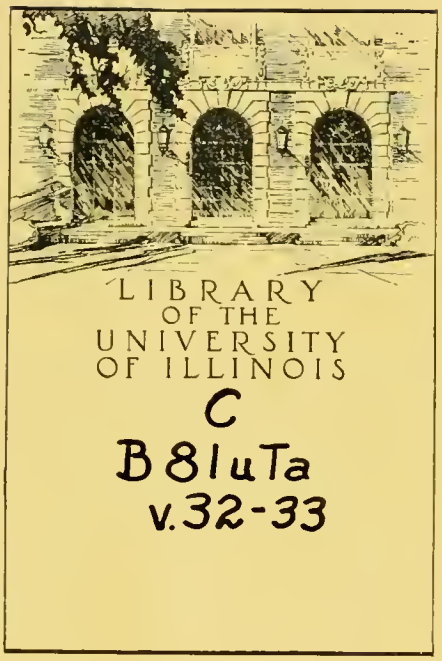
BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

1931 - 1933



MARKEY & ASPLUND
BOOKBINDERS
Providence, R. I.

Photo by Ray Ball

OCTOBER
1931

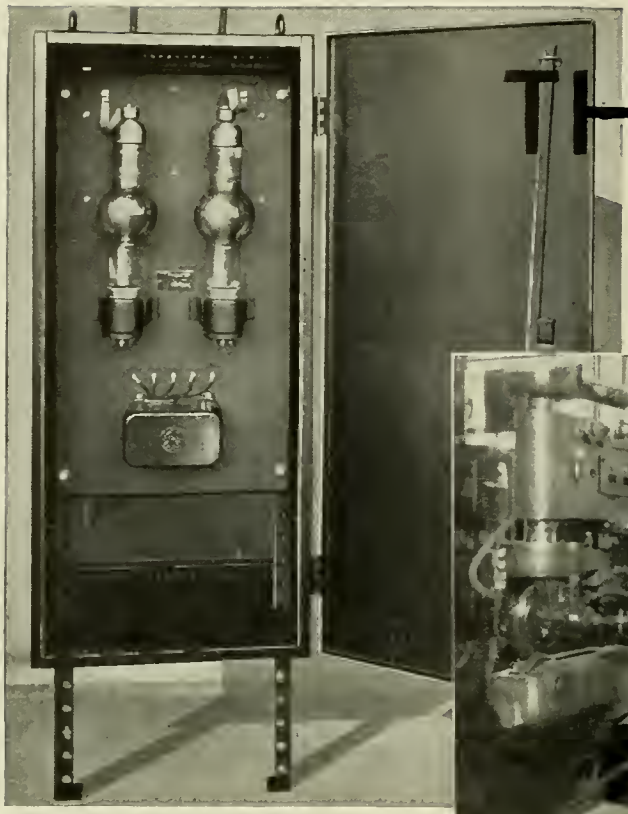
BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

FOUNDED IN 1900

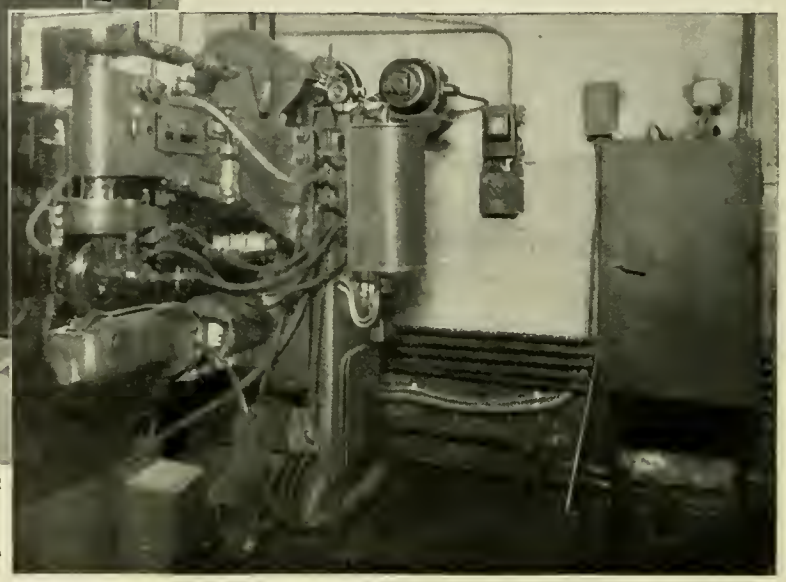
Published monthly, August and September excepted, by the BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY, Inc., at Brown University, Providence, R. I.
Entered at the Post Office, at Providence, R. I., as second-class matter, under the law of March 3, 1879.

THYRATRON

THE OPEN DOOR



Close-up of a Thyratron control panel for high-speed welding applications



G-E Thyratron control equipment (in case) operates this line welder through a reactor

THE new electron tube, the Thyratron, is the most versatile servant developed in recent years. Already it has a host of applications. It will open windows, count anything that will interrupt a beam of light, operate welding machines, sort beans or buttons, operate drinking fountains as you bend over them, light buildings, windows, and theaters, and measure the intense heat of furnace interiors. And it has a thousand other applications.

Thyratron control has made possible high-speed welding machines, for no contactor-actuated resistance welder can approach the speed of several hundred interruptions per minute that are required. High-current Thyratrons interrupt the current in the welding transformers and swing the impedance from high to low, the welding rate depending on the speed of these changes. Thyratron control can be used for as many as one thousand interruptions per minute.

The name Thyratron comes from a Greek word which means "door". Not only does this tube act as a door, or valve, for electricity, but some scientists say that its possibilities are so great that its use will revolutionize the electrical industry. If these predictions are correct, the Thyratron is an open door of opportunity for young men now in college and for graduates already in the employ of the General Electric Company.

95-883DH

GENERAL ELECTRIC

SALES AND ENGINEERING SERVICE IN PRINCIPAL CITIES

ANNOUNCING A NEW TRAVEL SERVICE FOR ALUMNI

Convenient and Enjoyable Travel Assured by the Appointment of the American Express Company as the Official Travel Bureau of the Intercollegiate Alumni Extension Service

Whether, for you, a trip is a regular event or an occasional holiday—whether you circle the globe or merely "week-end"—whether you travel for educational reasons or for pleasure—the American Express facilities which are now available to alumni will make your travels more carefree and enjoyable! You will find travel under the auspices of this well-known, world-wide organization free from worry and detail—bothersome arrangements will have been made in advance for you—you will be eagerly welcomed and treated as an honored guest everywhere you go!

Complete Service Offered!

The 99 American Express offices in all the important cities in the world are your business and social headquarters. There you will meet your friends, receive your mail, cables and radio messages; and there experienced and courteous travel men will map your itinerary, arrange for your sightseeing trips and reserve your accommodations on boats, railways and airplanes. The Company's 190 uniformed interpreters stationed at piers, depots and frontier points will lend you necessary assistance and guide you through the customs. American Express Travelers Cheques will protect and insure your travel funds.

Special Alumni Tours Planned

The lure of travel on our beautiful, intensely interesting little planet is almost universal, but travel has an especial appeal to college men and women for cultural reasons, because it is the most enjoyable and beneficial form of adult education. The American Express Company is studying the travel preferences of alumni and plans to offer special tours and to form groups which will have certain educational, research and artistic goals. You will be acquainted with these special offerings through these pages in the future.

Independent Travel Arranged

You may wish to travel independently or with your own friends, following an itinerary of your own choice. Experienced travel men of the American Express Company will route a trip for you according to your own ideas of where you wish to go, for how long and how much you wish to spend. All your plans will then be made in advance and your pathway smoothed for you.

Agents For Travel—Everywhere

The American Express Company can procure steamship, rail and air passage for you, at regular tariff rates, no matter where you may wish to travel. The Company is also an agent for all approved cruises and tours being offered for the coming winter travel season. Although it is still early, wise travelers are already making their bookings and taking advantage of the better accommodations.

WINTER CRUISES

West Indies Cruises

Tropical scenic beauty—eternal golden summer—historic interest—make these verdant isles of the Caribbean ideal destinations for a winter holiday. Winter cold, worries and routine are forgotten with every stride of the steamer southward. There are many West Indies Cruises from among which you can choose what will best suit your plans. Their durations vary from 10 days to a month, and the cost is from $100 up. The luxurious ships used are perfect for pleasure cruising, and the visits ashore have been carefully planned.

A 10-day West Indies Cruise is ideal for the Christmas Holidays! A short vacation that can include the children!

"Around the World"

The splendid S.S. VOLENDAM will sail to the great Antarctic continent in her globe-circling this winter, the first cruise to follow in the wake of the explorers Amundsen and Byrd, visiting the Ross Sea and the Bay of Whales. A Pioneer Cruise, sailing 31,000 inspiring miles in its swing around the planet. Leaving New York December 19, returning April 18. Minimum price, $2500.

"Mediterranean Cruise"

The S.S. ROTTERDAM, famous cruising liner, will sail on February 6, 1932, to visit the fascinating, ancient lands that embrace the blue Mediterranean, returning to New York on April 16. The itinerary includes Madeira, Gibraltar, Cadiz, Algiers, Tunis, Malta, Rhodes, Cyprus, Messina, Greece, Istanbul, the Holy Land, Port Said, Cairo, Kotor on the Dalmatian Coast, Venice, Naples, Monte Carlo and Nice. Minimum rate, $900.

"Around South America"

The palatial vessels, the SANTA BARBARA and SOUTHERN CROSS, will be used on the interesting cruise-tour of South America which will leave the blustery north on February 13, 1932, to visit the sunny Latin lands below the Equator: Panama Canal, Peru, Chile, Argentine, Uruguay, Brazil and Bermuda, returning April 26. Minimum cost, $1695.

Cruises and tours to Mexico, Bermuda and Hawaii can also be arranged.

The Coupon Brings Information

If any of the cruises mentioned here interest you, or if you have any other trip in mind and would like information about it, please fill in and mail the coupon printed below for your convenience.

Early Bookings Are Advisable. Plan Now for This Winter's Vacation! The American Express Is Ready to Serve You in This and Any Other Travel Requirement.

American Express Intercollegiate Travel Extension Service, 65 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen: I am interested in the trip checked. Please send me information and literature. 5

- ☐ Around the World .....
- ☐ Mediterranean Cruise .....
- ☐ South America Cruise-Tour .....
- ☐ West Indies Cruise, sailing about .....
- ☐ Florida, California .....
- ☐ Mexico, Bermuda, Hawaii .....
- ☐ Europe for next summer .....
- ☐ Any other trip .....

Name.....

Address.....

NOW he lets AGENCY SERVICE ferret out the facts

THROUGH careful and conservative management, a considerable estate in the form of investments had been built up by a local business man. But during the last few years he had found it increasingly difficult to keep abreast of the ever-shifting business and financial situation. His business was demanding every bit of his time. He was forced to neglect the important task of gathering facts about the corporations in whose securities he had invested.

During the course of a conversation with one of our officers, he mentioned his problem. He wasn't dissatisfied with his own management when he had the time, but he wished there was some way to shift the burden.

Agency Service, as rendered by this Company, was explained to him. As a result, today his securities are under our management. Each and every corporation on his list is being constantly analyzed by our Statistical Department. Recommendations for investments and changes resulting from these analyses are passed upon by a special committee. Then they are submitted to him for approval. In this way he has a full knowledge of and plays an active part in every transaction. Yet he is relieved of all troublesome details and can devote all his time to his business.

Agency Service offers unbiased, dependable investment management based on accurate facts It has no place in get-rich-quick plans. It provides expert assistance in the planning and executing of an investment program that will meet your particular needs. It will pay you to discuss it with one of our Trust Officers.

Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company

Pawtucket — Providence — Woonsocket

We have no securities for sale

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Vol. XXXII PROVIDENCE, R. I., OCTOBER, 1931 No. 3

Faunce House Opens Its Doors

FAUNCE HOUSE officially came into existence Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 23, when exercises of dedication were held in the new theatre auditorium. Some 350 members of the Brown Corporation, Faculty and student body, leaders in public life and other invited friends of Brown heard President Barbour extol his predecessor and saw him receive the keys to handsome memorial building from James Munroe Pendleton '85, of Westerly, chairman of the building committee.

The new structure, made possible by the gift of $600,000 from John D Rockefeller, Jr., '97, was not entirely completed, but the visitors were able to inspect the theatre, the cafeteria, the Faunce Memorial Room, alumni offices, and the new art gallery A special exhibition of paintings by notable artists had been hung by the Department of Art through the courtesy of Robert C. Vose, '96 and attracted 500 visitors during the first afternoon.

In the front row of the auditorium sat Mrs. W H P. Faunce, widow of the late president for whom the building is named. Mr Rockefeller was not present, in accordance with his policy of never attending the dedication of buildings he has made possible. Music, under the direction of Prof. Arlan R. Coolidge, added dignity to the simple homage paid Dr Faunce as the building entered upon its "wholesome ministry."

In his dedicatory words President Barbour recounted the steps leading to the gift of Faunce House, described its purpose and praised its name. His remarks are here printed, almost in their entirety:

* * *

WE ARE met to set aside to its permanent uses this stately and beautiful structure, the fulfillment of many dreams and many hopes. It does not stand here by accident, but by the deliberate purpose and attempt to meet a real and emergent need Twenty-seven years ago that need was temporarily met by the erection of Rockefeller Hall for the social and religious life of Brown University men of that day, as Brown then was in student enrollment.

Rockefeller Hall was constructed as the gift of Mr. John D. Rockefeller at a cost of a little more than $107,000. An endowment of $25,000 was raised by alumni and undergraduates and was increased to $50,000 five years later by a gift from Mr. John D Rockefeller, Jr. The building has been of inestimable value to the life and work of Brown.

In order that President Barbour might conduct the ceremonies before he left for the Orient, Faunce House was dedicated before the building was complete. The alumni Monthly intends to devote at least a page to illustrations of Faunce House but will wait before doing so until work has been finished. This page of pictures may appear in the November issue.

In 1904 the undergraduate student enrollment was 681. Last year it was 1366, almost exactly double. It is natural that a building which amply sufficed for the needs of a quarter of a century ago became inadequate with the passing years. This was apparent to Mr John D. Rockefeller, Jr, himself an alumnus of Brown in the class of 1897, and by his gift of $600,000 he has made possible the erection and endowment of the structure which is dedicated today.

IN MAKING the gift Mr. Rockefeller stipulated that the entire structure, original and the addition, should be designated by the name of former President Faunce, who as pastor and as president, Mr. Rockefeller and his family had held in honor and affection for many years. In accordance with Mr. Rockefeller's stipulation, the name of Rockefeller Hall has ceased to be, and the completed structure, embracing within itself the former building, becomes a unit under the name of Faunce House.

I am voicing the deep appreciation of the President, the Corporation, the Faculty, the Alumni, the student body and the friends of Brown when I express in this assembly the honor in which I hold this generous donor for his great and useful gift. How better could such a sum of money be invested than in constructing such a building and providing an important part of the cost of its maintenance? This structure will minister to the life of thousands of students for many student generations. This loyal son of Brown has thus built himself into the substance of a multitude of lives.

THE symmetrical life is four-fold. It is physical. Unless the bodily powers are under discipline and control, the life of any individual is a ship without a rudder. It is mental. There is such a fact as the intellectual new birth and a life of the mind which follows that birth. It is the well-disciplined mind which works smoothly and powerfully. The price of mental self-control is clear vision and ceaseless battle.

The symmetrical life is spiritual. The modern prophet is right when he says that faith will help man to surmount certain intellectual difficulties which he is likely to encounter and which if not overcome will overwhelm and defeat him. It will make possible abiding ideals in his life which will stimulate his will and give direction and unity to his life's purposes. Genuine peace of mind depends upon the finding of a satisfying philosophy of life, one which will master the doubts of men, strengthen their hearts and give them confidence to face the exactions and disillusionments of life. . . . . And the symmetrical life is social We are not made to be alone We are gregarious beings. We move in groups There is an impact of personality upon personality. We are like travellers in the Alps. We move together. Everything which ministers to the wholesomeness of personal contact is a gain to all This building is designed to minister to the four-fold life of the student body of Brown

> "We dedicate this building to the Glory of God, to wholesome ministry to students and friends of Brown, and to the memory of a great personality, whose life was an inspiration and whose influence will abide as a never ceasing benediction."

It is a pleasure to speak of the sagacious and sacrificial work of the Building Committee appointed by the Corporation That Committee consists of Mr. James M Pendleton as chairman, Mr. Edmund Wood, Mr. Paul C DeWolf, Mr. J Palmer Barstow, Mr. Edwin A. Burlingame, and Mr William H. Edwards. We regret that Mr Wood is prevented by severe illness from being with us today. He has been associated not only with this but with other structures which are parts of the material equipment of Brown. We miss his presence at this hour.

The architectural planning of the building was in the hands of the firm of Howe and Church and the supervision of the building in the hands of Mr Robert Bowen of Providence. As is usual in all building enterprises upon the campus we have the skillful oversight of Mr Paul P. Cret The general contractors were the C. B. Maguire Company of Providence.

It is not unfitting that I should add that Mr. Edwin A Burlingame, Comptroller of the University and Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings, has been constant in his attention to the details of construction from the beginning until this day.

None of us forgets, nor would we forget, that the building bears the name of former President Faunce. It is Faunce House, a title speaking of the hospitality which here is extended to all those who enter these doors, typical of the great heart of him whose memory is ever cherished upon this campus and wherever sons of Brown are found about the circle of the globe.

I have been rereading in their entirety the addresses which were given on February 22nd of last year at the memorial service to President Faunce in Sayles Hall. The beauty and power of them were apparent at the time of their delivery. The rereading of them increases that impression. It was a great tribute to one whose worth no tribute can exaggerate.

For myself I would repeat what I said eighteen months ago to a great unseen audience in a message which I gave by radio to listening ears:

He was an ideal President Emeritus, though he laughingly said that he feared it would be hard to know how to be such. He did not need to learn. All he had to do was to be himself, modest, unselfish, generous in thought and word and act. But it was not to be. He has gone and our hearts are sore. We shall greatly miss him and often long for the sound of his voice and the touch of his hand."

