

generation and adults and the training of its own cadres.

The socialist state should assume the responsibility for providing necessary conditions for educational work.

In socialist society where the means of production are owned by the state and society and educational institutions are directed by the state, educational work can be successful only when the state guarantees it responsibly.

It is an honorable duty of the socialist state serving the people to afford necessary conditions for education. The socialist state should be fully responsible for adequately providing all necessary conditions for educational work—the training of teachers, building of schools, arrangement of educational facilities and preparation of teaching materials and tools and school fixtures.

Content of Socialist Education

The content of education characterizes its nature and quality.

The content of socialist education should be so composed as to revolutionize and working-classize people and bring them up to be people of a communist type well prepared mentally, morally and physically and developed versatily. The content of socialist education should be thoroughly revolutionary, and scientific and realistic.

Politico-Ideological Education

Politico-ideological education holds the most important place in socialist education. Only through proper politico-ideological education is it possible to rear the students into revolutionaries equipped with a revolutionary world outlook and the ideological and moral qualities as befitting communist-type people. And only on the basis of proper politico-ideological education can both scientific and technological education and physical culture be conducted with success.

What is of paramount importance in politico-ideological education is to equip students firmly with the Juche idea.
