Why you should take the Brown Alumni Monthly

The price to alumni is only one dollar per annum—less than the cost.

It keeps you informed of what is happening at Brown and also what is going to happen.

It tells you what your classmates and friends are doing; and chronicles the births, deaths and marriages among them.

It gives you full reports on current sports and statistics of past athletic events.

It publishes many interesting articles by alumni and wants one from you.

It reaches about 2400 of the alumni, a larger proportion probably than any other college magazine.

It helps the University and the President in many ways—if you don't believe it, ask the President.

A dollar is not much; put it into a copy of the Monthly; it will make you happy for a year.

We want your interest and your money—we can't get along without it.

HON. RICHARD OLNEY, 1856

President Wilson has signally honored Mr. Olney on two occasions in recent months. First he offered him the ambassadorship at London, which Mr. Olney declined. Last month he chose him as Governor of the new Federal Reserve Board, but Mr. Olney felt it necessary, in view of other imperative demands on his time, to forego this honor also. Mr. Olney is in good health. His home is on Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

WHY NOT A CREW?

By Edwin H. Coleman

Captain Narragansett Boat Club

That a preparatory school of Providence has this spring formed a crew, purchased a shell and started active training has again prompted the oft-repeated question, "Why doesn't Brown resume rowing?" With the University's former high standing in this sport (which the President-emeritus of Harvard has called the best of all college athletics) and a course near at hand far better than many, the fact that Morris Heights has a crew rowing on the Seekonk daily would make it seem timely to discuss seriously this branch of athletics with the view of at once restoring it to Brown's list of sports.

Another reason that should seriously commend rowing to the attention of the Brown athletic authorities is the greatly increased interest in this sport at the present time. Throughout the country, colleges, preparatory schools and rowing clubs are far more active in this regard than in many years, if not ever before. To cite a few instances of the vastly increased interest, the Union Boat Club is sending an eight to Henley, composed mainly of Harvard grads. who have sat in the 'Varsity boat, along with several scullers. One of the big colleges also is contemplating sending an eight to England. There are more candidates than ever for places in the 'varsity crews of the various colleges. The regattas of the different clubs and associations affiliated with the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen promise larger entry lists than ever before. Boat builders report the busiest winter in two decades. The local club, the Narragansett Boat Club, which is the oldest rowing club in America, having been founded in 1838, has a crew on the river for the first time in over twenty years, and a new boat to row in. By this last statement, let it not be inferred that the Boat Club has been dormant all this time. Quite the reverse; but its interest has been devoted mainly, of late, to sculling and canoeing.

What is the cause of this revival and activity in this grand old sport? Authorities largely attribute it to the fact that our young men are more and more beginning to realize the keen delight of a spin on a sunshiny spring afternoon, the invigorating benefits of the cool shower afterwards, the feeling that every muscle in the body has been exercised and the gloriously healthy appetite that is induced. It is an opportunity in the spring for college men not engaged in baseball and track athletics to participate in one of the healthiest forms of athletics. It is acknowledged by many trainers as the best spring training for the football team. The statistics of rowing colleges prove that boys taking up rowing gain in weight and muscular development faster and to a greater extent than in the other major sports. Often a rowing man will gain twenty pounds during his course. Medical authorities are at one in placing rowing at the head of healthful sports.

A BROWN CREW OF THE SEVENTIES

So it would seem with this revival locally, and with interest at high tide in the rest of the country, that it would be well for the Brown Athletic Board, the grads. who have rowed in Brown boats in years gone by and all others who have rowing at heart to get together.

Now, as to the facilities we have at hand. First, the course. The distance on the Seekonk between the old Pawtucket Boat Club and Red Bridge is three miles. In this stretch a two-mile course was surveyed many years ago, starting one-half mile south of the Pawtucket Boat Club and finishing at the Narragansett Boat Club. It is practically straight-away and with the exception of the first quarter-mile very wide. On account of the high banks the river is more free from rough water than most courses. At present the tide at certain times runs strong, but races can easily be arranged to be started when the tide is full, or on the ebb and rowed with the current as is done at Poughkeepsie.

