

FRRC provides a steady diet of research from our talented staff of experts. We produce everything from lengthy briefs that offer detailed policy analysis to concise summary papers. Occasionally, we create public service campaigns, such as our "Government Doesn't Work Without You" public service announcements and our "Save Sex" ads, that run in national and local markets. Our "pocket policies" are handy-size publications that fit in your pocket or purse. They provide key information on important topics, such as how to make your child's school family-friendly and what the Bible says about homosexuality.

Our award-winning website provides a wealth of information in a user-friendly format. You can easily search FRC's resource bank by subject, title, author or even key word. The website also introduces you to the experts who make up the staff of FRC.

Some of the FRC publications that will keep you informed:

Washington Watch: our monthly newsletter covering current news and events affecting families in the courts, in the legislature and across the country

Family Policy: our bimonthly journal that analyzes public policy from a pro-family perspective and provides thoughtful analysis of the ideas shaping our culture

i.e. [Ideas and Energy]: our monthly newsletter that educates and motivates high school and college-age students on current issues