It is very fitting that there should be set apart in this building over the arch which spans the north entrance to the campus a Faunce Memorial Room. There will be objects in the room which were in the possession of Dr. Faunce during his lifetime. It is hoped that from time to time from various sources other objects reminiscent of him will be received. The room is designed to be a place where quiet meditation will be possible and significant.

Have we so-called practical peoples of the western world lost an art which the ancients had and which oriental peoples have still — the art of unlocking for ourselves the wonderlands of our own creative imaginations and memories? It is possible to be so engrossed in the mechanics of the age that we lose the real substance of life. It may be that the quiet room over the arch will be the place of nurture for many a life purpose which may find its fruit in high thinking and great living for the public weal.

Phi Beta Kappa's Host

The Rhode Island Alpha was host to 100 of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa when they held their Seventeenth Triennial Council in Providence, Sept. 9, 10 and 11 on the occasion of their 50th anniversary. One session was devoted to a recognition of that anniversary of the United Chapters.

For the delegates, who came from all parts of the country, the Rhode Island committee provided a variety of entertainment. A reception in the Brown Faculty Club opened the convention on the evening before the general sessions, while a Rhode Island clam-bake at the Pomham Club, a trip by bus to Newport, and the banquet in Alumnae Hall on the last night were other pleasant events on the program.

The general meetings were held in Alumnae Hall at Pembroke College. Vice President Mead welcomed the visitors on behalf of the University, while Prof. Albert Knight Potter, president of the Rhode Island Alpha, performed a similar courtesy for the chapter. Speakers at the dinner included William H. Edwards '19, toastmaster; Dr. Mary E. Woolley '94, president of Mount Holyoke; Dr Frank Aydelotte, President of Swarthmore; and Prof. Harry Lyman Koopman.

William W. Moss '94, treasurer of the Rhode Island Alpha, was chairman of the committee which prepared for the Council meetings. Prof. William T. Hastings '03, treasurer of the chapter; Prof. Sharon O. Brown '15; Prof. Albert P. Martin '13; Prof. Potter, Prof. Clarence R. Adams '18 and Prof. Zenas R. Bliss '18 were the other committeemen.

The President Sails for India

PRESIDING at the opening of Brown University's 168th academic year on September 23, President Clarence A Barbour took leave of students and faculty before starting on his nine months' mission in the Orient. He left Providence the following night to join the other members of the Commission of Appraisal of the Laymen's Committee on Foreign Missions with whom he is to inquire into the activities of the mission field in China, Japan, and India.

"Not a day will go by when I will not think of Brown," Dr. Barbour said in the exercises in Sayles Hall. "I have no ambitions in life that are not wrapped up with Brown. It was very reluctantly and only after long consideration on my part and on the part of the Corporation that I accepted membership on the commission, mainly because we felt that to refuse would have been a mistake for Brown in the long run." He repeated similar sentiments to members of the Corporation and the Faculty at a reception tendered him and Mrs. Barbour in Alumnae Hall that evening.

President and Mrs. Barbour were to be well along the Mediterranean on October 10. During their one day stay in Paris they expected to have luncheon with six Brown juniors who are now studying in French universities under the Delaware plan, and on October 8 they were to sail for Bombay, arriving October 23.

"We are going on a great adventure," Dr. Barbour said of the commission's work. Three months are to be spent in India, after which Burma is to be visited. Ten weeks in China will precede a tour of Korea and Japan Dr. Barbour will return home before the other members of the commission in order that he may be present to award diplomas to members of the class of 1932 at Commencement.

DR A D MEAD
Acting President of Brown

THE denominations participating in the survey are the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the Reformed Church in America (Dutch Reformed), the United Presbyterian, the Methodist Episcopal, the Congregational, the Protestant Episcopal, and the Northern Baptist. Albert L. Scott '00, a Fellow of Brown, and Rufus M. Jones, a member of the Board of Trustees, are other commissioners with Brown affiliations, while the inquiry is being made possible financially by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., '97. Other members of the commission are: Dr. William Ernest Hocking, chairman, of Harvard University, Edgar H. Betts of Troy, N. Y., Dr. Arlo A Brown, president of Drew University; Dr. Charles Phillips Emerson, dean of the Medical School of the University of Indiana; Dr. Henry S. Houghton, dean of the Medical College of the University of Iowa, Dr. William P. Merrill of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y.; Dr. Henry C. Taylor of Burlington, Vt ; and Dr. Frederic C. Woodward, dean of the faculties of the Universityof Chicago.

"The purpose of the entire inquiry," an official announcement has said, "is to appraise objectively the activities of foreign missions in these three countries, to observe the effect of missions on the life of the peoples in the Orient, and to work out a practical missionary program for today." Experts have been busy for eight months as an assisting fact-finding body, and the commission has also been promised various sorts of governmental help. President Barbour told the students in chapel that the Viceroy of India had promised that every door in India would be open.

During Dr. Barbour's absence, Vice President Mead is serving as Acting President, with Professor Adams as Acting Vice President.

Defending a Soviet Suit

Claude R. Branch '07, Assistant Attorney General of the United States, spent part of the summer in Paris taking testimony, according to the Providence Journal, "of Russian refugees and others now resident there in a $3,000,000 lawsuit in which the United States Government is involved actually if not nominally with the unrecognized Soviet government of Russia. . . . The case, entitled the Russian Volunteer Fleet against the United States, long has been pending in the Court of Claims and twice has been to the Supreme Court on minor points."

Professor Drury's New Post

Francis K. W. Drury, formerly assistant librarian of Brown University, was to assume the post of librarian of Carnegie Library at Nashville, Oct. 1. Announcement of his appointment was made previously by the American Library Association at whose headquarters he had been an executive since leaving the John Hay Library in 1929 after 10 years service at Brown. He wrote two books in the past year: "Book Selection" and "Order Work for Libraries."

Brunonia Plays the Game

By LOUIS B. PALMER

Varsity Football

Oct. 24—Lehigh
Oct. 31—Holy Cross (away)
Nov. 7—Ohio Wesleyan
Nov. 14—Columbia
Nov. 21—New Hampshire
Nov. 26—Colgate

Freshman Football

Oct. 24—R. I. State 1935
Oct. 31—Andover (away)
Nov. 7—Columbia 1935 (away)
Nov. 14—New Hampshire 1935
Nov. 21—Holy Cross 1935

Varsity Cross Country

Oct. 24—New Hampshire
Oct. 30—Wesleyan (away)
Nov. 4—Tufts
Nov. 13—Holy Cross

Freshman Cross Country

Oct. 24—New Hampshire 1935
Nov. 4—Tufts 1935
Nov. 13—Holy Cross 1935
Nov. 18—La Salle Academy

Varsity Soccer

Oct. 24—M. I. T. (away)
Oct. 30—Yale
Nov. 7—Northeastern
Nov. 11—Harvard (away)
Nov. 21—Springfield (away)

Freshman Soccer

Oct. 21—Bradford Durfee
Oct. 28—Cranston High
Nov. 4—Hope St. High
Nov. 12—Providence Tech
Nov. 18—Pawtucket High

The Football Season Opens

PLAYING on a rain-soaked field, Brown auspiciously opened its 1931 football campaign by defeating Colby College, 22-0 on September 26. Although the Maine team put up a hard fight, they were never able to get within Brown's 30-yard line, and as a result, Coach "Tuss" McLaughry was able to use 33 members of his squad during the course of the encounter.

After receiving the ball on the opening kick-off, Colby kicked to Dick Marsan, on the 22-yard line, the Bruin quarterback running the ball back to his own 35-yard mark. With Marsan, Bill Gilbane and Frank Gammino alternating, the Bears carried the ball over in ten plays for the first score of the season, Gammino making the touchdown. Capt. Paul Mackesey added the extra point with a placement kick.

Brown's second score did not come until the third period, when Charlie Tillinghast, Brown centre, blocked a Colby punt and fell on the ball in the end zone for a safety touchdown after a 16-yard run. The final counter of the game was made when Gammino, led by beautiful interference, ran 62 yards through the entire Colby team to score standing up. Bob Chase added the extra point.

All in all, the opening game was very satisfactory to both coaches and spectators. Brown's eleven, of which little was known before the game, performed creditably, the interference given the backs being especially fine. The tackling and blocking were not done as thoroughly as might have been desired, but more practice will undoubtedly correct that fault. The running of the backs was very pleasing to watch, that of Dick Marsan, star quarterback of the 1928 team, Joe Buonanno, Bill Gilbane, Bob Chase and Frank Gammino being outstanding. In the line the work of Capt. Paul Mackesey, Jack Ferrebee, Maury Caito and Jack Patton was excellent.

The team is considerably lighter than last year's but this lack of poundage is more than made up for by excellent spirit and by deception and speed. It will be extremely interesting to see how the team fares against the so-called larger colleges, as lack of capable line replacements may present a serious problem before the season ends.

The lineup, and some of the more salient facts:

BROWN (22)	COLBY (0)
Hargrove, l. e.	l. e., Hersey
R. Brown, l. t.	l. t., Dexter
Mackesey (C), l. g.	l. g., Putnam
T. Gilbane, c.	c., Clement
Patton, r. g.	r. g., Mills
Ferrebee, r. t.	r. t., Crabtree
Sawyer, r. e.	r. e., Wilson
Marsan, q. b.	q. b., Davan
W. Gilbane, l. h.	l. h., Johnstone (C)
Chase, r. h.	r. h., Violette
Gammino, f. b.	f. b., Alden

Score by periods	1	2	3	4
Brown	7	0	8	7—22

Touchdowns. Brown—Gammino 2, Chase. Safety—Tillinghast. Points after touchdown: Brown—Mackesey (placement), Chase (placement). Substitutions. Brown—Letoile for Patton, Caito for Hargrove, Tillinghast for T. Gilbane, Walker for Ferrebee, Ball for Sawyer, Buonanno for Marsan, Hardt for Letoile, L. Brown for Walker, R. K. Brown for Mackesey, Spellman for Letoile, Munroe for Caito, Hapgood for Hardt, Demarjian for Gammino, Brickley for R. K. Brown, Crissey for Buonanno, McPherson for Ball, Affinito for L. Brown, King for Hapgood, Rodgers for W. Gilbane, Seidman for Brickley, Allen for Rodgers, Sayward for Spellman, Bowie for Allen; Colby—Hucke for Mills, Malcolm for Hersey, Steigler for Putnam, O'Connell for Clement, Foley for Davan, Peabody for Alden, Davidson for Malcolm, Thomas for Violette, Ackley for Hucke, Perkins for Johnstone, Foster for Dexter, Violette for Thomas, Johnstone for Perkins, Alden for Peabody, Clement for O'Donnell, Bryan for Wilson, Hucke for Ackley, Putnam for Steigler, Wilson for Bryan, O'Donnell for Clement, Perkins for Alden, Hersey for Davidson, Crabtree for Dexter, Foster for Crabtree, Thomas for Johnstone, Malcolm for Hersey. Referee—W. T. Halloran. Umpire—R. F. Guild, Harvard. Field judge—G. E. Keithley, Illinois. Linesman—A. F. Noble, Amherst. Time of periods—Two 12-minute and two 15-minute.

Yards gained. Brown, 345; Colby, 58. Chief Bruin ground gainers: Gammino, 102, W. Gilbane, 79, Chase, 68, Buonanno, 63, Marsan, 30.

Kicks run back—Brown, 94, Colby, 89.
Average distance of punts—Brown, 39, Colby, 35.

* * *

Brown 18 — R. I. 0

IN ONE of the roughest and hardest-fought games seen on Brown Field in many a moon, Brown soundly trounced Rhode Island State on Oct. 3, by the score of 18 - 0. Although the Rams fought every bit of the time, Brown was really more superior than the score would seem to indicate, the home team missing at least three other opportunities to score earlier in the game. 12,000 people, one of the largest crowds ever to attend a Brown-R. I. game, witnessed the contest.

Rhode Island received the opening kickoff, but failed to gain, and kicked, Cragan's punt failing to go beyond mid-field, and from that time on the play was all in State's territory, with one exception. That one time was in the second quarter when successive penalties, amounting to 40 yards, pushed the Bruins back to their own 40-yard stripe. All in all, Brown lost 110 yards by penalties, while their opponents lost but 35. Due to the numerous penalties for clipping, roughness, and offside, and the repeated times out for injuries, the game was a long, dragged-out affair, taking three hours and five minutes to play.

Coach D. O. McLaughrey, Dr. Barbour, and Prof. Fred W. Marvel
During a Presidential Visit to Aldrich Field Practice

Successive drives by the Bruins in the first three quarters took the ball to the 13, 22, 10, 2, and 14 yard lines, but each time State held. On one occasion Gilmartin tossed a forward to Ball, Brown end, who went across for a touchdown, but the score did not count, as a Bruin lineman was offside. At the end of the third quarter the score was still 0 - 0, and it was not until the start of the last period that the Brown offence really began to click.

On the first play of the final quarter, Eddie Gilmartin again tossed a forward to Ball, who again went over for a touchdown, and this time the score counted. Shortly after the kickoff, Cragan, star State quarterback, attempted to pass, but Joe Buonanno, flashy sophomore back, intercepted the toss, and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. The final score of the afternoon was made when Buonanno, circling right end behind beautiful interference, galloped down the sidelines 56 yards for another touchdown. On this jaunt, the usually brilliant Goff attempted to stop Buonanno, but the latter literally ducked under Goff's outstretched arm and completed his run standing up.

Buonanno was by far the best back on the field, gaining 128 yards from scrimmage, as well as the 40 yards on his intercepted pass, and also ran back two punts for a total of 65 yards. Bill Gilbane and Bob Chase were superb on the defense, while Frank Gammino with a 50-yard run and Dick Marsan with one of 43 also played well. In the line Tom Gilbane, Paul Mackesey, Jack Ferrebee, Tony Capasso and Hank Letoile played consistently fine ball. State's best men were Goff, Cragan, Capalbo, Collison, Stickney and Carr. Cragan and Goff were especially game, playing hard although injured, and both were given fine hands by the crowd when they left the game.

Brown gained 386 yards by rushing and passing, to R. I.'s 82, made 15 first downs compared with three for the visitors, while Chase consistently outpunted Cragan.

Freshman Football Hopes

At the time this article is being written (Oct. 10), comparatively little is known about the members of the incoming class, but the turnout for football practise on Sept. 23 was impressive enough for the "Evening Bulletin" to comment as follows: "Forty-eight of the biggest and most capable looking Freshmen football players to report at Brown since the class of 1928 roster produced Dick Gurney, Nelson Jones, Johnny Getz, Roy Randall, Hal and Don Morey, Paul Edes, Thurt Towle and Bump Hadley turned out at the first call, and a score more are expected to report later." From all appearances, Coach Arthur D. Kahler, who is beginning his first year at Brown, will have a wealth of material available, and already Bruin supporters are looking for a fine 1935 team.

The players come from widely scattered places, although several are from Rhode Island. Edwin Gammons, who weighs 200, a candidate for guard, coming from Tabor; Wm. Broomhead, from Exeter; Rex Coman and Bill Hall from Moses Brown; Guy Burt, Cranston High; Matt Ward, Technical High; John Considine from Hope High; and the Romano brothers, Frank and "Tedo," who attended Roxbury last year are the Rhode Island representatives. Coman was all-state halfback in 1929, while the Romanos, who weigh 185 and 200 respectively, played for North Kingstown.

The biggest man on the squad, and the one who came the longest distance, is Bill Kroll. Kroll, whose home is in Piedmont, Cal. weighs 236, is 6 feet 3 inches tall, plays tackle and attended Montezuma school. George Lear, from Mercersburg, who weighs 191, Gabriel Ferry from Bridgeton Academy, 188, Rupert Stern from Milford, 188, Roger Offen, 185, from Waterbury, and N. H. Ryerson, 194, from Worcester Academy are the leading aspirants for the guard positions. For end, there are Frank Romano and Broomhead, Edward G. Crosby and Gordon McMillan, both from Milwaukee and both coming to Brown from Exeter and Don Reed, captain of the Horace Mann School eleven last year.

The most likely looking centre candidate is Dan Fradd, from Brooklyn Poly Prep, who weighs 190, and who has been passing the ball with exceptional accuracy. Other linemen include Gordon Salmonsen, star shot-putter at Worcester, Vincent Casey and R. S. Chapin, also from Worcester, Alfred Benjamin and J. S. Harrison from Horace Mann and F. E. Felt of Winchester, Mass. Outstanding backfield candidates include, Bloomingdale, a 175-pounder; Gaudette, from Williston Academy; Corvan from Flushing; Burt, Coman, Romano, Trotta, from New Rochelle; Groce from Mercersburg, Henshaw from Pomfret and Karaban, heralded as the best football player produced in the Naugatuck Valley in years. Sure an imposing array of giants, and a group which ought, if it stays in college, to furnish excellent material for the 1932 'Varsity team.

A New Step in Administration

Two administrative appointments of major importance at Brown took effect with the opening of college, assigning Prof. Clinton H. Currier of the Department of Mathematics as Assistant Dean of Undergraduates and Dr. Bruce M. Bigelow of the Department of History as acting Director of Admissions.

With the two appointments the office of Dean of Freshmen is withdrawn from the administrative scheme. There will be no successor to the late Dean Kenneth O. Mason, and the office and title, which came into being in September 1922, pass out of existence. Dean Mason became director of admissions in 1929, assuming this work in addition to his duties as Dean of Freshmen wherein he succeeded W. R. Burwell.

Under the new arrangement Prof. Currier will assist Dean Samuel T. Arnold in the work of the dean's office, while Dr. Bigelow will eventually give his whole time to admissions work. He will not begin his administrative duties until the beginning of the second semester because of sabbatic absences from the History faculty.