All in all, the course is an excellent one. The one thing that could be done to make it nearly ideal is something that would be brought about, in all probability, by the extended interest a Brown crew would create. This is a tide lock and dam in the vicinity of the new East Side tunnel railroad bridge. This would make a basin north of the proposed dam similar to the Charles River basin and its benefits would be manifold. The most practical one would possibly be the benefit to navigation caused by a constant depth, extreme low tides now making the river navigation difficult. It would make a lake of good and constant depth with but a slight current, which would carry off the small amount of refuse it receives and with its natural beauties along the shore be a delightful place for oarsmen and the public in general. This lock and dam would be a simple and fairly reasonable engineering job as the extensive fills the New Haven

As to club house facilities. Although the old Brown boat house is still standing, in its present condition it is of little use as a boat house. The house of the Narragansett Boat Club is well equipped for a Brown crew. It has ample boat room, lockers and showers. It is situated on the finish of the course and its broad piazzas make a pleasant place from which to view the races. This club would welcome a Brown crew and has extended, in past years, several invitations to Brown to take up rowing road has recently made at either end of its bridge would make the cost much less than when this plan was originally proposed. The practicability of this plan and its benefits to navigation ought to insure the support of the merchant marine, and this support, together with the influence of the friends of a Brown crew, the Narragansett Boat club and the Morris Heights School, could undoubtedly bring enough pressure to bear to cause the dam to be built.

again. The Boat Club now strongly urges that men of Brown commence to arrange for a crew in 1915, and again extends a cordial invitation to Brown to use the club house facilities.

With a good course already at hand, (something that Princeton did not have) and a well equipped boat house at its service, the remainder necessary for a crew should be easy if Brown has the interest and spirit. Has it?

[The Brown Alumni Monthly has persistently, for years, advocated a revival of Brown boating. The chief argument heard against it is its cost. You can't charge an admission fee to a rowing race. But a volunteer crew, rowing in a borrowed boat, would not be an expensive beginning, and we venture to say that such a beginning would be enough to bring the fine old sport back to something like its old status at Brown. A thousand dollars, we are told, would provide a shell and a season's expenses. The Narragansett Boat Club's generous offer should be unhesitatingly accepted. It may be added that Harvard would be a natural spring rival, owing to the short distance separating the two universities.]

BEAR'S DEN WELCOMES YOU

Every former student of Brown is invited to use the Bear's Den during the Commencement season. It is situated at 21 South Main street, up two flights, and will be open from 10 a. m. to 12 midnight daily. A register will be provided which all Brunonians are asked to sign.

From 12 noon, for two or three hours, a 35-cent luncheon will be served. Light meals, including tea, sandwiches, eggs, etc., can be ordered at other times of the day.

The Bear's Den has had a successful year, has made a niche for itself in the Brown scheme of things and hopes for larger usefulness in the future. Its fee of five dollars a year is so small that many more men should join. There are some 300 or more members at the present time. Dues can be sent to Irving C. Hunt, Treasurer.

CHANGE OF DINING HALL

At the Brown Union a great and salutary change will be made next fall. The dining room, which has been in the east basement, will be moved to the first floor, at the east end, where the reading room now is. This will give a large and airy apartment, big and dignified enough, we should think, to be known as the Brown dining hall.

The kitchen facilities down stairs will be much enlarged and altogether the service should be better than ever before.

The expense of the change will be met by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., 1897, whose generosity has already been so manifest in the equipment of the building—Rockefeller Hall—given by his father.

BROWN ALUMNI OF CHICAGO

The annual meeting of the Chicago Alumni Association of Brown University was held on the evening of April 24th, at the University Club of Chicago. Harry H. Mallory, '99, President of the Association, acted as toastmaster. The principal speakers were Professor Nathaniel Butler, of the University of Chicago, and Professor W. G. Everett, of Brown. Brief informal talks were contributed by Julius A. Johnson, '82. Donald L. Morrill, '80, who is President of the Associated Alumni; Dr. Gerald B. Smith, '91, of the University of Chicago; A. R. Webb, '05, the football captain; Lester L. Falk, '06, and F. L. Morse, '86, Principal of the Carter H. Harrison Technical High School of Chicago. After an evening of song, jollification and real inspiration, the meeting adjourned, having elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

F. L. Morse, '86, President; R. G. Martin, '04, Vice President; Lester L.

Falk, '06, Secretary and Treasurer. Executive Committee: Elmer T. Stevens, '04, Chairman; Harold Wallace, '11, E. W. Berriman, '12, Charles L. Bartlett, '82.

Following is the list of those present:

The committee in charge of the 150th anniversary of Brown University decided long ago not to include in their programme any publication of books by members of the Faculty. The only two books issued this year under the official sanction of the University will be the Historical Catalogue and the History of the University by Professor Bronson. It was felt that any really valuable books by members of the Faculty could find a publisher without drawing on the University treasury. With this understanding several of the Faculty have important publications either just issued or now in press. Professor Fowler's History of the Literature of Ancient Israel, Professor Manatt's Aegean Days and Professor Walter's Genetics are among recent Faculty publications that have already attained wide circulation. Other books may soon be expected.

