

Cogitations from Albert Jay Nock

"It is the spirit and manners of a people, and not the bewildering multiplicity of its social mechanisms, that determines the quality of its civilization."

AJN

He wore his erudition lightly and had a rare skill in the handling of words. In the most casual way, by a novel turn of phrase, by an unexpected allusion, we glimpse a new idea.

This rich and varied feast of AJN's thoughts was compiled by Robert Monroe Thornton, and has a Note to the Reader by Jacques Barzun. Published by The Nockian Society. Price, one dollar.