Professor Currier, who was graduated from Brown in 1898, has been a member of the Faculty in the Department of Mathematics since graduation. Since the death of Dean Mason in October 1930, Professor Currier has been acting as assistant to the dean and as executive officer of the committee on admissions. During the past fifteen years, in addition to his work in mathematics, Professor Currier has offered courses in astronomy. In 1929 he published General Mathematics, a college text book, which has been received with general favor by many institutions in this country. Since the death of Dean Kenneth O. Mason in October 1930, Professor Currier has been acting as assistant to the Dean and as executive officer of the committee on admissions.

Dr. Bigelow was a graduate in the class of 1924. As an undergraduate his special academic interests were in the field of history. He was a member of the Junior Week and Class Day Committees of his class. He was President-Manager of the Brown Orchestra, a member of the Interfraternity Governing Board and president of his fraternity, Phi Sigma Kappa, during his Senior year. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

He continued with graduate study in the field of history. During 1924-25 he was assistant in history at Brown. During 1926-27 and 1927-28 he was an instructor in history at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He received his A M. from Harvard in 1927. He was awarded a Henry D. Sharpe Fellowship in history at Brown in 1928-29 and 1929-30 and completed his graduate work for the doctorate in June, 1930. His thesis study was entitled, "The Commerce of Rhode Island with the West Indies before the American Revolution." During the academic year 1930-31 he was instructor in history at Brown.

The 1924 Liber said of him: "Courteous, studious, efficient — that's Bruce."

Alumni News of All Sorts

An Alumni Fund Increase

WITH an increase of more than 200 individual contributors over those of the last two years and with an amount received which is the largest in six years, the trustees of the Brown Alumni Fund have this month issued copies of their 17th annual report. A copy of a congratulatory letter from President Barbour, accompanying each report, expresses satisfaction with the progress in "a year that for many institutions has seen diminishing rather than increasing returns." The report contains a list of all who have contributed to the fund over a 10-year period, comparable to a roll for the previous decade which hangs in the John Hay Library.

According to the chairman of the fund, Henry G. Clark '07, the fund turned $36,357.07 over to the University this year, having received $40,330.39. Contributions accumulated by the classes of 1904 and 1906 are in large measure responsible for the increase over the $23,000 of the previous two years, a figure which the regular contributions this year have approximated. Although more than 200 men were obliged to omit their usual donation this year, new subscribers brought the total up to 1345 individuals. These totals do not, however, compare as favorably with those of several years ago with respect to the number of contributors. The amount received, on the other hand, has been exceeded only three times in the 16 previous reports.

Again the class of 1859 leads all the others in its per capita record, Dr. W. W. Keen continuing to keep his class represented 100 per cent. The classes of of 1884, 1879, 1876, and 1885 also have high percentages. With 60 and 59 members contributing respectively, the classes of 1904 and 1911 stand numerically first. The largest sums have come from 1906, 1897, and 1904 in the order named.

The trustees of the fund include the following: Mr. Clark, Hermon C. Bumpus '84, Chester A. Cook '91, Dennis F. O'Brien '98, Hunter S. Marston '08, Thomas B. Appleget '17, and ex-officio members James S. Allen '98, Edward K. Aldrich, Jr., '02, treasurer, and William B. Farnsworth '17, secretary.

The roster of class agents is as follows: 1859—Dr. W. W. Keen; 1868—William E. Lincoln; 1870—Dr. William T. Peck; 1871—Adams P. Carroll; 1872—William V. Kellen; 1873—Frank B. Bourne; 1874—Frank E. Rockwood; 1876—Edmund Wood; 1877—Dr. F. P. Capron; 1878—Alfred U. Eddy; 1880—Charles R. Adams; 1881—George F. Bean; 1882—Frederick L. Gamage; 1883—Howard W. Preston; 1884—H. C. Bumpus; 1885—Frank H. Brown; 1886—William Allan Dyer; 1887—John Henshaw; 1888—Arthur P. Johnson; 1889—Lauriston H. Hazard; 1890—Harry L. Grant; 1891—Edwin A. Barrows; 1892—Charles H. Merriman; 1893—J. D. E. Jones; 1894—Joseph W. Lewis; 1895—John A. Tillinghast; 1896—John S. Murdock; 1897—Arthur M. Allen; 1898—Dennis F. O'Brien; 1899—Edward A. Stockwell; 1900—Roscoe M. Dexter; 1901—Henry C. Hart; 1902—Arthur W. Pinkham; 1903—A. L. Philbrick; 1904—Foster B. Davis; 1905—W. G. Meader; 1906—Elliot G. Parkhurst; 1907—Claude R. Branch and George Hurley; 1908—Benson R. Frost; 1909—Raymond Buss; 1910—Elmer S. Horton; 1911—Brenton G. Smith; 1912—Royal W. Leith; 1913—James H. Readio, Jr.; 1914—C. Louis Bagnall; 1915—William P. Sheffield; 1916—William A. Graham; 1917—William B. Farnsworth; 1918—Wardwell C. Leonard; 1919—James S. Eastham; 1920—Bruce N. Coulter; 1921—Alfred Mochau and Frank O. Green; 1922—Chapin S. Newhard; 1923—William B. McCormick and Lawrence Lanpher; 1924—Wesley B. Hayward; 1925—Shirley Elsbree; 1926—Fred H. Rohlfs; 1927—Gardner C. Hudson; 1928—Leslie T. Chase and Nelson B. Jones, Jr.; 1929—E. R. Rand; 1930—L. Metcalf Walling.

Sackett and the Moratorium

THE Boston Herald in an editorial on June 26, last, gave high praise to Frederic M. Sackett '90, for his work as ambassador of the United States to Germany. "In a relatively short time," the Herald said, "Mr. Sackett has become a genuine master of an intricate and difficult situation. He was of great service in the exchange which took place across the Atlantic, mainly by telephone, preceding the proposal of the moratorium. He demonstrated conclusively that he was equipped to advise and confer as one who 'knew his stuff'. This must mean that he has been sedulous in his study of the vast complications which engaged his attention when he arrived at his post. We are glad to hail him as a New England product, born in Rhode Island and educated at Brown and Harvard."

The columnists had great fun with the Ambassador's statement that he resorted to slang when conferring with Mellon and Hoover by transatlantic telephone, so that possible listeners-in would not understand them. Frank Sullivan was one who played with the idea.

"Say, chief," Carlyle Holt of the N. A. N. A. imagined Mr. Sackett remarking, "these sauerkrauts are sunk unless we feed 'em a little hop. Get me? What I mean is they'll be eating snowballs next winter if we don't come across with some kale. They gotta have dough, understand?" And so the moratorium was declared.

* * *

Half-Brother of Four Marxes

ONCE a year the Four Marx Brothers make a movie which usually makes money and merriment. As anyone who has seen Groucho, Chico, Harpo and Zeppo knows, their talents are peculiar to say the least. It wouldn't be everyone who would dare encourage them or assist them. But then Sidney J. Perelman '25, isn't everyone, and so he went all the way to Hollywood, or wherever it is they make moving pictures, just in order to tell the Four Marx Brothers what he thought it would be funny for them to do in making their annual movie for 1931.

That movie, "Monkey Business," has been one of the popular successes of the new season. It was written by the former Brown Jug editor in collaboration with Will B. Johnstone.

This is not the first time that Perelman and a Marx Brother have assisted each other. When Perelman stopped working on Judge drawings long enough to write "Dawn Ginsberg's Revenge," he sought endorsements from various comedians. Groucho Marx sent him two, one of which was the classic of the list.

It ran: "This book will always be a first edition."

Because it might be taken seriously by some book collectors, publishers did not use it. Groucho's other endorsement was used. It read: "From the moment I picked this book up until I laid it down, I was convulsed with laughter. Some day I intend to read it."

Requirements for the Bar

BROWN received an unusual compliment this summer when new requirements were drawn up which shall hereafter govern candidates seeking admission to the Rhode Island bar. The rules specifically cite the University's education as a standard by which the applicant's preparation may be measured. Instead of leaving the requirement vague, as is done in some states, the Board of Bar Examiners in Rhode Island phrased it as follows, asking of the candidate:

"That he has satisfactorily completed two full years' study in some college or university approved by the Board of Bar Examiners and has passed the required examinations necessary to continue his third collegiate year in such institution; or that he has received an education equivalent to that required for the satisfactory completion of two years of study as a regular student in Brown University."

The new requirements, conforming with a policy recommended by the American Bar Association, seek to insure good moral character in the aspirants, a good liberal education and a sound background in knowledge of the law. They were made public by James C. Collins '92, chairman of the board. Three of the four other members of that group are also Brown alumni: Chauncey E. Wheeler '09, the secretary, John A. Tillinghast '95, and Fred B. Perkins '19.

* * *

A Rhode Island Dinner

All alumni of Brown who live in Rhode Island will be invited to the University campus to attend a regional dinner now being arranged for some time in January. While plans are fairly well under way, they will not be announced until details are determined more positively.

For a number of years Rhode Island alumni have complained that they have no such annual assembly as the New York dinner or the Boston dinner. Occasional football banquets or academic testimonials have been enjoyed but come irregularly. Now the Brown Club of Providence, working in conjunction with the Brown Clubs in Woonsocket and Newport, proposes a dinner somewhat different from any of those referred to but which shall attract, the large number of alumni who live in Rhode Island. The project is designed to foster the regional solidarity of Brown men as is being encouraged by the Associated Alumni's regional plan.

* * *

In Honor of Dr. Kraus

Associates and former students of Dr. Charles A. Kraus, research professor of chemistry at Brown University, met to honor him in Buffalo the night of September 1, giving him a testimonial dinner in connection with the convention of the American Chemical Society. As one of the country's leading research chemists, Dr. Kraus has long been an active member of that society.

Dean Samuel T. Arnold and Prof. Robert F. Chambers, both associates of Dr. Kraus in the Department of Chemistry at Brown, were scheduled speakers, while the arrangements were handled by Prof. Warren C. Johnson of the University of Chicago and Prof. Ralph H. Bullard of Hobart College, both former students of the guest of honor.

A graduate of the University of Kansas in 1898, Dr. Kraus has been a member of the Brown faculty since September, 1924. He came to Brown from Clark University, where he had taught for 10 years. In 1923 he received the Nichols' Medal for his pioneer researches dealing with the properties of solution in liquid ammonia. In 1930 he made a tour of the country in the interests of the American Chemical Society.

* * *

For Pembroke Non-Smokers

Non-smoking and upright students selected by the faculty of Pembroke College are to receive the benefit of a $500 bequest from the estate of Dr. Howard Clifton Jewett '81, who died at his home in Haverhill, Mass., on the last day of July this year. The late physician wished the names of Harriett Rogers Jewett and Harriett Leonard Jewett, his mother and sister, to be associated with the fund.

Born in Rowley, Mass., Oct. 11, 1858, Mr. Jewett came to Brown from the Haverhill High School, taking an A.M. in 1889 in addition to his A.B. in 1881. He also earned the degree of M.D. in 1888 at the Homeopathic Medical College and Hospital, New York. He was a member of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical Society and the American Institute of Homeopathy, as well as a member of the United Order of Pilgrim Fathers.

"A quaint personage, faithful to all the obligations of life, almost painfully conscientious but tolerant of the faults of others," one of the University Trustees described Dr. Jewett a few years ago. "The change in Brown's charter troubled him, for he considered Baptist control a sacred obligation, but he is as devoted a Son of Brown as the dear old lady has. His college course has been, I think, the Great Adventure of his life."

* * *

Mr. Wheeler's Five Years

JOSEPH L. WHEELER '06, went to work one morning last July and found a testimonial and some flowers waiting for him. They were from his staff at the Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore in recognition of his five years as librarian of that great institution. The incident prompted every Baltimore newspaper to compliment Mr. Wheeler editorially for the work he had done.

"There was only one thing wrong with the tribute," said the Post. "It should have come not only from the library staff but from the entire city of Baltimore."

More than 250,000 readers patronize the central building and the 27 neighborhood branches of the Enoch Pratt Library. There in five year's time Mr. Wheeler has speeded up the purchase and preparation of new books and has so simplified the borrowing methods that the library's circulation has increased 130 per cent. The "unit" cost of the service has fallen from 28 cents in 1926, the highest in the United States, to 17 cents, the national average. Among other accomplishments have been the planning of a new central building, soon to be erected, the establishment of an eight-month training course in library work, as well as a summer course in Johns Hopkins University, and the preparation of a historical and literary pictorial map of Maryland.

"How Mr. Wheeler has managed to accomplish his ends we don't pretend to know," said the Evening Sun, which believed he had "still more miracles up his sleeve." The News pointed to the offices he had held in various national organizations.

"These have been memorable years indeed," said the testimonial from the staff "You have won the confidence and support of the whole community and have arrested the attention of the library world at large. You have reorganized our system throughout, have made invaluable additions to our Staff, and have given the people of Baltimore an efficient and economical library service that ranks with the foremost in the country. You have planned a new building that promises to be epoch-making in the construction of libraries. And in all, you have manifested a selfless devotion and a creative vision which have been an unfailing source of inspiration to us, your fellow-workers."

* * *

With the Composer Conducting

After conducting a composition of his own that the Herald-Tribune was to find "unabashedly tuneful, appealing, and adroitly scored," Allan Lincoln Langley '14, turned around one night last summer to receive the hearty applause of the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra and some 10,000 persons in the audience at the Lewisohn Stadium in New York City. Mr. Langley was a viola player for several years in the Philharmonic and has conducted it in his waltzes in previous Stadium seasons. On this particular night he had contributed his "Pastorale" to a program of American music.

"Someone has called Langley the 'new American waltz king'," wrote R. A S., the music critic of the New Yorker, in 1925, "but no matter. Johann himself survived such an epithet. Mr Langley's waltzes are in the manner of Strauss but they are not Strauss strained through correspondence school instrumentation. The Langley waltzes are so melodic that we wonder why some musical comedy producer doesn't hitch him to a contract, and his orchestration is for symphonic performance more effective than the delightful Johann's."

Mr. Langley has written some two score symphonic waltzes, nearly twenty of which have had performance by important orchestras. He has made a special study of this music form, and one waltz, "The Immortals," played by the Philharmonic in 1923, was called the best American composition of the Stadium season. It was a tribute to six waltz composers, written in part in their respective styles

He has been studying music since he was eight years old At Brown he led the orchestra At the New England Conservatory he played in the string quartette before joining the National Symphony Orchestra under Bodanzky. His writings (he was 1914's class poet) have appeared in The Nation, The American Mercury, the Musical Quarterly, The Liberator, and other publications. His first composition which attracted attention publicly was a march he wrote for the Boston Symphony "Pops" while he was still a conservatory student. At present he is working on his second symphony in New York.

Mr. Langley is the brother of Howard Langley '15, and the son of the late Alfred G. Langley '76, of Newport.

* * *

Outstanding in Biography

Brown University's connection with the Dictionary of American Biography was strikingly brought out in an editorial in the Providence Sunday Journal which praised the work of Dr. Harris E. Starr '97, as associate editor of this considerable and authoritative undertaking. Dr. Starr, who had degrees from Harvard and Yale after his graduation from Brown, is next in command over the project under Dr. Dumas Malone, who succeeds the late Dr. Allen Johnson.

The Dictionary of American Biography is sponsored by the American Council of Learned Societies Its permanent secretary and directing executive, Dr. Waldo G. Leland '00, recently had the following to say of his fellow alumnus: "Dr. Starr's interest in literary history and biography led him to devote much time to research, and his life of William Graham Sumner (1925) is an outstanding work in the field of intellectual biography. He was invited to the principal position on the staff of the Dictionary by Dr. Johnson in 1926 and has rendered the greatest services to the undertaking. His contributions to the contents of the Dictionary, signed H. E. S., have been marked by lucidity of thought and style, and by unerring judgment and sense of values. His article on Henry Ward Beecher in Volume II was pronounced by reviewers to be one of the best short biographies ever written."

Lawrence C. Wroth, librarian of the John Carter Brown Library, and a number of members of the University faculty have contributed to the Dictionary. The chairman of the Council's committee on publications is Dr. J. Franklin Jameson, professor of history at Brown from 1888 to 1901.

* * *

Zeta Psi's Convention

The 84th annual convention of the Zeta Psi Fraternity of North America was held at Watch Hill, June 25 to 27 with representatives of the 30 chapters present. The Zeta Psi Association of Rhode Island and the Epsilon Chapter of Brown were hosts to the delegates, arranging golf, tennis, swimming, a shore dinner, a sail, smoker and banquet to relieve the seriousness of the convention business.

Wright D. Heydon '11, was elected national secretary of the fraternity, while Judge James I. Shepard '14, will be a trustee on the national board as Epsilon's representative. The committee in charge of the convention was composed of Newton P. Hutchison '05, chairman; Mr Heydon; Judge Shepard; F. A. Vose '99; James O. Otis '97; George C. Hull '18; Asa L. Briggs '04; Herbert K. Sturdy, Jr., '09; Prof. Fred W. Marvel '94 and Alfred K. Potter '02. Mr. Hutchison was toastmaster at the banquet.

Chiefly Concerning the Campus

Sock and Buskin Ambitions

No undergraduate organization is more excited about its new quarters in Faunce House than Sock and Buskin. "At last" writes Franklin V. Taylor, the president of the dramatic society, "Sock and Buskin has come into its own." With a remarkably complete working unit now provided, it looks forward to the dedicatory season with uncommon interest.

For the audiences there have been provided a comfortable auditorium capable of seating 360, box office service, entrance hallway, cloakroom and lounge. For those backstage the new theatre offers ample dressing rooms, green room, a large stage and up-to-date equipment. Plays now can be rehearsed and presented without the handicap of makeshift facilities. Naturally in this fresh grandeur the society is eager to acquit itself well during this first season and especially in its first production.

That opening production, announced for the 28th of this month, will be "The Merchant of Venice," now in rehearsal under the direction of Professor Thomas Crosby, founder and honorary president of the organization. Professor Ben W. Brown is again acting as supervising director for the year. Sock and Buskin will continue its policy, initiated last season of assigning all feminine roles to guest artists from the Komians of Pembroke College, The Players of Providence and other groups.

