Looking Back: 1978 — Our Struggles Revisited — the Year of Sex Rings, Entrapment, Anita Bryant and the Birth of GLAD; a GLAD Forum.
7:30-10 p.m., University of Massachusetts (Park Square campus), 250 Stuart Street, Room 222.

1978 was a pivotal year in the history of Boston's gay and lesbian community. Anita Bryant's national anti-gay crusade, combined with press sensationalism and gay-baiting in an election year saw the community battling allegations of "child sex rings" and fighting mass arrests in the restroom of the Public Library while dealing with internal divisions.

The forum seeks to review the political lessons learned from '78 and examine how they are relevant to our struggles today. It is also a tenth anniversary celebration of the founding of Gay and Lesbian Advocates and Defenders (GLAD), Boston's lesbian and gay legal organization which grew out of the struggles of '78.

Call GLAD at 426-1350.
