

MOMS' & DADS' SURVIVAL GUIDE

Whether you help with homework or homeschool, the Moms' and Dads' School Survival Guide is for you.

The Survival Guide will inform you of current education trends with its glossary of education jargon and feature articles on major issues like so-called Outcome-Based Education (OBE), Goals 2000 and the federal role in education. You'll be equipped with the facts about your child's religious freedoms in a public school. You'll find suggestions for getting involved in your child's schooling and learn about the influence you can have on your child's educational performance—no matter where your child goes to school.

The Survival Guide introduces you to a variety of educational options available to your family, including classical education and parent-based education. A contact list of private, religious and homeschool groups will provide the assistance you need for making the important choice about where to educate your child.

With its extensive reference section, the Survival Guide shows you where to turn for the educational resources you need. From education newsletters to World Wide Web sites, you'll have all the information at your fingertips.

The Survival Guide is a resource bank for all moms and dads who are concerned about their children's education. Use it in your family and share it with others.

As a special offering, FRC has reverently produced "Ten Commandments" textbook covers. Share this attractive and artistic gift with your children and their world.

FAMILY RESEARCH COUNCIL