More than in recent seasons, Sock and Buskin will this year venture into the field of contemporary writing for a play or two, although the classical drama still has its important place in the properly ambitious schedule set before the society. Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus" will be presented in December, while major bills for the rest of the season will be selected from "The Adding Machine," "Hinckleman," "The Ghost Train," and Masefield's "Good Friday."

The Alumni Association of Sock and Buskin again appears on the year's billing. This group, which has successfully performed "East Lynne," "Ghosts," "The Lady of Lyons," and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has decided upon "The Two Orphans" for its production, at present promised for January. Laboratory bills of one-act plays and the performance of original plays by undergraduates will further supplement the program of the society, with other productions, readings, and lectures insofar as finances permit.

"Sock and Buskin is entirely dependent upon the goodwill of its subscribers."

* * *

An Economics Fellowship

The Dean of the Graduate School of Brown University announces that Mr. Lewis S. Milner, of the Class of 1902, has provided a fellowship for graduate study in Economics for the academic year 1931-32.

Mr Victor Abramson of West Virginia University and Brown University has been appointed to this fellowship to continue his work for the doctorate in the field of Economics. Mr. Abramson is a graduate of West Virginia University in the class of 1929. During the academic year 1929-30 and 1930-31 Mr. Abramson pursued graduate study at Brown as an Assistant in the Department of Economics. He received the Degree of A M. from Brown University in June 1931.

* * *

For the 1935 Men

The exacting task of welcoming more than 400 aspirants to the Freshman Class was fulfilled cordially and efficiently this year with the B. C. A., the Union, the office of the Student Counsellor, and University officials cooperating more than ever before.

Members of the incoming class were met at the Union Depot and the boat terminals by members of a Freshman Week Committee. The downtown information bureaus were complemented by a larger bureau in Faunce House where upperclassmen answered questions about rooms, jobs, campus customs, etc. A revised freshman handbook was presented to the new men.

A mixer and smoker which Governor Case, Mayor Dunne and University officers addressed, a buffet supper with talks by prominent undergraduates and the football coach, orientation lectures, a special football scrimmage at Aldrich Field, and a week end at Camp Yawgoog, the boy scout reservation near Hope Valley,— these were some of the entertainments planned to vary the rigors of exams and registration. The Faculty tendered the freshmen a reception after the opening of college.

* * *

When Engineers Convene

Brown was to be the host to members of the New England Section, Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education in its fall meeting this month. Guest speakers were to include Harvey N. Davis '01, President of Stevens Institute of Technology, Prof. Will S. Taylor of the Department of Art, and Vice President Mead. Prof. James A. Hall of the Division of Engineering at Brown is secretary of the section.

President Davis is a firm believer in "the unspecialized curriculum in engineering," putting special emphasis at Stevens on training for the executive function in prospective engineers. He favors an engineering curriculum which includes "an appropriate amount" of history, literature, economics, psychology, and even music and art.

* * *

On the Engineering Council

Harvey Davis '01, President of Stevens Institute of Technology, is one of the three Brown men on the new council of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which will meet next December. He shares the honor with H. R. Westcott '11n, and Eugene W. O'Brien '19. Except Purdue, which has three graduates on the council, no other college is as well represented among its 22 members.

Marble and the Third

Wiley H. Marble '12, is once again president of the Society of the Third Division (U. S. A., A. E. F.) with which he fought in France as an officer in the Sixth U. S. Engineers. He has been a national officer of the society ten years, has presided at nine conventions and has been president eight years. He also has been associate editor of the Watch on the Rhine, the official publication of the society, since 1924, with editorials and the book column as his special hobbies. It is one of the best papers of its kind, and is believed to have had the longest sustained existence of any of the papers started by the A. E. F. in France and Germany after the armistice in 1918.

* * *

The Scholarship Averages

THE computation of scholastic gradings for 1930-1931 has been completed by the dean's office, and again the members of Brown fraternities appear at a marked disadvantage in comparison with non-fraternity men. Only five fraternities have averages above the college mean, while the average of all non-fraternity men is higher than that even of the fraternity with the best record. Non-fraternity men, 633 in all, received academic rankings that average 2.495, as compared with the 736 fraternity men who averaged 2.103. The college average was 2.284

For the third time in as many years, Sigma Phi Sigma, one of the youngest of all fraternities at Brown, led all the other groups of fraternity men. Pi Lambda Phi, also a newly organized body, was second, as it was in 1929-1930. Three other fraternities, Zeta Psi, Kappa Sigma and Beta Theta Pi, were above the average for the college as a whole.

The figures announced by Dean Arnold follow:

Name	Average	Members
Sigma Phi Sigma	2.465	24
Pi Lambda Phi	2.349	33
Zeta Psi	2.308	39
Kappa Sigma	2.294	41
Beta Theta Pi	2.286	40
College	2.284
Phi Sigma Kappa	2.237	39
Phi Gamma Delta	2.178	51
Lambda Chi Alpha	2.175	30
Alpha Tau Omega	2.144	39
Sigma Nu	2.104	22
Fraternity	2.103
Theta Delta Chi	2.086	34
Delta Upsilon	2.073	38
Phi Kappa Psi	2.060	45
Alpha Delta Phi	2.033	41
Sigma Chi	1.987	32
Phi Delta Theta	1.957	41
Delta Phi	1.943	20
Delta Tau Delta	1.910	39
Psi Upsilon	1.831	38
Delta Kappa Epsilon	1.747	42

RELATIVE STANDINGS

	1928–1929	1929–1930	1930–1931
Alpha Delta Phi	19	16	14
Alpha Tau Omega	8	7	9
Beta Theta Pi	4	5	5
Delta Kappa Epsilon	20	20	20
Delta Phi	18	17	17
Delta Tau Delta	13	12	18
Delta Upsilon	9	4	12
Kappa Sigma	7	6	4
Lambda Chi Alpha	12	8	8
Phi Delta Theta	11	11	16
Phi Gamma Delta	10	13	7
Phi Kappa	2	..	.
Phi Kappa Psi	16	14	13
Phi Sigma Kappa	3	3	6
Pi Lambda Phi	...	2	2
Psi Upsilon	15	19	19
Sigma Chi	14	15	15
Sigma Nu	6	18	10
Sigma Phi Sigma	1	1	1
Theta Delta Chi	17	10	11
Zeta Psi	5	9	3

A John Carter Brown Treasure

A FACSIMILE of one of the world's rarest books, the "Libretto de tutta la Navigatione de Re de Spagna," (Venice, 1504) has been issued in Paris this past summer, according to an announcement from the John Carter Brown Library, from whose complete copy of the book the original plates were made. The book is known to exist in only two copies, of which the other, the copy in the Biblioteca Marciana of Venice, lacks its first leaf, containing the title of the work.

This distinguished American work is described in the introduction to the present facsimile as "the first collection of voyages ever printed, the first published relation of the third voyage and of a part of the second voyage of Columbus, and the first edition of the first book by the earliest historian of America. . . (that is) the editio princeps of the First Decade of Peter Martyr, which in its original Latin form did not appear in print until 1511."

This book is described in several important works, including John Boyd Thacher's "Christopher Columbus," II. 438-514, where it is reprinted in facsimile with a full introduction. That facsimile was made, however, from the Marciana copy.

The Champion facsimile was produced in Europe by the collotype process from photographic plates made by the John Carter Brown Library, whose announcement vouches for an "extraordinary fidelity to the typographical features of the original work." A description by Lawrence C. Wroth, librarian of the John Carter Brown, serves to introduce the facsimile, which occupies 31 quarto pages.

The library is able to supply a limited number of copies of the publication, the price being $3.50 postpaid.

* * *

Still on the Courts

F. H. Hovey '90, was a participant in the dedication of the new tennis courts at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., early in the summer. Hovey was champion of the United States at the time Richard Stevens, to whom the courts are a memorial, was a player and an ardent advocate of the game.

* * *

Notes of the New Year

WHILE official registration totals were incomplete, the expectation early in October was that the University enrollment would be slightly under that of 1366 men undergraduates in 1929-1930. The freshman class was a little smaller than last year, despite expectations to the contrary last June.

The Cammarian Club voted to allow Freshmen to wear knickers, but otherwise the rules this year are similar to last year's: No member of the class of 1935 shall smoke on the campus, walk on the grass, or wear prep-school insignia of any kind. All Freshmen must sit together at football games and respect those whom the Herald referred to as "the great upper classmen."

The Brown Daily Herald's first issue, 14 pages in extent, is believed the largest ordinary paper it has ever published.

Brown Alumni Monthly

Published at Brown University by the Associated Alumni

HENRY S CHAFEE, '09
Managing Director

CHESLEY WORTHINGTON, '23
Managing Editor

ARTHUR BRAITSCH, '23
Business Manager

ALFRED H GURNEY, '07
Secretary

LOUIS B PALMER, '28
News Editor

GERTRUDE ALLEN McCONNELL, '10
Pembroke Correspondent

HENRY G CLARK, '07
For the Alumni Fund

Subscriptions, $2 a year Single copies, 25 cents
There is no issue during August or September

Entered at the Providence Post Office as second class matter

Vol. XXXII OCTOBER, 1931 No. 3

LASTING EVIDENCE

EVERY friend of Brown who has paid a visit to Faunce House on or since the day of dedication must feel an enormous satisfaction not only in the physical building but in the act of memorial it will continue to be. Brown has new cause for gratitude to the donor, who, while erasing his family name from a part of the building, will not be forgotten. The love and esteem we bore Dr. Faunce now has a magnificent, lasting evidence, and Mr. Rockefeller's self-effacing generosity makes it possible for all of us somehow to share in that token of remembrance as well as the feeling which prompted it.

* * *

A BLOODY FRAY INDEED

"COLLEGE spirit took a sharp rise yesterday," wrote one of the Daily Herald's increasing corps of columnists on the morning after the 1931 flag rush. It was sarcasm, of course, his vision of a return to a glorious, pugnacious past. His mock jubilation was based on the fact that this year eight sophomores had condescended to do valiant if brief battle against some eighty freshman attackers. It was a gain of eight sophomores, for in 1930 there had been none at all at the flag rush, so that the freshmen had to choose up sides and wage important intra-class combat.

Class spirit? One either smiles or regrets, according to the point of view and the year of graduation. Cane fights, class banquets, gate rushes, mass football, chapel rushes — they are become quaint relics, what the alumnus talks to undergraduates about when he offers the inevitable preface, "In our time...." Now it appears that the flag rush, too, is to be stuffed and put under glass in the curio case. Flag rushes are "collegiate," and only prep school kids are collegiate nowadays

There is no point in wondering or in seeking a cause. No outsider can vulcanize a tradition with a view to blowing it up again. There is no use in "speaking to the boys" about it. Such things are to be accepted without protest from another generation — even a college generation. But we are permitted a simple, homely thought, if we keep it to ourselves: they're missing some fun.... a whole lot of fun.

* * *

FRATERNITY FLUNKING

THE matter of scholarship in the fraternities is no new concern to the University authorities or to the chapter counsellors, and Dean Arnold's latest compilation of averages will afford them only mild encouragement if any. True the fraternity average is higher than in 1929-1930, but since the non-fraternity and the whole college averages were also better the relative position is no more satisfactory. Indeed, the statistics for 1930-1931, published elsewhere in this issue, show that not even Sigma Phi Sigma, the ranking fraternity for three successive years, comes up to the average record of the non-fraternity men. Five fraternities — last time there were three — surpass the college mean.

Naturally the fraternity system comes in for criticism. The psychological tests given at Brown over a period of years have indicated that the students who join fraternities are as liberally endowed with intelligence as those who do not. Yet the non-fraternity scholastic average has consistently improved over a period of ten years while the fraternity average has rested constant.

In the presence of such a trend there seems ample reason for the recent faculty action in assigning a minimum of 1.4 which an undergraduate must attain before he is eligible for initiation into any fraternity. This mark, the equivalent of three D's and two C's is in addition to the passing of twelve semester hours. It seems a ridiculously low minimum, especially when the average demanded for a Brown degree is 1.7. Some of the fraternities have independently imposed the latter minimum as their own, with what effect it will be interesting to see.

The obvious general exhortation to fraternity men will do nothing toward curing an embarrassing situation. The real solution must be derived from within each chapter house.

* * *

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES

ALL WHO know Professor Currier and Dr. Bigelow seem convinced that the University makes no mistake in appointing them to the positions of Assistant Dean of Undergraduates and Director of Admissions respectively. They are well qualified in a number of respects for the important work that is to be theirs.

With these appointments the joint office held by the late Professor Mason passes from the administrative scheme. In him admitter and counsellor of freshmen were one, an ideal arrangement in theory, for it is appropriate that the man responsible for a student's entering Brown should watch with him during the critical first year. In practice, however, the dual responsibility has not been wholly successful. A Dean of Freshmen, tied to the campus for obvious reasons, is unable to travel much, to make the contacts with preparatory and high schools in person, to meet subfreshmen before they came to Providence.

The division of these offices (with Professor Currier becoming Assistant Dean instead of Dean of Freshmen after an appreciated term as successor to Professor Mason's responsibilities) now leaves the Director of Admissions free for the necessary amount of field work. When he takes up his post actively in the second semester, Dr. Bigelow intends to devote a substantial part of his time to such travel on behalf of future Brown classes.

He was right when he told a group of alumni recently that Brown was not getting the men she deserves. Even Providence alumni, he said, would be amazed if they only knew what marked improvements had been made in the equipment, personnel and spirit on the Hill, for one has constantly to be on the campus to realize wholly what advances have been effected. If even local alumni are not aware of the full fine strength of their university, it is not to be expected, he said, that outsiders will be more familiar. Brown's reputation among preparatory and high school boys stands high but not as high as her worthiness would merit. It will be his commission in part to make even more favorable revisions in that reputation. In a number of instances he will be dependent upon alumni assistance, and we know it will be forthcoming.

* * *

BY FORCE OF NUMBERS

IT IS not given to every alumnus to do handsomely for the University which has so many firm claims upon his allegiance. Brown is fortunate in the sons who can and do bestow magnificently upon her, but there are far more who are permitted no such satisfaction because of their calling, their youth, or their estate in the world. It is to the latter that the Alumni Fund comes as a welcome opportunity to give humbly and gratefully as they can. As the recent annual report, summarized elsewhere this month, gives proof, an increasing number of Brown men have been happy in this opportunity, which gains strength and usefulness from force of numbers.

* * *

A PRESIDENT ON LEAVE

DR. BARBOUR took with him the good wishes of the University when he left on his mission for missions. Now as he nears the scene of his inquiries in the East the thoughts of Brown men are still with him. He has promised to keep in constant touch with Brown, and the Alumni Monthly is to be privileged to pass on to its readers the journal, the impressions, and the messages of the President. It was proper that he should open the academic year and honor his predecessor at the dedicatory exercises in Faunce House before he left. He will be equally punctilious in returning to Providence in time to preside at Commencement.

Activities of the Brown Clubs

NEW YORK

THE New York Brown Club has begun a new year which gives promise of being even more active than last year. Joe O'Neil '31 has taken up his duties as executive secretary, and his presence at the Hotel Wentworth all the time is calculated to be an inducement to out-of-town as well as local alumni to visit the club regularly. Indeed, many alumni already have made Joe's acquaintance and have had dinner with him at the Wentworth.

The club opened its year officially on Sept. 12 with a luncheon to the Freshmen entering Brown from the metropolitan district. Nearly a hundred sought to enter Brown from this area. President Dennis F. O'Brien '98, gave the greetings of the club to the newcomers, and Jeremiah Holmes '02, assistant to the president, introduced each Freshman and spoke briefly. Others on the program were Paul F. Mackesey '32, captain of the football eleven (and a fine piano player), W. Lincoln Fogarty '31, last year's football leader, and Secretary O'Neil. The principal speaker was William R. Dorman '92, a Trustee of the University, who served as chairman of the committee which cooperates with the Director of Admissions on the Hill by interviewing all applicants from this district. The singing was under the direction of J. N. Micucci '31, former head cheer leader.

The second important affair of the season was the reception and tea given on Sept. 28 in honor of President Barbour and Mrs. Barbour, in New York on their way to Asia, where Dr. Barbour will be a member of the committee to study and appraise missions. The alumni and their wives were invited to the tea, which took place from 5 to 6:30 o'clock. Dinner was served afterward for all who cared to stay. The guests of honor were Dr. Barbour and Mrs. Barbour, Prof. Rufus M. Jones of Haverford, an Alumni Trustee, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Betts, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Scott.

The membership committee is planning an earnest campaign for new members, based upon the year of unusual activity just closed and the benefits accruing from this activity. The committee is made up of Jeffrey S. Granger '13, chairman, W. R. Burgess '12, Jeremiah Holmes '02, A. N. MacDougall '20, Hoey Hennessy '12n, C. E. Hughes, Jr., '09, Hunter S. Marston '08, and Kenneth A. O'Brien '28.

The weekly luncheons (Thursdays) are still very popular. They merit the support of all Brown men in New York area.

Brunonians Far and Near

By A. H. GURNEY

Faculty

Professor Charles W. Brown of the Department of Geology has been chosen a member of the Advisory Council of the Peabody Museum, Yale University.

Professor A. F. Hinrichs of the Department of Mathematics was the author of an article in the July number of the Atlantic Monthly, entitled, "Russia's Challenge to America." As one commentator said: "Not a challenge to rivalry for world economic supremacy so much as a stimulus to industrial planning. And especially planning with an objective."

Professor James B. Hedges, the new George L. Littlefield Professor of American History, will give a course in American history at Clark University next year.

Dr. Henry B. Van Hoesen, the University librarian, was a member of the summer school Faculty of the Graduate Library School of the University of Chicago, where he offered a course in bibliography.

Professor Ben W. Brown of the English Department lectured on the drama at the summer school of the University of Vermont, and Professors Sharon Brown and George K. Anderson, also of the English Department, were on the Faculty of the Bread Loaf School of English, Middlebury, Vt.