FALL RIVER TAKES HONORS

Samuel T. Arnold of Fall River, Mass., has been awarded the Grand Army of the Republic Fellowship for the year 1914-1915. The Fellowship carries an annual income of five hundred dollars. Mr. Arnold was graduated from Brown University in 1913, and has since been doing graduate work. He is a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the Department of Chemistry and Physics.

He is the second Brown man from Fall River to obtain academic honor this year, W. M. Sullivan, Brown 1913, of that city having been appointed Rhodes scholar from Rhode Island last autumn.

BROWN MAN CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF THE INTERNATIONAL SURGICAL ASSOCIATION

DR. WILLIAM WILLIAMS KEEN, 1859

Dr. Keen of Philadelphia, the dean of the surgical profession in the United States, has been elected President of the International Surgical Congress, the next meeting of which is to be held in Paris in September, 1917. The first three meetings occurred in Brussels in 1905, 1908 and 1911; the fourth in New York in April, 1914. The former Presidents have been a Swiss, Kocher of Bern; a German, Czerny of Heidelberg; a Frenchman, Championniere of Paris, and a Belgian, Depage of Brussels—in the order named.

THE REFORM OF COLLEGE BASEBALL

Report of a Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association

The charter of your committee is found in the action taken by this Association at the evening session one year ago when it was voted that the chairman "appoint a committee of three to consider what measures the Association may take to rid baseball of its objectionable features."

Their instructions are found in the opening address of President Briggs at the morning session, and in his admirable article on "Amateur and Professional Sportsmanship in Baseball," published in Spaulding's Official College Baseball Annual for 1913, pp. 5 and 7.

Your committee has for the time being nothing to do with the difficult question of eligibility, nor with summer ball in its relation to amateur sport. It is concerned with what is appropriate and desirable in the conduct of the game itself, in order that the manners of officials, players, and spectators may be uniformly those of gentlemen, where the highest ideals of fairness and sportsmanship shall be maintained, as is so admirably done in intercollegiate tennis.

We do not think that anything should be recommended which would diminish the virility of the game, or lessen the scope of individual skill, or of clever team work, but we contend that strategy must not deteriorate into trickery, and that the rules of the game must be observed, not only in letter but in spirit as well.

To this end your committee recommends:

First. The strict enforcement of rule 58 of the official Rule Book, which defines the coaching rules at first and third bases, explicitly providing that "the coacher shall be restricted to coaching the base runner only, and shall not address remarks except to the base runner, and then only in words of assistance and direction in running bases. He shall not by words or signs incite or try to incite the spectators to demonstrations, and shall not use language which will in any manner reflect upon a player of the opposite club, the umpire, or the spectator."

Second. The strict enforcement of rule 21, par. 1, which explicitly provides that "under no circumstances shall the umpire permit any person except the players and substitutes in uniform and the manager of the team entitled to its use to be seated on a bench. This rule places the professional coach or trainer among the spectators, where he should be during the actual progress of the game, and places the responsibility for the conduct of the play in the hands of the amateur players themselves.

Third. The strict enforcement by the umpire of the rules forbidding "blocking a runner," "prying a runner off the base," and the like, as unfair practice, and we appeal to student public opinion to condemn such trickery, making it impossible even should it elude the vigilance of the umpire. Such sharp practice is explicitly prohibited by the rules, and an attempt surreptitiously to transgress them is as unsportsmanlike as it would be for a tennis player, hoping to escape detection, to deliver his service from an unlawful position.

We recommend further that, in pursuance of the spirit of the rules, boards of athletic control and faculties of colleges and universities, banded together to promote a healthy growth and a wise control of student athletics, adopt and enforce the following specific regulations:

First. The catcher shall not, during actual play, speak at all to the batsman, except where occasion requires a bona fide word of caution, and in speaking to the pitcher he shall not use words reflecting, or calculated to reflect, upon the batsman or any member of the opposing team.

Second. No member of either team shall call or shout during the game to any member of the opposing team except to caution him against some danger, nor behave in any indecorous or unseemly manner.

Third. There shall be no oral coaching from the bench.

Fourth. The so-called "encouragement of the pitcher" from the outfield shall be stopped, or at least minimized, since we believe that the shouting of remarks in endless iteration is not only disagreeable to the spectators, but is disconcerting rather than helpful to the pitcher. In general, it amounts merely to senseless noise, and is quite unworthy of college-bred men. Whatever "encouragement" or "support" the pitcher may need can be quietly given from the infield.

Fifth. The umpire shall warn any player violating any of these rules, and on a second offence shall exclude him from the game.

Sixth. That in general the attention of students be called to the importance of courtesy on the part of the home institution to the visiting team, a courtesy which will forbid such cheering, singing, or chatter as are designed at critical moments to "rattle" the visiting team.

