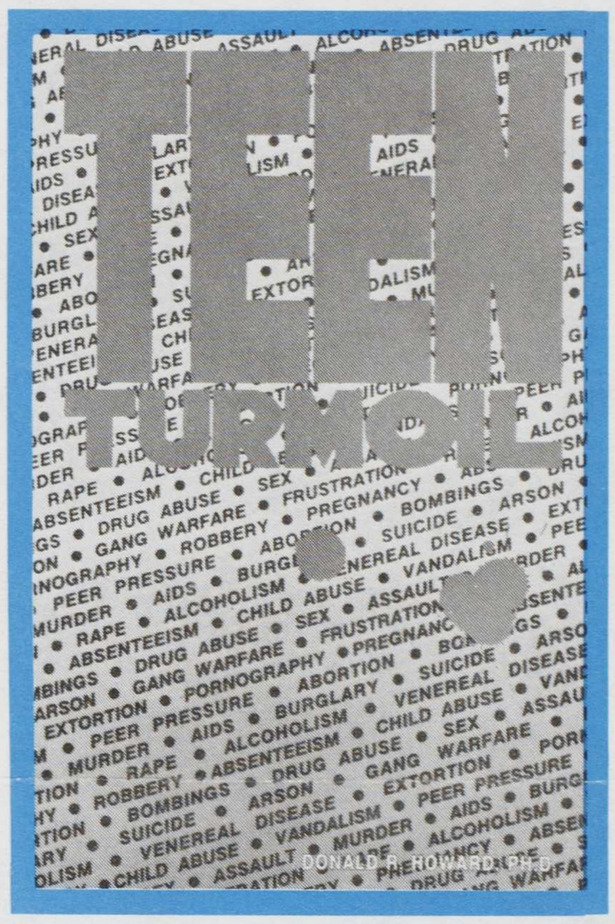
Teen Turmoil

by Donald R. Howard, Ph.D.



Not just teens, but young adults and even adolescents are culturally distraught by these "perilous times." Our own people are crippled by the symptoms of social decadence.

Divorce, pornography, abortion, homosexuality, drugs, child abuse -- even the plague of AIDS -- make victims of our children in what the author describes as a great and terrible cultural conspiracy.

The moral breakdown of society, the academic decline and failure of government schools, the spiritual decay of our churches, and the collapse of all other institutions have a common cause. They are the fruits of something that has caused a cultural consensus that is now distinctly and aggressively Anti-Christ.

Perhaps we are already too late to save this generation, but there may be hope for a remnant through one major, obvious solution. But parents must act now to save their own children.

Dr. Donald R. Howard is the founder and president of Accelerated Christian Education, Inc., and is the catalyst in the establishment of more than 6,000 Christian schools in more than 90 countries since 1970.

The Travail of the Flag

by Shelli Jones Baker

The U. S. Supreme Court recently ruled that protesters or anyone else have the legal right to burn the flag of the United States. Men and women through the decades of time have died for flag and country and prayed that our flag would always continue to fly with honor.

Shelli Baker, under God's direction, painted a magnificent mural of the flag flowing from the pierced side of Jesus Christ, depicting step by step how God formed this mighty nation.

A replica of that mural is included with this outstanding book.

America is too young to die, but die she will, if her people do not repent and return to God who allowed their nation to be.