Professor N. H. Engle of the Department of Economics, who came from the University of Michigan last year to take the place of Professor Hugh B. Killough, now back at the University after a leave of absence, is a member of the research staff of the Census of Distribution, Department of Commerce, Washington.

Robert E. L. Faris of the University of Chicago has joined the Faculty as an instructor in sociology. He succeeds Professor Harold A. Phelps who resigned after the close of the college year to become Professor of Sociology and Assistant Director of Graduate Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh.

William R. Benford, instructor in civil engineering, is secretary-treasurer of the Providence Section, American Society of Civil Engineers, for the current year.

Professor W. H. Kenerson of the Division of Engineering has resumed his duties after having been absent during the last semester of the academic year, 1930-31. He spent most of the time in California and Hawaii.

Professor Albert K. Potter of the English Department, and Professor J. B. Botsford of the Department of History, who are on leave during the first semester, are at present in England. Professor Botsford is continuing his studies of 18th century English history and is also at work on a biography of Sir Robert Walpole.

HARVEY N. DAVIS, '01
President of Steven's Institute of Technology
Speaker at Engineering Convention on Brown Campus

Professor C. J. Ducasse of the Department of Philosophy taught at the summer school of the University of Chicago. Other members of the Faculty who did summer school work were: Professor George E. Bigge of the Department of Economics, at the University of Michigan, and Professor Leonard Carmichael of the Department of Psychology at Harvard.

Professor N. W. Rakestraw of the Department of Chemistry and Professor Philip H. Mitchell of the Department of Biology were engaged in research at the Woods Hole Marine Laboratory through the summer. Professor Arthur M. Banta of the Department of Biology returned to the laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., to continue research with which he has been occupied for several years.

Professor W. A. Brown, Jr., chairman of the Rhode Island Committee for the World Disarmament Conference, has made a number of radio addresses on behalf of that cause.

Everett Beatty Nelson of the University Art Department was married on Sept. 14 in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City, to Norma Gertrude Mathewson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Elmer Mathewson. Mrs. Nelson was a graduate of Pembroke College in 1926.

1874

The Troy, N. Y., Record, commenting editorially upon the bestowal of the honorary degree of D.D. upon Rev. E. W. Babcock, said: "No man in the body of Brown alumni deserves such an honor more than he. . . The verdict of his college is merely a reflection of popular opinion at home. For many years the bishop in 'Les Miserables' who won the soul of Jean Valjean from destruction by the episode of the candlesticks has been to most men an ideal of the perfect priest in human affairs. Dr. Babcock is of the same race, 'holding faith and a good conscience," and impressing his community by conduct as well as by precept."

1877

Samuel J. Bradbury continues active as a practicing physician in Lynbrook, L. I., where he served as health officer from 1912 to 1924. He is president of the Peoples National Bank & Trust Company of Lynbrook.

Dr. Guy H. Gardner, who was with the class during the Freshman year and who later received his M.D. from Harvard, is living at the Masonic Home, Manchester, N. H.

Rathbone Gardner, lawyer and civic leader, died at his summer home in Saunderstown, R. I., June 22, 1931. He was born in Providence, Feb. 18, 1856, the son of Henry Wood and Mary B. (Rathbone) Gardner. Both his paternal and maternal ancestors were among the early settlers of New England. He prepared at the Mowry & Goff Classical School and after graduation entered the law offices of Browne & Van Slyck. He continued his law studies at Boston University Law School and won admission to the Rhode Island bar in 1879. From that time to his death he was active in practice. In 1883 he became associated with Richard B. Comstock '76 under the name of Comstock and Gardner. The firm dissolved in 1905, to be succeeded by Gardner, Pirce (James A. Pirce '92) and Thornley (William H. Thornley '97). The final co-partnership had the name of Gardner, Moss (William W. Moss '94) and Haslam (Charles R. Haslam '02). Although his law practice was wide, he found time to engage in politics and in civic affairs. He began as a Republican, became an independent in State politics, and went to the Rhode Island Senate in 1906 as a Lincoln Democrat. There he fought successfully the attempt of Samuel P. Colt to win the nomination for United States Senator. In 1907, as a receiver for the Union Trust Company, he brought order out of chaos and, as president of the bank, paid all claims that he had promised to pay. He served as a member and president of the Providence Common Council, as United States District Attorney, as president of The Players, as senior warden and vestryman of Grace Church for 40 years, as president of the University Club of Providence. He belonged to the Hope Club, the Agawam Hunt Club, the University Club of New York and Psi Upsilon. He was married Jan. 1, 1880, to Sophie L. Gardner, who died many years ago. His second marriage took place Jan. 14, 1914, to Karine M. Froberg, who survives him, together with two daughters, Mrs. Royal C. Taft, Jr., and Ellen Rathbone Gardner, a son, Henry W. Gardner, and a brother, Professor Emeritus Henry Brayton Gardner '84

Dr. Henry Scudder Drake, retired, died at his home in Middleboro, Mass., on Aug. 14, 1931. He had been ill for several weeks. He was born in Middleboro, June 23, 1856, the son of Dr. Ebenezer W. Drake of the class of 1844 and Mary Elizabeth (Capen) Drake. He prepared at Pierce Academy, Middleboro, and, after receiving his degree from Brown, followed the line of his father and maternal grandfather, Dr. Robert Capen, by entering Harvard Medical School, from which he received his M.D. in 1881. He Mass., but returned in a few years to Middleboro, where he became an agent for manufacturing chemists. In this capacity he was well known to physicians of Boston and neighborhood. "He was one of the last of the early commuters between here and Boston," said the Middleboro Gazette, "being a member of a group of so-called old timers who discussed affairs of the day and played whist day in and day out during their trip to Boston. Always ready for a joke, either give or take, he made friends wherever he went." He was married Jan. 11, 1882, to Miss Mary C. Tribon, who survives him, together with two sons, Reginald W. and Malcolm C. Drake. Fred H. Williams represented the class at the funeral.

1879

Henry O. Tripp, for 53 years a teacher in the Commercial High School, Providence, retired in June. His record is as long as any in the history of the Providence school department. He possesses a loving cup, inscribed with his record of service, which his fellow teachers gave him at a dinner at the time of his retirement.

1880

Herbert Ide Keen died in Chevoires, Haute Savoie, France, July 11, 1931. He was dean of the Brown graduates living in France, a country of which he was very fond. He had been ailing seriously for several months before his death. Born in Philadelphia, Jan. 3, 1859, the son of Charles B. and Harriet (Ide) Keen, he prepared at the John Faries School in Philadelphia and at Brown was a fine student, winning election to Phi Beta Kappa. After graduation he went into business in Philadelphia, and then in Chicago, where he was associated with the Allis Chalmers Company, with mining machinery as his special field. Some years before the World War he removed to London to carry on his work as engineer. He settled in Paris after the war, and for the past seven years had been senior warden of the American Cathedral Church of Paris. He is survived by his widow, who was Elizabeth Doebler, and a daughter, Harriet Ide Keen His fraternity was Alpha Delta Phi. He was a nephew of Dr. W. W. Keen '59

1882

Edward B. Cole's address is P. O. Box 105, South Hamilton, Mass. Cole retired as president of B E. Cole Co., Inc., in 1927.

Rev. Benjamin L. Herr has changed his address from Durhamville, N. Y., where he was pastor of the Durhamville Baptist Church, to 19 Cayuga St, Homer, N. Y.

1883

Frederick E. Whittemore has retired as superintendent of schools of South Hadley and Granby, Mass., after 27 years of progressive service. He was principal of the South Hadley Falls High School, 1889-91; he returned to South Hadley as superintendent in 1904. His new address is 47 Fore River Ave., North Weymouth, Mass.

Dr. Ray Woodville Greene's death in Worcester, Mass., on July 6, 1931, re. commenced general practice in Westboro, moved a loyal alumnus, as well as a citizen who "in all good works was constantly and generously active." Greene was born in Yarmouth, Me., July 29, 1857, the son of Alvin and Maria (Arnold) Greene. He came to Brown from Worcester Academy, and from College Hill went to Harvard Medical School, from which he received his M.D. in 1886. After getting experience in the Worcester City Hospital and the Boston Lying-in Hospital he became a practicing physician in Worcester in 1887. In recent years he had specialized in pulmonary and heart diseases. His professional connections were: Visiting physician, Worcester City Hospital, from 1889; gynecologist, Memorial Hospital Dispensary, 1890-1900, visiting physician Memorial Hospital from 1900; superintendent, Worcester City Hospital, in 1902; and member of the board of trustees of the hospital from 1927. He belonged to the Worcester Medical Society, the American Medical Association, the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Doctors' Club, the Shakespeare Club, the Economic Club, the Worcester Country Club, and Delta Upsilon. His religious and philanthropic interests were broad. He was for many years active on the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A, was prominent in the councils of the Massachusetts Baptist State Convention, of which he was president two years; and a deacon of the First Baptist Church of Worcester. He represented the Brown Club of Worcester on the old Advisory Board of the Associated Alumni; in every activity "he gave freely of his skill, his shrewd judgment and his kindly heart." He was married June 2, 1892, to Mila Frances Whitney, who died April 27, 1902, leaving three children, Amy Whitney, Mila Frances and Ray W. Greene, Jr., '20. His second marriage took place Jan. 10, 1925, to Alma Melvin of Worcester, who survives him, together with the children by his first wife. His three brothers were Brown men: Rev. Benjamin A. Greene '72, Stephen Greene '73 and Albert Greene '82.

1889

Henry F. Parker now has his law office at 142 Main St., Room 202, Brockton, Mass. He is living at 14 Summer St., Kingston, Mass.

1890

Carl E. Tucker, City Judge of Niagara Falls, N Y., since 1920, announced himself in July as a candidate for another term, and there seemed no reason then why his Republican supporters should not name him to run next month. If he serves one more term, he will be entitled to an annuity as provided by the laws of New York State.

Daniel S. Jenks has changed his address from Manchester, N H., to R. F. D. No. 3, Concord, N. H.

1892

Leonard H. Campbell, teacher in the Providence public schools since September, 1892, has resigned because of continued ill health and the school authorities have received his resignation with regret. He became principal of the new Commercial High School in 1923 and held the position until his retirement.

1893

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn's son, Donald, is doing advanced work in philosophy at Harvard this year, and his daughter,

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF

HUMAN CONTACT?

THE cost of telephoning is as little as it can be made. Its value can be infinite.

If it is worth your while to save time, to be in touch with people at a distance, to do business quickly, to keep in touch with friends and family—if such things have a value, the telephone holds limitless possibilities for you.

It is the means of extending your personality. Unlike commodities, telephone calls cannot be made wholesale. Each one is a personal service. Each goes when and where you wish. At your request you have five thousand or five million dollars' worth of property at your command, two or three people or perhaps a hundred attending the wires along which your voice travels. It is the work of the Bell System to do this well and cheaply. Its hundreds of thousands of trained workers must keep every part of its 4000 million dollars' worth of equipment ready for instant use.

Here is a business run on the smallest margin of profit consistent with service, security and expansion. Its operation and maintenance have the benefit of the continual research of the 5000 members of Bell Laboratories, the general and technical staff work of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the production economies effected by Western Electric.

Every resource of the Bell System is devoted to making your service clear, quick and inexpensive. As new telephones are added, as improvements are made, you get constantly greater satisfaction and value.

★ AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY ★

Miss Ann Meiklejohn. is continuing her studies at Dartington Hall, Totnes, England.

Col. H. Anthony Dyer has another Italian decoration. This latest one is Cavalier of His Order of Saints Maurice and Lazarus, the highest order that can be conferred by the Italian throne with the exception of one reserved for heads of nations. He received the decoration direct from King Victor Emmanuel, who has long been appreciative of the Colonel's interest in Italy and his devotion to the cause of Italian culture and art.

1894

Capt. Clarence H. Greene, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A., was retired from active service in June with the rank of Major. His last post of duty was at Mitchel Field, L. I., He has held a commission in the regular army since 1920. His service in the Rhode Island National Guard dated back to 1903.

1895

J. R. Dickinson has changed his mail address from Los Angeles to 1815 North Raymond Ave., Pasadena, Calif.

Rev. F. R. Robinson's new address is Hillside Ave., Grafton, Mass.

1896

Dr. Charles F. Deacon, for 19 years surgeon of the Providence Fire Department, resigned on Sept. 2, last, without giving any reason for the resignation. His work has been taken over by Dr. Clifford H. Griffin '94 and Dr. Edward A. McLaughlin '14, chief and deputy police surgeons, respectively.

Rev. Dr. Clarence M. Gallup is the new recording secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention.

Dr. George A. Matteson and his family spent the summer at Hammond Hill, South County, R. I. They are now back at their winter home, 522 Elizabeth Road, San Antonio, Tex. Miss Anne Matteson is a student at Vassar.

1897

Wilbur A. Scott, Past Grand Master of Masons in Rhode Island, was invested with the 33rd degree, the highest in Masonry, at the annual meeting in Detroit on Sept. 15 of the Supreme Council of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

H. D. Higman, former member of the class, is associate general agent for Illinois of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company. His offices are at 1 North La Salle St., Chicago.

Francis B. Richards of the Roessler & Hasslacher Chemical Company is living at 425 West 23rd St., New York.

J. R. D. Oldham has begun his 21st year as superintendent of schools in East Providence. At the completion of his 20 years of service last June, the East Providence Teachers' Association gave him a dinner and a cedar chest of silver; and the speakers, who included Judge G. Frederick Frost '96, John K. Fenner '98 and Samuel E. Lincoln '04, chairman of the school committee, said some deserved things about his constructive policy as superintendent.

Rev. Benjamin T. Livingston, Professor of Evangelism, Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, was the preacher at the 40th anniversary celebration of the Second Presbyterian Church, Providence, in June.

1898

Frank Lippitt Cady, Mayor of Thurmont, Md., and a special student with the class for three years, died in Thurmont, July 24, 1931. He had been a resident there since 1920 and was owner of the Thurmont Hatchery. He was born in Providence, Oct. 20, 1872, the son of Alfred E. and Helen T. (Morgan) Cady. He prepared in the Providence public schools and at Worcester Academy, took courses at Brown in chemistry and biology, 1894-97, and at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1897-1901. He was chemist and bacteriologist in the Milk Inspection Department, Providence 1901-05, and bacteriologist in charge of the city's water filtration plant, 1905-17. He resigned in 1917 because of poor health. He was a member of the East Greenwich Town Council for three years before removing to Thurmont, where he was elected Mayor in April, 1928.

Rev. Joseph Caldwell Bearse, special student in 1894-95, died in South Portland, Me., July 2, 1931. He prepared at East Greenwich Academy and the Boston University School of Theology and held pastorates in Malden, Mass., and Brooklyn, N. Y., before he became president of the Pentecostal Collegiate Institute in North Scituate, R. I., in 1914. During the World War he served as a Y. M. C. A. secretary in this country. After the war he became pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Fairfield, Me., and then of the First Methodist Church, South Portland. He is survived by a widow, who was Meta H. Clark of Malden, a brother, and a sister.

Two of J. A. (Daff) Gammons's boys, John A., Jr., and Edgar, are developing into golfers good enough to keep their father right on his game to beat them. They are members of the Warwick Country Club, which is within easy reaching distance of the Gammons farm in East Greenwich, R. I.

Dr. Charles Carroll's son, William Carroll, has entered the Dominican Novitiate, Dominican House of Studies, Springfield, Ky., to study for the priesthood. Carroll's oldest son, Charles Carroll, Jr., has been a member of the Order of Preachers for two years.

1899

Arthur F. Crowell is superintendent of schools, Ashland and Hopkinton, Mass., and is living in Ashland.

Alonzo R. Williams, general manager of the United Electric Railways, is the new president of the Lions Club of Providence.

1901

William I. King's father, Rev. Dr. Howard Fetzer King, who died at Rosslyn Farms, Carnegie, Pa., the home of his son, on May 5, last, was the oldest alumnus of Bucknell at the time of his death. He was a graduate in 1865. "He had been in the public service for fifty-nine years, an amazing length of time for one man to devote to the interests of others," said the Bucknell Alumni Monthly in its summer issue.

Dr. Albert L. Midgley's daughter, Miss Mary Alberta Midgley, was married in Providence on June 29, last, to Richard C. Engelken of Passaic, N. J.

1902

Harold Weeden Nichols, non-graduating member of the class for four years, died in Providence on Sept. 2, 1931 by his own hand. He was born in Providence, Sept. 27, 1880, the son of Charles C. and Clara (Billings) Nichols. He came to college from the Providence Classical High School and, after he left in 1902, went to work as a chemist with the Union Oil Company, in which his family had a large interest. In recent years he had been an insurance broker. He was married July 25, 1908, to Miss Adrienne Mathews of Providence, who survives him. His fraternity was Delta Kappa Epsilon.

1903

Rev. P. R. Bakeman was the special speaker at the annual Missionary Field Day of the Calais, Me., churches held during the summer. Bakeman has been active in the East China mission field since he was graduated from Newton Theological Institution in 1906.

Rev. Ralph A. Sherwood has completed fourteen years of service at the First Baptist Church, Salem, Mass.

Dr. Frank A. Fearney is a member of the staff fo the United States Veterans Hospital, Chillicothe, O.

1904

Reginald C. Wade died in Boston, June 18, 1931, after an operation. A native of Digby, N. S., he entered Brown from the Salem, Mass., High School, where he had a reputation as a football player. He left college in his Freshman year and was football coach at Salem High for several seasons. At the time of his death he was in the employ of the Boston Post as a reporter. He is survived by a daughter, who is a graduate of Radcliffe, a brother, and three sisters, all of Salem.

1905

Dr. Earle B. Cross of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School is on sabbatic leave this fall and is giving much of his time to research work upon the Book of Job.

A. A. (Bert) Deal is a salesman for Financial Independence Founders, with his headquarters at 405 Lexington Ave., New York.

