Time Management & Home School Documentation

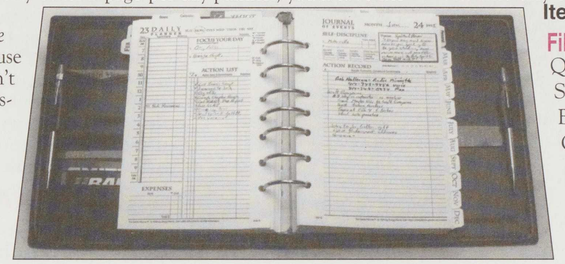
The Noble Planner™

Time Management System

by G. Harris

The Noble Planner derives its name from Isaiah 32:8, "The noble man makes noble plans and by noble deeds he stands." Few things have greater impact in life than how we manage our time. The Noble Planner allows you to do so with a distinctively Christian approach based on loving God with all your heart, soul, mind and strength. You'll plan your week "in the after-glow of worship". The results are a clear life purpose, passionate goals, informed plans and forceful actions. Procrastination and disorganization are defeated for good. If you currently use a Daytimer™, a Franklin Quest™, or any other 2-page-per-day planner, you'll love the unique planners and calendars of The Noble Planner. If you don't use a planner yet, you don't know what you're missing! Test drive The Noble Planner for 30 days.

Your satisfaction is guaranteed, and you have no time to lose.



A 30-Day Adventure in Time Management

Teaching Tips

3-Tape Set

by Valerie Bendt

Are you looking for some new and creative teaching ideas? Teaching Tips is a three tape series that is all that and more. Valerie introduces the design and use of unit studies, teaches us how to turn unit studies into one-of-a-kind books with our children, and gives us tips on how to encourage life-long readers. Great stuff!

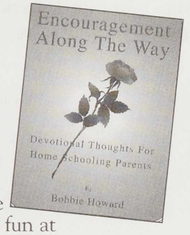
Encouragement Along the Way

by B. Howard



Be honest. There are those days when home schooling is not much fun at all. Pressures from all sides conspire to get you down. It's so easy to forget why you decided to keep the kids home in the first place. Is it really worth it? Bobbie Howard answers heart to heart with this devotional thoughts book for home-school moms. It also makes a great gift book!
