a platform for propaganda to the Reds. They mock it. A Communist clown stands banging his shoe upon its table, and the Western world backs away.

7. The U. N. Is Bankrupt Militarily

The U. N.'s so-called peace force was used in aggression against anti-Communist Katanga! A revolutionary change has manifested itself in regard to the U. N.'s military ambitions. Adlai Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, said that the U. N. must have its own force "capable of deterring or subduing the strongest combinations which might be raised against it." This could be the U.S.A.

And in August, 1961, Stevenson declared, "I believe with him (Einstein) that we must be prepared in the West for the restraints on self-interest which a world-wide system of law and policing implies."

The Hon. Robert Morris, former chief counsel of the United States Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, writing in his column, "Around the World," on "Where Are We Going?" said:

"I submit that this man cannot represent the United States when he says these things. He really qualifies as the United Nations ambassador to the United States because he is clearly advocating the supremacy of the U. N. over his own country. When the United States submitted to the United Nations Charter it received specific assurances, from Secretary of State Stettinius and others, against what Adlai Stevenson is now recommending."

This bankrupt United Nations has actually been shaping foreign policy for the United States. The U. N. has usurped United States sovereignty; we are abdicating to the U. N. It has already become a de facto world government! Under no circumstances should the American people tolerate the surrender, directly or indirectly, of the sovereignty and independence of the United States of America.

The U.S.A. must provide leadership for freedom. The U. N. as now organized must go! The U.S.A. unilaterally or in association with free nations with agreed definitions of terms and purposes must proceed to win the cold war. There is no substitute for victory in any war, hot or cold. When we return to elemental morality in our conduct God Almighty will be our Guide and Helper.

8. The U. N. Is Bankrupt

The Knoxville Journal, Friday, December 29, 1961, states the case for its ideological impossibility. It says:

"It has proved a dud from the moment it was brought into being under the midwifery of Alger Hiss. It has served the Communists well. It has manifested no moral courage and no potency for peace except to the extent that the United States government has from time to time forced it to act.

"It can claim no achievement as an organization which our own government acting unilaterally through regular diplomatic channels could not have just as well achieved.

"In the meantime, the taxpayers of this country have consistently contributed up toward 50 per cent of the total cost of U N operations while at the same time harboring the greatest base for espionage and international intrigue the world has known in all its history.

"What the United Nations needs, in our belief, is not a return to any 'track' it has heretofore occupied. What it needs is surgery. Our fondest wish for 1962 is for final services to be held over this international organization, long dead and in pitiful need of the final rites of burial."

The Ecclesiastical United Nations

The strongest support which the United Nations has ever received has come from the leadership of the ecumenical movement. It has been seen in the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and the World Council of Churches on the world level. The New Delhi Assembly of the World Council of Churches in "An Appeal to All Governments and Peoples" declared it a "duty to strengthen the United Nations."

Time magazine, which is a foremost spokesman and propagandist for the ecumenical movement in the journalistic world, in its issue of December 1, 1961, reporting the WCC Assembly's sessions in New Delhi, opened its article with the following:

"It was as if the U. N. unanimously took in Communist China and all the new African and Asian nations in a single morning session. For the World Council of Churches is roughly an ecclesiastical equivalent of the United Nations, and last week at New Delhi, in the early hours of its third Assembly, the World Council accepted in full membership the Russian Orthodox Church and three other Iron Curtain Orthodox churches — plus the one-time missions of Africa and Asia."

There are many parallels between the United Nations and the World Council of Churches.

The acceptance of the Communist-controlled Russian Orthodox Church pointed up the spiritually bankrupt condition of the all-inclusive ecumenical movement.

A one-world church is the goal of the World Council of Churches and a one-world government is the goal of the United Nations. Both must be rejected by God-fearing, freedom-loving Americans!