Jacob Cooper Millard died suddenly at his home in Providence on July 26, 1931. The day before his death he had attended an outing at Green Hill, near Quonochontaug, and was apparently in good health. He was born in Providence, Dec. 22, 1882, the son of Miles H. and Georgiana B. (Atwood) Millard. He entered Brown from the Hope Street High School and after graduation became a detail draughts man with the Waterbury Clock Company He was with the General Electric Company, 1907-09; the Providence Engineering Works, 1909-12; the New England Butt Company, 1912-13. He was with the D. & W. Fuse Company, 1913-15, as assistant chief draughtsman. Then, after a year with Brown & Sharpe, he went to the United Electric Railways Company in 1916 as engineer and remained until his death. Since 1911 he had taught at the Rhode Island School of Design evening school. He was a 32nd degree Mason, patron for two years of Pawtuxet Chapter, No. 16, Order of the Eastern Star, and a devoted member of Christ Episcopal Church. He was married June 30, 1908, to Edith Ruth Stewart, who survives him, together with his mother and

The Painless Operation

An advertisement written for TIME by Miss Catherine P. Harris, Junior League of Boston.

... High up under the dome of Boston's Massachusetts General Hospital, far removed from the wards so that the screams of sufferers under the knife will not horrify the ward patients, is the Hospital's famed operating amphitheatre. Many a medical student dreads the operations he is privileged to watch, frequently faints. But one day last week Dr. John C. Warren, Boston surgeon, led a group of surgeons and students (class of 1847) up the long stairs, eager, hurrying.

For there beckoned an interesting experiment—surgery without pain. Dr. William Thomas Green Morton, 27-year old Boston dentist, thought it possible, had experimented to that end with ether, a volatile, pungent chemical compound capable of producing insensibility. He had tried it on animals, on himself, then on his patients while extracting the roots of decayed teeth. Finally he had obtained permission from Dr. Warren to let him test his drug before an audience. One Gilbert Abbott, with a tumor on his neck, was to be the first trial.

At 11 a.m. the last privileged student hurried into the amphitheatre. Experimentee Abbott, fidgeting on the operating-table, looked anxiously at the clock. Casual talk ceased, sudden silence prevailed as the minute-hand crawled past the hour, and Dr. Morton did not appear. "He and his anesthetic! Humbugs both, no doubt!" mumbled a doctor. It became five minutes past eleven, ten, then a quarter after. The patient stirred uneasily, Dr. Warren selected an instrument, advanced to the table—useless to delay proceedings any longer. As his knife poised for the incision, Dr. Morton, breathless, apologetic, rushed in. He held in one hand a curious globe-and-tube apparatus.

In eager concentration, tensely expectant, the waiting group of surgeons and students watched while the newcomer—a charlatan perhaps, a genius possibly—adjusted his peculiar inhaling apparatus to the patient's mouth and with tense composure administered his anesthetic. Veiled skepticism revealed itself when the patient reacted suddenly in wild exhilaration, but this exuberance subsided, relaxation took its place, then unconsciousness. Skepticism was routed, amazement paramount. Said Dentist Morton to Surgeon Warren: "Your patient is ready."

Dr. Warren began to operate, proceeded quickly, in five minutes had finished. From the patient came no cry of pain, no agony of distress, only slight movements, mumbled words as from one who stirs on the borderland of sleep....

"This, gentlemen," exclaimed Surgeon Warren, "is no humbug."

Awake, Gilbert Abbott said, "I felt no pain."

So, in part, had TIME been published in October, 1846, would TIME have reported the first public demonstration of ether as a surgical anesthetic. So, too, would TIME have reported how one Dr. Crawford Williamson Long, of Georgia, came forward later saying that he had used ether four years previous, had given it up as impractical.... So, too, would TIME have reported the bitter persecution that came to Dentist Morton when he patented his discovery as "Letheon"; the seizure of "Letheon" by the U. S. Government for its own uses; the claims of Dr. Charles T. Jackson, the Boston chemist from whom Dentist Morton had obtained his ether; the division of the Paris Academy of Medicine's 5,000 franc Monthyon Prize for 1852 between these two, with Morton proudly refusing his share; the long Congressional investigations resulting in nothing, and Dentist Morton's death in poverty in 1865.

Cultivated Americans, impatient with cheap sensationalism and windy bias, turn increasingly to publications edited in the historical spirit. These publications, fair-dealing, vigorously impartial, devote themselves to the public weal in the sense that they report what they see, serve no masters, fear no groups.

TIME

The Weekly Newsmagazine

YEARLY SUBSCRIPTION $5 : 205 EAST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY : 15 CENTS AT ALL NEWSSTANDS

two brothers, James M. Millard of Providence and Harold A. Millard of Attleboro, Mass.

Joe Coulter — Iron Joe of football fame — is the new superintendent of grounds and buildings of the Memorial & Library Association of Westerly, R. I. This association by endowment supports the public library and the beautiful park which surrounds it. It is "almost a Brown affair," as a correspondent says, with James M. Pendleton '85, as president, Arthur M. Cottrell '97, secretary, and Arthur L. Perry '00, treasurer of the Board of Trustees.

1906

Horace E. Chandler, treasurer of the American Presbyterian Mission, Tsingtao, Shantung, China, told of the difficulties in China in a letter to Professor C. H. Currier, received in June. "The carrying on of educational work — and we have two high schools connected with this station — is a rather difficult proposition under present circumstances" he said. "The Nationalist Ministry of Education is requiring that all schools be registered under its rather stringent regulations. Our institutions are making every effort to meet the requirement, but at every turn some new obstacle seems to crop up. We are hoping that, in due time, the program of the government along educational lines will be made somewhat more liberal. Some people think that signs of improvement are already visible." Chandler said that the feeling toward Americans in the villages and the market towns, and even in the cities, was one of "genuine cordiality, if one speaks the colloquial."

Richard D. Tucker has entered upon his duties as superintendent of schools of South Hadley, Mass. He resigned as superintendent of schools of Ludlow, Mass., to accept his present position, in which he succeeds Frederick E. Whittemore' 83, retired.

C. C. Tillinghast is back on the job as headmaster of the Horace Mann School, New York, after nearly a year abroad, where he made a survey of school systems. We are told that some of Charlie's best students in 1930-31 are now members of the Freshman class on the Hill.

Leslie Goddard Buck, whose death was reported in the July issue of the Alumni Monthly, was a native of Cavendish, Vt., where he was born April 21, 1883, the son of Milo and Laura (Goddard) Buck. He came to Brown from the Black River Academy, Ludlow, Vt., and after graduation went to work as salesman for the Rutland Fire Clay Co. From 1908 to 1925 he was superintendent of construction work for W. S. Rendle of East Boston, Mass.; since 1925 he had been president of Buck-MacDonald Company, wharf and bridge construction, Boston. He was married July 22, 1914, to Ruth Rendle of Winthrop, Mass., who survives him, together with a son, Roy W. Buck. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

John Harrison Joyce died in Los Angeles, Calif., July 29, 1931, a month after he returned home from the class's 25th Reunion. He became seriously ill while in Brockton, Mass., just after Commencement, but on his arrival home with Mrs. Joyce he seemed to improve. Then a relapse followed, ending in his death. He was born in Portland, Me., June 13, 1883, and lived there until he was five years old. He moved with his parents to Brockton, spent his boyhood in that city and came to Brown from the Brockton High School. He left at the end of his Junior year, married Miss Jean Finlayson of Providence on Sept 2, 1905, and shortly afterward started for California. Harry was with the California Citrus Association for two years, with headquarters in Riverside. He resigned to join the American Hawaiian Steamship Company in Los Angeles and remained with this company until the World War. He enlisted and spent his training period at Fort McArthur, San Pedro. After the war he became resident manager for the Norton Lilly Company, steamship agents, where he made a name for himself and where he was "very happy." He was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Los Angeles Yacht Club, Los Angeles Athletic Club, Transportation Club, Los Angeles Steamship Association, Chamber of Commerce, Foreign Board of Trade and Theta Delta Chi. He is survived by his widow, a son, Robert Ainley, who has been attending the University of Southern California, a sister and two brothers. "Harry looked forward with a great pleasure to this year's reunion, with the opportunity to renew old friendships and visit places that were dear to him and which he held sacred in a corner of his heart."

1907

E. Butler Moulton, chairman of the Cranston, R. I., school committee since January, 1929, resigned in June, saying that increasing problems of school administration and methods of financing school projects were taking so much of his time as to interfere with his law practice and his family life. The City Council received his resignation with regret.

Leon F. Payne was a visitor to the Alumni Office during the summer, while he was on vacation from his duties as vice president and treasurer of the Oil Well Supply Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. Leon's boy, Leon F. Payne, Jr., will be ready for college soon. He is a Senior at the Edgewood, Pa., High School this year.

William F. Huntley is now a member of the Massachusetts bar and is at present in the office of Harold F. Hathaway, Taunton, Mass. We saw Bill during the summer while we were on our way to Nova Scotia, and he was as big and as genial as ever. He has worked faithfully to fit himself for the law and we congratulate him on his success.

1908

Virgil Ehle, reported lost by the Alumni Office some time ago, has turned up serene and smiling (we hope) in Gloversville, N. Y., where he is resident and assistant engineer with Morrell Vrooman, Inc. His house address is 21 Grand St., Gloversville.

Hunter S. Marston and Mrs. Marston announced in June the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Hunter Marston to James L. Green, graduate of Yale '28. The marriage will take place this fall.

C. Hill Griffith and Mrs. Griffith are living at The Boulder, Sugar Hill, N. H., where Griff has gone into the business of selling maple sugar and syrup direct by mail.

Homer B. Hunt reports his house address to be 38 Bessom St., East Lynn, Mass. He is a statistician with the General Electric Company, West Lynn.

George W. Root, civil engineer with the United States Forest Service, reports a change of address to 5021 7th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ray Brown Thomas, football and baseball star in his college days, died in St. Albans, Vt., Aug. 5, 1931, as a result of a sunstroke received while on a tour of duty with U. S. Army reserve officers at the Underhill artillery range in Vermont in July. "Tommy" was at Brown only one year; in that time he made a name for himself in football and baseball. He liked also to play basketball, in which his size, weight and strength were assets. He was born in Berkshire Centre, Vt., April 11, 1884, the son of G. L. and Dora (Brown) Thomas. He prepared at the Burlington High School, and, after his year at Brown, entered the University of Vermont, where he likewise played football and baseball. He won his M. D. at Vermont in 1910 and a year later opened his office in Enosburg Falls. He coached football at Vermont, Norwich, University of New Hampshire, Montpelier Seminary, and retained his interest in the game until his death. During the World War he served in the Medical Corps, in which he attained the rank of Major. In the service for 21 months, his record was a distinguished one. A vigorous, colorful character, he was well known throughout Vermont. "Franklin County loses a useful citizen and a staunch friend by the untimely death of Dr. Ray Thomas," said the St. Albans Messenger, editorially. "'Doc'

Your Favorite Fruit Drink... with the addition of Horsford's Acid Phosphate
becomes a tonic drink
that relieves mental and nervous exhaustion; increases the activity of the brain and assists nature in restoring vitality to the body. Try it!
AT ALL DRUGGISTS
D-51 2

JOHN HANCOCK SERIES

If you are not here to see them through College

We have a plan which will make possible the completing of your children's education.

The new John Hancock Family Income Provision, which can be applied to old or new standard John Hancock Life or Endowment policies of $5000 or more, guarantees your family, if you are not here to see them through, an annual income of 12 percent of the amount of your life insurance until the children are of age. Then the full amount of the life insurance is paid to your estate or beneficiary.

This Family Income Provision is available under three plans: the 20-year plan, where the children are very young; the 15-year plan, where they are older and their period of dependency shorter; the 10-year plan, where the children have reached their "teens" and a still shorter period of family income will be needed.

Talk to a John Hancock representative or, if you prefer, write for our descriptive booklet, "Income for the Family," to assist you in selecting the plan which is best adapted to your family needs.

John Hancock
MUTUAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
OF BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

JOHN HANCOCK INQUIRY BUREAU, 197 Clarendon Street, Boston, Massachusetts
Please send me your booklet, "Income for the Family."

Name .....

Address .....

A. G.

OVER SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS IN BUSINESS

Thomas was only 47 years of age when he died, but he wasted not a minute of the years that were allotted to him Countless friends in every part of Vermont will mourn his passing."

1910

Ralph M. Palmer read a paper, "The Presence of Zinc in Water Transferred by Galvanized and Brass Lines," before the American Society of Sanitary Engineering at the annual convention held in Richmond, Va., last month.

1911

Dr. Arthur Palmer read a paper, "Rhinoplasty, Past and Present," in Mexico City last July before the Pan American Congress of Medicine and Surgery. He was elected vice president of the Congress.

Brent Smith got back into football harness at the opening of the Brown practice last month to help Coaches Snively and Staff show the candidates the fundamentals of line play.

Russ McKay is vice president of the Mahoning County, Ohio, Bar Association.

B. H Hagerman is president of the James B Welsh Realty and Loan Company, 923 Baltimore Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

1912

Rev. W. S. Deming is now in charge of the Ahmednagar Neighborhood House, Ahmednagar, India.

Raymond P. Hawes has begun his twelfth year as a member of the Department of Philosophy, Goucher College, Baltimore, Md., where he holds the rank of professor.

E. A. (Shad) Adams writes that he is now located in the same suite, 610 Rowan Bldg., Los Angeles, with L. L. Larrabee '09 who has been one of his closest friends and advisers since his adventure into California. "Larry is one of the most active attorneys in the Los Angeles Bar Association and I am finding it a great pleasure to be with him," Shad says.

1913

Norman S. Taber is instructor in investments at the business school of Northeastern University, Providence branch, in addition to his regular work as vice president of Brookmire Investors, Inc., and Rhode Island representative of Brookmire Economic Service.

Ralph B. Crum can now put Ph.D after his name. He received the degree in June from Columbia, with English as his major study.

Leon C. High is a member of the teaching staff of the Great Neck, L. I., High School.

1915

Rev. John H Bowman is pastor of the Maplewood Baptist Church, Chicago, and is living at 1123 Linden Ave., Wilmette, Ill.

1916

Bancroft H Brown has been promoted to full Professor of Mathematics at Dartmouth. He was elected in June as Faculty member of the Dartmouth Athletic Council to serve until June 1934.

Professor Thomas H. Robinson of the English Department, Rhode Island College of Education, taught the demonstration class in intermediate grade or junior high school English at the summer school of Harvard

Dr. Richard Dresser, rapidly winning a reputation as an authority on X-ray work, visited his old home town of Southbridge, Mass., during the summer to aid in the equipment of the Harrington Memorial Hospital there with X-ray apparatus. According to the Southbridge News, Dick at present is associated with "the Worcester Memorial Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital, Pondville State Cancer Hospital, C. P. Huntington Memorial Hospital and the Harvard Medical School."

1918

Dr. William Eyre Sisson's tragic death by drowning in Lake Cuyamaca, Calif., on July 10, 1931, was a great shock to all who knew him. With his 2-year old son and daughter, Betty, aged 5, Bill started out on a fishing trip. William, Jr., stood up suddenly in the boat and toppled over the side. Bill dove after him; neither reappeared on the surface. Mrs. Sisson saw the whole affair from the shore, but was helpless to aid. Bill was born in Providence, Feb. 2, 1898, the son of Charles and Elizabeth D. (Eyre) Sisson. He came to college from Moses Brown School and after graduation entered the Johns Hopkins University Medical School, from which he received his M.D. degree in 1922. He was house officer and then assistant obstetrician at the Johns

HOW MUCH YOU CAN SEE
DEPENDS ON WHERE YOU ARE SITTING

YOU GET THE BROAD POINT OF VIEW
AT THIS BANK

V

Sometimes if you can't see clear through to the end of a business move, someone else can shed a new light on it.
When faced with a situation which involves a safe decision as to money or means, remember that Industrial Trust Comany has had years of experience with many lines, with many people, with many situations. You will get a broad point of view at this bank.

INDUSTRIAL TRUST COMPANY

Resources More Than $150,000,000 Member of Federal Reserve System

FIVE PROVIDENCE OFFICES
111 Westminster Street — 63 Westminster Street
1473 Broad St.—220 Atwells Ave.—602 Elmwood Ave.

E. PROVIDENCE PAWTUCKET NEWPORT
WOONSOCKET BRISTOL WESTERLY
PASCOAG WARREN WICKFORD

Hopkins Hospital. In 1926 he joined the staff of the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit; in 1928 he went to California to commence practice in San Diego. He was married in October, 1924, to Mary Wilson Hairston of Reidville, Md., who survives him, together with the daughter, Betty, his mother, Mrs. William D. E. Sisson, and a brother, Charles P. Sisson, 11. He was a member of Alpha Delta Phi.

Herbert Butterfield is director of the Little Theatre Guild of Jackson, Mich., which has begun its third season with a membership of approximately 1,500, according to the Jackson Citizen-Patriot. One of the unusual facts about the Guild is that it gives one show a month to the public free of charge. Herb gave courses in dramatic art at the University of Iowa last year.

1919

Warren Campbell has returned to Providence to act as special agent for fire insurance for the Home Insurance Company. His office is at 725 Industrial Trust Bldg., and he is living at 34 Barnes St.

Dr. Marshall N. Fulton's new Providence address is 273 Bowen St.

1920

J. Q. Dealey, Jr., now a member of the Faculty of Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., was the author of an article, "Rural Schools Promise Much for Mexicans," which appeared in the Dallas, Tex., Morning News of Aug. 16, 1931. Jim's father is in charge of the editorial department of the News.

Seth Gifford is an instructor in auditing at the business school of Northeastern University, Providence.

Lou Balatow, still manufacturing clothes "of conservative smartness for men and young men" under the name of Bolton at 6 West 20th St., New York, wrote a good letter during the summer in which he commented that he didn't know of any way "in which Brown men, whose hearts are back on the Hill, can keep in better touch with the University than through the Alumni Monthly." Lou and Mrs. Balatow are living at 43-06 Bliss St., Sunnyside, L. I.

Walter Hoving, executive vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., department stores, New York, was the author of an article in the Nation's Business for August entitled, "Retailing Needs Better Brains."

Michael DeFilippis has resumed his duties as instructor in romance languages at the University of California after having spent fifteen months abroad on a fellowship. During his stay in Europe he did most of his studying in Italy.

Daniel E. Whitford, for the past four years instructor in mathematics at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, is now an assistant professor of the same subject at the Institute. Dan was delegate in August to the summer school of the University of Minnesota for the promotion of engineering education in mathematics, according to his home town newspaper, the Pawtuxet Valley Times.

1921

Dr. William J. Nairn, osteopathic physician, has opened an office for general practice at 1039 Elmwood Ave., Providence.

1922

Lawrence Whitcomb, whose engagement is reported elsewhere, has returned to Lehigh University, where he is instructor in geology. During the summer Larry helped conduct a group of fifteen prep school boys from Philadelphia to the Pacific coast and back. The party covered about ten thousand miles. Incidentally, Larry was elected to Sigma Xi at Lehigh last spring.

Stan Rowley, seen with his fine family at Meadows Shore, South Dartmouth, Mass., over Labor Day, predicts a great Tenth Reunion next June.

Chape Newhard is manager of the brokerage department of Reinholdt & Gardner, 400 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

Ken Mathus has been promoted to editor of publications of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, with which he has been connected for six years, with duties along advertising and sales promotion lines. The company's monthly magazine of salesmanship, ConMuTopics, has been improved and enlarged under his direction. Ken is well known in insurance circles for his writings about the business. In recent months, we hear, he has been writing a book on sales dialogues, which will be published soon.

Alfred R. Mack has begun his duties as principal of the Attleboro, Mass., High School, a position to which he was elected early in the summer. Mack went to Attleboro from Middleboro, Mass., where he made a fine record during his five years

BOND INVESTMENTS

For Conservative Investors

We specialize in the mortgage bonds of well established public utility companies which are a legal investment for Savings Banks in one or more of the New England States

Bodell & Co.

32 Custom House St.
Bodell Building

PROVIDENCE PHONE GASPEE 5220

17 EAST 42nd STREET
NEW YORK

35 CONGRESS STREET
BOSTON

as head of the Memorial High School. For several summers he has been studying at Harvard with the Master of Education degree as his objective.

Rev. Edward A. Bullock, who received his B.D. degree from Newton Theological Institution last June, is pastor of the First Baptist Church, Marlboro, Mass. During his term of study at Newton he was supply pastor of the Lakeview Union Church, Waltham. Mrs. Bullock also took courses at Newton.

1923

William M. Cushman is a partner in the law firm of Cushman, Bryant, Darby & Cushman, American Security Bldg., 15th St. at Pennsylvania Ave., Washington.

Chilton L. Kemp, who received his A.M. degree from Columbia in June, is instructor in physical education at the Darien, Conn., High School. Kemp has taught in Maine and California and has done graduate work at Harvard, Springfield Training College and Columbia since he left Brown.

E. R. (Jock) Joslyn reports his present address to be 830 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive Sts., St. Louis, Mo., where he is in business as an investment banker.

John A. Wilson, Assistant United States District Attorney for New York, received his Master of Arts degree from Oxford University, England, on Aug. 1, last. John won his bachelor's degree at Oxford, you know, as a Rhodes scholar.

R. L. (Bob) Eaton is now in his sixth year as technician of the Pathological Laboratory, Phoenix, Ariz. He and Mrs. Eaton and Patricia and Robert N. Eaton, aged six and three, respectively, are getting their mail at Box 234, Route 1, Phoenix.

1924

Earle V. Johnson has become a home owner, and is occupying his new house at 524 Merrill Ave., Park Ridge, Ill. Earle is with the Real Estate Loan Department of the Straus National Bank & Trust Company, Chicago.

Russell West is engineering assistant with the Westchester County Park Commission, with his business address at 59 Pleasant Ave., Pleasantville, N. Y.

N. B. Silberman, who won his law degree at New York University Law School in 1928, is practicing law at 30 Park Row, Stamford, Conn.

1925

Hal Neubauer has resumed his studies at the University of Pennsylvania Law School as well as his football coaching at Lawrenceville after having spent the summer with a party of boys in the Jackson Hole and Grand Teton countries and in Yellowstone Park. "I thought that one thing that three years in the famous Brown Battery had taught me was to ride," he said in a latter from Squaw Lake, Wyoming, "but I got over that idea before I had been out here two days. I can ride now, though, and so can all the kids in the outfit. Covering 25 to 30 miles a day on a broncho in this contry sort of 'learns' you!"

Pat Sayward, with the United North and South Development Co., 1739-46 Milam Bldg., San Antonio, Tex., said in a letter during the summer that he and Mrs. Sayward expected to make San Antonio their home for some time to come.

Clinton Mosher, who was with us in our Freshman year, is political editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle and lives at 187 6th St., Stewart Manor, L. I.

Joe Glass is with the law firm of Barnett & Mintz, 26 Court St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ralph J. Petrucci is a practicing physician with his office at 289 Main St., Warren, R. I. Ralph got his M.D. at Jefferson Medical College in 1929.

Kingsley Bennett is on his way to becoming a full-fledged lawyer. He received his LL.B. from Cornell in June.

Graham Beresford, in a letter received during the summer, told us that he was with the Home Insurance Company, New York, and that his business address was 107 William St.

E. Bird Kelly, member of the class for two years, is heading up his own real estate business, with his office at 171 Boston Post Road, Portchester, N. Y. Kelly took his degree at M. I. T. and worked in West Virginia a couple of years before coming back North.

Dr. John A. Isherwood, First Lieutenant, Medical Corps, U. S. A., was at the Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., early last month waiting for orders to go on foreign service. He celebrated his first wedding anniversary on Aug. 9, last. Mrs. Isherwood was Miss Ruth B. Stanley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Stanley of Waterbury, Vt., and a graduate of the University of Vermont '25.

Are You Using the Very Distinctive

BROWN Plate?

As a special Diamond Anniversary offer it is now priced at $11.25 the dozen or $1.13 each

A REDUCTION OF 25%!

THE BROWN plate, depicting the familiar Van Wickle gates, becomes more popular each year with Brown men and their friends. It is made exclusively for us by Copeland-Spode of England.

For home, club or fraternity use. It makes an especially pleasing gift. Mail and telephone orders promptly executed.

DINNER PLATE
Size 10½ inches over all

Tilden-Thurber

WESTMINSTER STREET
at Mathewson
Providence

FOREIGN CONNECTIONS

1926

Bob Gilmore, after two years of teaching mathematics at the University of Wisconsin, is doing graduate work in the same subject at Yale this year.

Charlie Dixon, the little birds say, is developing into a real golfer. He is a regular patron of the Louisquisset course in North Providence and may soon be challenging Brad Oxnard '24 and some of the other members of the first flight in Rhode Island.

Two new LL.B.'s in the class are Bill Widnall and Warren Babcock. Bill won his degree at the New Jersey Law School, and Warren got his from the New York Law School.

A card late in the summer from Rev. Francois J. deVilliers brought the pleasant news that deVilliers is teaching at Dower College, Uitenhage, South Africa. Looks as if he were entitled to the blue ribbon for going farthest from the campus to begin his life work.

Abe Goldman is practicing law in the offices of Joseph Steinberg, 551 Fifth Ave., Suite 1713, New York.

Dr. A. E. Peters is chief Roentgenologist for the St. Marie General Hospital in Lewiston and the Gardiner General Hospital in Gardiner, Me. He has opened his office at 190 Bates St., Lewiston.

Myron Sulzberger, Jr., is a member of the law firm of Schechter, Latsch and Sulzberger, 500 5th Ave., New York.

1927

Arthur F. Sullivan, who transferred from Brown to Georgetown University after two years on College Hill, died in Biddeford, Me., Sept. 1, 1931, as a result of injuries received in a motor car accident. Sullivan, who received his A.B. degree at Georgetown in 1929, was a substitute teacher in the B. M. C. Durfee High School, Fall River, Mass., his home city, at the time of his death.

Richard Strull was drowned while swimming off Brighton Beach, N. Y., on July 28, 1931. The date of his death was his birthday, he having been born in New York July 28, 1905, the son of Abraham and Anna (Lustgarten) Strull. He entered Brown from the Brooklyn Evening High School and, in college, was a member of the track squad and of the Brown Daily Herald staff. After graduation with the degree of Ph.B., he went to Harvard Law School for a year. He also studied at New York University Law School, but a recurring illness was a great handicap. In the spring of 1929 he decided that he must give up study to find work in the open. A quiet, sincere classmate, Dick had the confidence and friendship of those who knew him as an undergraduate. He is survived by his parents and a sister.

Jeremy Bagster-Collins is instructor in English at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

Don Simons, now signing himself Dr. Donald J. Simons (he received his M.D. from Harvard), is interne at the Springfield Hospital, Springfield, Mass.

Frank Tishkinas and Morris L. Pepper were members of the class to win advanced degrees at Yale last June. Tishkinas received his B.D. with honors, and Pepper's award was an LL.B.

Hal Mistr reports a change of address to 6137 Broadway, Cleveland, O.

Gabriel Caplan is doing sales work and analysis for A. G. Becker & Co., investment bankers, 54 Pine St., New York. Caplan took his M.B.A. degree at Harvard in June.

Bill Pemberton is selling insurance for the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, with his office at 1405 Industrial Trust Bldg., Providence.

M. C. Galanti, member of the Lodi, N. J., school staff since leaving college, now has charge of the administrative duties in the office of the vice principal, Teaneck, N. J., High School. Galanti was not only active as a teacher in Lodi but also took part in extra curricular activities, including the junior high school publication, the Drama Guild, and the student council. In his first year as a teacher he coached basketball and baseball.

John Pastore, with an M.D. from the Johns Hopkins University Medical School, is interne and house officer at the Hospital for Women of Maryland, John St., and Lafayette Ave., Baltimore.

Lawton P. G. Peckham, who has been at the Princeton Graduate School since September, 1927, has returned to Brown as instructor in the Department of Romance Languages.

Karl Royce was recently made sales manager of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company in Newark, N. J.

Bob Sanderson is a partner with Sanderson Brothers, printers and advertisers, North Abington, Mass. He and Mrs. Sanderson (we report his marriage in another column) are living at 375 Washington St., Abington.

Wendell P. Rice is sales manager for the Oakland Nurseries, Manchester, Conn.

Harwood Read, member of the class in our Freshman year, is a junior engineer with the Potomac Electric Power Company, Washington, D. C. He and Mrs. Read (who was Helen Warner Shaw) are at home at 3800 New Hampshire Ave., Washington.

Morris Leroy Tiffany, Jr., member of the class in the Freshman year, died in Bristol, Conn., on July 3, 1931, as the result of the premature explosion of a toy cannon which he had made to celebrate the Fourth of July. He was born in Bristol, Jan. 3, 1905, the son of Morris L. and Elizabeth (Andrew) Tiffany. He came to Brown from the Raymond Riordan School, Highland, N. Y., stayed one year and returned in the second semester of the Sophomore year. He left college in June, 1925, and had since worked for the Wallace Barnes Company in the chemical laboratory. He was a member of the Masons and Lambda Chi Alpha. He is survived by his parents and a sister, Miss Cynthia Tiffany.

1928

Jack Heffernan has begun his fourth year as head coach and teacher of history at Troy Conference Academy, Poultney, Vt. The Rutland Herald said not long ago that Jack "is rated as one of the academy's most efficient instructors."

Dolphus Short is preparing to practice law, having received his LL.B. from the University of Pennsylvania last June. He is at present in the offices of Daniel Layton, Georgetown, Del. Incidentally, we don't recall having announced previously the arrival of Sally Ann Short on Sept. 4, 1930.

Sidney Friedman, who received his A.M. from Brown last June, and who has an LL.B. from Yale, is a law clerk at 60 Wall St., New York.

Leo Goldberg, with an LL.B. from Yale, 1931, is a clerk in the offices of Voigt, O'Neill & Wright, 85 Westminster St., Providence.

Paul Hodge is combining law and football this fall. He is studying in the offices of Lyman, Greenough & Cross, 1130 Hospital Trust Bldg., Providence, and serving as line coach at Williams College. He expects to take the examinations next spring for admission to the Rhode Island Bar.

Jim Hinchliffe, merchandise manager of the Higbee Company, department store, Cleveland, and Mrs. Hinchliffe (they were married last April) are settled in their new home at 2928 East 132nd St.

Johnny Aldrich, assistant ornithologist at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, spent his vacation on Block Island, where he took many pictures of bird life there.

The Pure Oil News, August issue, carried a paragraph from Marion, O., as follows: "Ninety-nine percent. of a salesman's success is his persistence. Salesman Hart has found, however, that sometimes too much persistence has a back lash. The next time you see him, ask him about the farmer who chased him off his property with a pitch fork." Salesman Hart is none other than our own E. E. Hart.

1929

Bob Blake expects to stay in Paris indefinitely, we hear. He went over a year ago to work for the Guaranty Trust Company of New York at its Paris office, 4 Place de la Concorde. He intended to come back this month, but changed his mind when he had an opportunity to remain over there. We have since learned that Bob was married on July 25, last, and that he and Mrs. Blake had an apartment at 4 Place de Vaugirard on the left bank of the Seine.

George M. Tinker, 2nd, was this year's winner of the first prize "for high male voice" in the music scholarship contest conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs. George resigned from the Brown Faculty in June after having served through the year as assistant in music.

Ev Wood has been working for Price, Waterhouse & Co., public accountants, 56 Pine St., New York. He said in a letter not long ago that he had given some thought to dropping business and going to medical school, perhaps this fall. He also reported that Bruce Wetzel is still with the Personal Loan Department, National City Bank, New York, and Harlan Najar is traffic engineer with the New England Tel. & Tel. in Springfield, Mass.

1930

Marshall Snyder holds a Child Research Fellowship in the Department of Bacteriology and Public Health, University of Colorado Medical School. His address is 4200 East Ninth Ave., Denver.

Providence National Bank

ESTABLISHED 1791

CAPITAL $1,500,000
SURPLUS $2,500,000

Main Office — 100 Westminster Street
Branch — Corner Empire and Washington Streets

Moses J. Barber, Chairman of the Board
Thomas L. Pierce, President
Earl G. Batty, Vice President and Cashier
Charles M. Smith, III, Trust Officer
Frank L. Sawyer, Assistant Cashier
George A. Freeman, Assistant Cashier
Charles L. Eddy, Assistant Cashier
Henry H. Eddy, Assistant Cashier
T. I. Hare Powel, Investment Counsel

Empire Street Branch, Frank L. Sawyer, Manager
Charles L. Eddy, Assistant Manager

Directors

Charles H. Newell
William B. McBee
William Gammell, Jr.
Moses J. Barber
Paul C. DeWolf
Frank E. Richmond
Richard S. Aldrich
Edward P. Jastram
Earl G. Batty
A. Livingston Kelley
Wilson G. Wing
John Nicholas Brown
Thomas L. Pierce
Lauriston H. Hazard
William L. Sweet
Frederick T. Moses
John Ormsbee Ames
Willard I. Angell

PRESTON & ROUNDS COMPANY

No. 49 EXCHANGE PLACE

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

BOOKSELLERS
STATIONERS

DRUGS

Chemicals and Medicines

ELECTRIC BATTERIES
INVALID ROLLER CHAIRS
PRESCRIPTIONS A SPECIALTY

Geo. L. Claflin Co.

76 - 78 NORTH MAIN STREET

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Opposite First Baptist Church

Myron Hackett is an inspector in the construction department of the Consolidated Gas Company, 4 Irving Place, New York.

Norman Searle is an assistant in the Department of Chemistry, University of Illinois, and is working for his doctor's degree.

1931

Paul Monahan is in the accounting department of the General Electric Company, Bridgeport, Conn

Fred Dyer is working for the Brooklyn Edison Company as a junior engineer in the Outside Plant Bureau, Electrical Engineers Department, 380 Pearl St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bill Kinnaird is learning the rudiments of investment banking with the Guaranty Company of New York, with his present headquarters at 31 Nassau St.,

W. E. S. (Wacky) Moulton is teaching and coaching at the Pomfret School, Pomfret, Conn.

E. G Hapgood, Jr., is secretary for the national fraternity of Zeta Psi, with his office at the Zeta Psi Club, 31 East 39th St., New York

John Horton is teaching and acting as assistant football coach at the Cranston High School, from which he came to Brown. The Cranston football elevens have been winners in Rhode Island for several years.

Ned Brody is working for the Brody Wood Heel Company, Haverhill, Mass.

Lou Demmler, back in the old home town of Edgewood, Pa., has started at the bottom to learn the wholesale hardware business with Demmler Brothers Company, 100 Ross St., Pittsburgh, of which Edgewood is a suburb.

Alden Walls is a member of the training class at R. H. Macy & Co., department store, 34th St , and Broadway, New York

John Gillies, Bill Kinnaird, Ernie Hapgood, Bill Kernan and Joe O'Neil, executive secretary of the Brown Club of New York, got together for dinner at the Hotel Wentworth, the club headquarters, one night last month and, according to Joe, "we had a great time comparing jobs." Joe added that he hoped to get a class dinner going in the near future

To Whom Congratulations:

Engagements

Miss Ruth Lyman Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Copeland of Princeton, N. J., to Lawrence Whitcomb '22 of Bethlehem, Pa

Miss Margaret Douglas Reese, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert M Reese of Alexandria, Va , to Dr. John Langdon '25, special, of New York and Providence. Miss Reese is a graduate of Vassar '27

Miss Grace Charlotte Barnett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert T Barnett of Lewistown, Pa., to Arthur B Cleaves '27 of Providence.

Miss Alice V. Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wall, to Leo V. Hand '28, of Providence.

Miss Mary A. Donnelly, daughter of Charles Donnelly of Providence, to David J Colbert '29, also of Providence.

Miss Louise Christie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Christie of Apponaug, R. I., to Albert H. Rogers '30, of New York.

Miss Nettie Louise Budlong, daughter of Mrs. Jeanette E. Budlong of Cowesett, R. I., to Raymond E. Tanner '30, of East Greenwich

Miss Alys Edythe Aaron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Aaron of Providence, to Albert E. Sidwell, Jr., '31, of Asbury Park, N. J.

Miss Helen Virginia Kenworthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Kenworthy, of Barrington, R. I., to William H. Attwill '31, of Providence. Miss Kenworthy won the State golf championship for women in Rhode Island in 1929.

Weddings

1903—Harold A. Mackinney and Miss Amey Kenyon Howarth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Howarth, were married in Narragansett, R. I , on June 25, 1931. They are at home at 100 Taft Ave., Providence.

1918n—Clark Belden and Miss Alice Bradford Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell C Chapman, were married in Norwich, N Y., on Aug. 1, 1931. They are living in New York.

1920—Albert E. Lownes and Miss Barbara Spring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wheelock Spring, were married in Chestnut Hill, Mass., on June 24, 1931. W. C. Worthington '23 and Charles W. Goulding '27 were ushers. Mr and Mrs. Lownes will make their home in Providence.

1921—Alfred Mochau and Miss Norma Fontanella, daughter of John Fontanella of Meriden, Conn., were married in Danielson, Conn., on July 11, 1931 They are living in Providence.

1922, special Fergus C. McOsker and Miss Helen Mary Shea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Shea, were married in Stamford, Conn., on June 17, 1931 John C. McOsker '26, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. McOsker are living on Waterbury Ave., Stamford.

1924—Walter Bernard and Miss Sara Elizabeth Learned, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Forrest Learned, were married in Providence on July 14, 1931. They are living in Burlington, Vt.

1924—Mark R Flather and Miss Bettie Alexander Stearns, daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles F. Stearns, were married in Providence on July 18, 1931. Denison W. Greene '24, Roger T. Clapp '19, and Thomas F. Black, Jr., '19 were ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Flather have been living at 168 Bowen St , Providence.

1924—Everard C. Ketcham, 2nd, and Miss Janet Leith Hay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hay, were married in Freeport, L. I , on Aug. 4, 1931.

1924—John J. McDonald and Miss Lillian Mary Sullivan, daughter of Mrs.

Anna Sullivan, were married in Providence on June 25, 1931. They are at home at 252 Ives St., Providence.

1925—George W. Kilton and Miss Helen Constance Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Warren Smith of Buttonwoods, were married in Providence on Sept. 11, 1931. John B. Kilton '25 was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Kilton are living at 7 Fairview Ave., Edgewood, R.I.

1926—Arthur E. Jensen and Miss Dora May Anstey, Penbroke '30, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anstey, were married in Gloucester, Mass., on Sept. 11, 1931. They sailed the next day for Scotland, where they have registered at Edinburgh University for advanced work in English.

1926—Arthur S. Hassell and Miss Helen Holder Attwill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Attwill, were married in Providence on June 20, 1931. Harold Hassell '24 was best man, and the ushers included Clyde F. Hoover '27, Edward F. Barrows '23, William B. Bartlett, Jr., '30 and William H. Attwill '31. Mr. and Mrs. Hassell are living in Providence.

1926—George D. Morrow and Miss Frances Anna Hadley were married in Central Falls, R. I., on June 27, 1931. They are at home in Monson, Mass.

1926n—Dr. Russell S. Bray and Miss Kathryn Mae Umstead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Umstead, were married in Providence on June 26, 1931. They are at home at 181 Gallatin St., Providence.

1927—Clark W. Browning and Miss Ruth Cowing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Cowing, were married in Providence on June 25, 1931.

1927—Willoughby M. Cady, son of Professor Walter G. Cady '95, and Miss Helen May Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hayes Hammond, were married in Providence on June 27, 1931. Dr. Francis H. Chafee '27 was best man, and the ushers included Edgar H. Hammond, Jr., '23n, and Jeremy F. Bagster-Collins '27.

1927—Walcott C. Chandler and Miss Eleanor Ruth Stacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winthrop Stacy, were married in Brooklyn, N. Y., on April 3, 1931. They are living at 465 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn.

1927—Merrill W. Chase and Miss Edith Steele Brown, daughter of Irving S. Brown, were married in Providence on Sept. 5, 1931. Rev. Earl H. Tomlin '18n performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Chase are living at 273 Gano St., Providence.

1927—John E. C. Hall and Miss Hope Binney Richmond, daughter of H. Anson Richmond '97n, and Mrs. Beatrice Binney Richmond, were married in Providence on July 2, 1931.

1927—Kenneth G. Horton and Miss Mildred Theresa Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of Harrison, N. J., were married in New York on Aug. 1, 1931. They are living at 425 Beech St., Arlington, N. J.

1927—Edward M. Pease and Miss Martha D. Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Crawford, were married in East Providence on July 23, 1931. They are living in Raynham, Mass.

1927—Robert N. Sanderson and Miss Ella E. Leach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warren Leach, were married in Abington, Mass., on June 27, 1931. They are at home at 375 Washington St., Abington.

1927—Ralph C. Taylor and Miss Marea Vaitses, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Stephen Vaitses, were married in Melrose, Mass., on June 14, 1931. They are living in Hinsdale, N. H.

1928—George E. Adams and Miss Katherine Rita Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Carey, were married in Providence on Aug. 31, 1931. James A. Walsh '26 was best man, and the ushers included Charles J. O'Brien '27 and Henry J. Butler '28n.

1928—Richard C. Gurney, son of Sanford K. Gurney '97 and Mrs. Gurney, and Miss Margaret Erving Alexander, daughter of Mrs. Charles Alexander of Philadelphia, were married in Squam Lake, N. H., on Aug. 15, 1931. Joseph G. Gurney '26, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers included Kenneth F. O'Brien '28, Dean D. Smith '28 and Alexander B. Maley '27. Mr. and Mrs. Gurney are at home at 1982 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.

1928n—John F. Borden, Jr., and Miss Margaret Crane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Crane, were married in Arlington, N. J., on June 15, 1931.

1928n—G. Leverett Edgett and Miss Olive Elizabeth Richardson, daughter of Mrs. Martha E. Richardson, were married in Waterville, Me., on Aug. 18, 1931. They are now at home at 918 Park Ave., Cranston, R. I. Mrs. Edgett is a graduate of Colby College '28.

1928n—Norman F. Penny and Miss Carolyn Elise Marcusson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Marcusson, were married in Jamaica, N. Y., on June 27, 1931.

1928n—Dr. Lawrence B. Smith and Miss Doris Hazel Alden, daughter of Mrs. Frances Alden Wygant of Hartford, Conn., were married in New York on June 27, 1931. They are living in Providence.

BROWN DIRECTORY

ABBOTT, '80 EDWARDS, '96
ABBOTT, FAUNTLEROY, CULLEN & EDWARDS
Attorneys at Law
Tenth Floor,
Liberty Central Trust Building
506 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.
ABBOTT, '15

PERRY & SAUNDERS
Counsellors at Law
185 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass
JOSEPH EARLE PERRY, WILLIAMS
ALBERT L. SAUNDERS, BROWN, '1902

Winship Teachers' Agency

SEND FOR BLANK

6 BEACON STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

Alvin F. Pease

Brown Graduate, A. B. & A. M.

ESTABLISHED 1914

THE L. H. MEADER CO.

announce that they specialize in

The Care of Trees

and are prepared to furnish estimates

PRUNING, SPRAYING, TREE SURGERY, WOODLAND IMPROVEMENT CUTTING

L. H. MEADER, JR., '09, GENERAL MANAGER
W. H. SNELL, PH.D., '14, CONSULTING PATHOLOGIST
75 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I.

1929—Clyde C. Barrows and Miss Helen Bryant, daughter of Joseph Allan Bryant, were married in West Newton, Mass., on Aug. 14, 1931. They are living in Columbia, S. C.

1929—Milton D. Horn and Miss Mabel Ruth Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Quick, were married in Swampscott, Mass., on June 18, 1931. J. Randolph Quick '28, brother of the bride, was best man.

1929n—Ronald C. Bishop and Miss Elizabeth Thayer Aldrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwin Aldrich, were married in Providence on June 20, 1931. The ushers were Don C. Thorndike and Francis M. Sprague '23, Harvey C. Stafford '27 and Frederick C. King, Jr., '31. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are at home at 315 Lincoln Ave., Orange, N. J.

1930—A. Dexter Johnson and Miss May Bartyn Miskimon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Roy Miskimon, were married in East Orange, N. J., on June 23, 1931. Cory Snow '31 was one of the ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are living at 376 Prospect St., East Orange.

1930n—Lieut. Philip B. Stiness, U.S.A. and Miss Elizabeth Kline Tuttle were married in Larchmont, N. Y., on Aug. 15, 1931. They are living in San Antonio, Tex., where Lieut. Stiness is at present stationed.

1931—Murray M. Clarke and Miss Evelyn Clare Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Smith of Buttonwoods, R. I., were married in Providence on June 16, 1931. They are at home at Queens Garden Apts., 37-41 79th St., Jackson Heights, N. Y.

1931—Clair C. Corey and Miss Ruth Veola Burdick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton C. Burdick of Alfred, N. Y., were married in Providence on June 14, 1931. President Clarence A. Barbour performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Corey are living at 136 Huntington Ave., Boston.

1931—John W. Lane, son of Wallace R. Lane '99, and Mrs. Lane, and Miss Ruth Kerns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kerns, were married in Fall River, Mass., on Aug. 28, 1931. They are living at 6 Washington St., Cambridge, Mass.

1931n—Edward J. O'Malley and Miss Janet Dalzell, daughter of Mrs. George Sherman Dalzell, were married in New York on June 11, 1931. H. Bertram Thorn '30 was best man. Mr. and Mrs. O'Malley are living in Brooklyn.

Births

1916—To Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Brady of Providence, a son, Francis James Brady, Jr., on July 12, 1931.

1918—To Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred Pickles of Providence, a daughter, Anne, on June 25, 1931.

1918n—To Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Slade of Providence, a second daughter, Deborah, on Aug. 3, 1931.

1921—To Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Magnuson of West Warwick, R. I., a son, John Allan, on June 25, 1931.

1922—To Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Kenyon of Providence, a daughter, Patricia Baker, on Aug. 2, 1931.

1922—To Mr. and Mrs. Leo H. Rosen of Providence, a second daughter, Deborah Naomi, on July 12, 1931.

1923—To Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Chase of Anthony, R. I., a daughter, Patricia Adams, on Aug. 13, 1931.

1924—To Mr. and Mrs. James H. Barrett of White Plains, N. Y., a daughter, Linda Jean, on Sept. 3, 1931.

1924—To Mr. and Mrs. Denison W. Greene of Providence, a daughter, Judith, on June 23, 1931.

1925—To Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Neubauer of Trenton, N. J., a daughter, Barbara Stanlake, on June 9, 1931.

1925—To Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Loux of Baldwin, N. Y., a daughter, Nancy Caroline, on July 18, 1931.

1925—To Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wagenknecht of Providence, a son, William Brent, on June 27, 1931.

1925—To Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Zantow of Cresskill, N. J., a son, Wilhelm Frederick Zantow, 2nd, on June 15, 1931.

1926—To Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Smith of Andover, Mass., a daughter, Georgia Cary, on May 20, 1931.

1928—To Mr. and Mrs. G. Mason Gross of Providence, a son, Barrett, on July 31, 1931.

1929—To Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Clemence of Washington, D. C., a son, Gerald Vail, on June 30, 1931.

1929n—To Mr. and Mrs. Everett Eynon of Washington, D. C., a son, on Aug. 16, 1931.

Secretarial Service

322 New Industrial Trust Building

DICTATION TYPING
MANUSCRIPTS
THEMES THESES BRIEFS

DExter 7231

Lydia L. Adams

PRESCRIPTIONS

...exactly as written

When a doctor's prescription comes to us for compounding we consider it as a means toward someone's good health. Accordingly we practice utmost accuracy in compounding, using the finest quality ingredients the world affords.

Bring YOUR prescriptions here.

BLANDING'S

60 Westminster St. 6 Wayland Square

Alumnae of Pembroke

By GERTRUDE ALLEN McCONNELL

Isabel McMurty Voigt '13

In the death of Isabel McMurty Voigt '13, on August 31, the alumnae body lost one of its most loyal, energetic, and enthusiastic members. At the time of her death Mrs. Voigt was President of the Brown Alumnae Club of Providence and Second Vice-President of the Alumnae Association. Upon graduating from college Mrs. Voigt did graduate work at Brown for a year. From 1914 to 1917 she taught in the high school in Quincy, Mass., and from 1917 to 1919 she was a teacher in the English High School in Providence. On June 30, 1919 she was married to Mr. Ernst T. Voigt, a Providence attorney. Mrs. Voigt was chairman of the Alumnae Day Committee in 1928. Last year she was chairman of the committee from the Brown Club which, with the Smith College Club group, sponsored the plays presented by The Players in Alumnae Hall to raise money for scholarships. She was also chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Rhode Island Branch of the American Association of University Women, which raised a considerable amount of money for that organization. She was instrumental in bringing about the establishment of the Brown Alumnae Clubs Scholarship Fund, which was awarded this summer for the first time.

Mrs. Voigt had the happy faculty of making a host of friends for every cause in which she was interested and the welfare of the College and of its alumnae were her first concern. Her friendliness, her ready wit, her cherriness, and her enthusiasm made her a delight to everyone with whom she came in contact and her passing is not only a great loss to the College but the community as well. Mrs. Voigt is survived by her husband, her father, and her sister. To these we extend our sincere sympathy.

Weddings

1923—Helen Avery was married on Aug. 1 to Dr. Leon H. Hetherington and is living at 2851 Bedford Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa

1926—Gladys Holmes was married to Dr. Percy Laurance Bailey, Jr., on June 17 at Farley, Mass.

1927—Kathe Beyer was married on June 13 to Herman Fiedke, a graduate of Berlin University. Mr. and Mrs. Fiedke are living at Greystone-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.

1929—Lulu Vorleck was married in June to Andrew F. Moursund, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Moursund are making their home in Eugene, Oregon, where Mr. Moursund is teaching in the University.

1930—Dorothy Jencks was married on September 1 to Edward Haines Gauthier in Barrington, R. I.

1930—Helen Sparrow was married to Donald Thompson Hicks in New York City on January 2, 1931. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks are living at North Woodstock, Conn.

1930—Verna Follett was married on June 27 to Professor John W. Spaeth, Jr., of Wesleyan University. They are living at 55 Brainerd Ave., Middletown, Conn.

1930—Alice A. Walter was married in August to MacDonald Fulton, A.M. Brown '30. Mr. and Mrs. Fulton are living at 713 Columbia Ave., Lancaster, Penn.

1930—Audrey S. Watson was married on Feb. 29 to Charles E. Southworth and is living at 52 Powers St., Needham, Mass.

Births

1922—To Mr. and Mrs. William Paxton (Helen Thayer), a daughter, Julia Ann Paxton, on July 2, 1931.

1922—To Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Burns (Nancy True), a son, John Irving Burns, on May 18, 1931.

1927—To Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Seward (Lucy Burnham), a son, Gordon Burnham Seward, on July 8, 1931.

* * *

Kindly send items of interest to Mrs. Gertrude Allen McConnell, Executive Secretary af the Alumnae Association of Brown University, 172 Meeting Street, Providence, R. I.

---A STRONG BANK

---A PROGRESSIVE BANK

---A FRIENDLY BANK

MECHANICS National Bank

34 DORRANCE STREET

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

TOLSON

HOTELS and RESTAURANTS

THAT WILL PLEASE BROWN MEN

I AM complimented when fellow Brunonians patronize my hotels. I pledge to the public clean, comfortable accommodations, good food and courteous service, at sensible prices. Try one of the group of Tolson operated hotels or restaurants and experience satisfaction.

T. ELLIOTT TOLSON, President, Brown, 1906.

In Midtown New York

HOTEL BRISTOL
129 West 48th Street, New York
400 Rooms 300 Baths
Convenient to everything and everywhere. Within easy walking distance of all good shops and theatres.
FAMOUS TABLE D'HOTE MEALS
THREE RESTAURANTS
LUNCHEON $.50 DINNER $1.00
A La Carte Service of Merit
RATES
One person ..... $2.00 to $4.00 per day
Two persons ..... $3.00 to $7.00 per day
JOSEPH E. BATH, Manager

HOTEL WENTWORTH
59 West 46th Street, New York
250 Rooms 150 Baths
Home of the BROWN CLUB of NEW YORK
A select hotel in the Fifth Avenue area catering to permanent and transient guests. Whether your visit is for a day or a year you'll like the quiet, dignified service we render.
EL PATIO RESTAURANT
A bit of old Spain in New York
LUNCHEON $.50 DINNER $1.00
A LA CARTE SERVICE OF MERIT
RATES
One person ..... $3.00 to $5.00 per day
Two persons ..... $5.00 to $8.00 per day
NATHAN A. TUFTS, Managing Director

Also HOTEL WEBSTER, 40 West 45th St., New York

In New Jersey

BON AIR LODGE-ON-LAKE HOPATCONG
1000 feet above sea level — Fifty miles from New York
THE SWITZERLAND OF AMERICA — OPEN JUNE TO SEPTEMBER
AMERICAN PLAN—$7.00 to $10.00 PER DAY

R. I. HISTORICAL SOCIETY
68 WATERMAN ST.
PROVIDENCE R. I.

PROVIDENCE R. I.
2 CENTS

THE UNIVERSITY

recently circularized all Brown men suggesting that they file the names of their sons as prospective students, the same to compose a preferred list. This is an excellent idea, and no doubt you have submitted the list.

What provision have you made to finance your son's education?

Have you heard of the Puritan Child's Educational Fund Contract? It is truly a remarkable plan and we have yet to find its equal.

Just mail the attached coupon to-day for complete information. We shall be glad to serve you.

PURITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Executive Offices

TURKS HEAD BUILDING

PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND

PURITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
Turks Head Building,
Providence, R. I.

Kindly send me information regarding your Child's Educational Fund Contract.

Father's Date of Birth .....

Child's Date of Birth .....

Name .....

Address .....