A baseball game is a splendid contest of skill between two opposing nines, before an academic throng of spectators; it is not a contest between a visiting team and a local team assisted by a disorderly rabble. It is delightful, when, as often happens, a fine play by the visiting team is as heartily applauded as a similar play by the home team.

To the end that these principles, if endorsed by this Association, be a real force and not a mere brutum fulmen, we recommend that, if adopted, this report be printed in separate form, and copies be sent by the secretary to the presidents, the deans, the athletic directors or similar officers, the chairman of faculty committees on athletic sports, and to the editors of undergraduate publications of all colleges and universities, and also to the leading preparatory schools in the United States, with a formal request for action thereon, and a report of such action to the secretary of the Association.

Louis Bevier, Jr., Chairman

THE NAMING OF MOUNT MARCY

As many, even among Brunonians, do not realize that the highest peak of the Adirondaeks bears the name of a Brown graduate, it may be well to present a fact connected with the naming of the mountain.

It was not until the first third of the nineteenth century had passed that the Adirondack range or any of its peaks bore names known to men of the white race. In September, 1836, Professor Ebenezer Emmons, who had charge of the northern district of the New York State Geological Survey, with his assistant, James Hall, climbed and measured Whiteface. From the top they could see the highest peak among the mountains. Earlier in the same year William C. Redfield, the meteorologist, while following up the source of the Hudson River, saw the same high peak. The following year these three gentlemen, with John Torrey, the State botanist, and others succeeded in reaching the top. Professor Emmons thus accounts for his re-naming the highest peak:

"As this tour of exploration was made . . . under the direction of the present Executive, whose interest in the Survey has been expressed both by public recommendation and private counsel and advice, it was thought that a more appropriate name could not be conferred on the highest mountain than Mount Marcy."

William L. Marcy was Governor of New York 1833-39. He had been United States Senator and was afterwards Secretary of War and Secretary of State. The mountain named after him is 5345 feet high; its top is therefore 65 feet more than a mile above sea level. The name given by Professor Emmons has been accepted by the United States Board of Geographic Names; but a loyal Brunonian may be permitted to regret the loss of the Indian name, Tahawus, or "Cloud-splitter."

THE COLLEGE AND PRACTICAL
LIFE

It has been well pointed out by Bosanquet that the true interpretation of Plato's famous saying that "philosophers should be kings or kings philosophers" is to be found not in the individual, but in society. Philosophy and statecraft are to aid one another, not by striking an average, but by partnership; not by commingling, but by mutual influence and irradiation. It is not to be expected, or even desired, that all men shall be college graduates, but it is in the highest degree desirable that the college should permeate the community with ideals of culture, and that the community should so vitalize the college with human interest that its studies shall not degenerate into sterile abstractions.

In their highest developments art, science, and philosophy cannot be directly democratic. Only a few persons in any community will ever be able to practice or understand them. A George William Hill lives unknown and dies unnoticed, though every American was honored by being the countryman of that great master of celestial mathematics. Lester F. Ward was one of the loneliest of men, though one of the most revered by those capable of judging his work. It is only indirectly, through its results, that the loftiest culture can be democratized. This is a truth that America is prone to forget, and that even our colleges do not always hold as a living article of faith. The benefits of the college to its community are not always, nor immediately, visible, tangible, or traceable. It is natural that many should doubt their importance, or even their existence; but for the colleges or any of their children to do so is unpardonable.

It is not easy to convey vividly by a single stroke a realization of this vital part played by our colleges in the practical life of America. Perhaps the most convincing way is to call up a picture of our national life without them. Imagine every direct and indirect result of the presence of our colleges removed from the community. Not that all our culture is derived from our colleges; but we should then be forced to recognize how nearly all is. Could such an elimination be made actual, most of us would buy our tickets for Antarctica to-morrow. Those who stayed would do so, not for pleasure, but out of a sense of duty, in conformity to the fine sentiment, "where the voice of liberty is not heard, there is my country."

It is the fate of all best things to be appreciated by only a few. Fortunately the "remnant" that appreciates the colleges is in America so large that our higher institutions are in no danger of lacking support. But, on the other hand, their champions are not so many that popular appreciation of the best that the colleges have to give can be taken for granted. The support given to the colleges should be constant and open, with the voice and the vote as well as with the purse. The task that confronted our colleges two hundred years ago, though great, was only child's play compared to that which faces them now; but, if they never needed their friends more than at present, neither did they ever deserve them better.

BROWN AND WESLEYAN

Wesleyan University, which is to play football with Brown during the celebration of the 150th anniversary in October, has, through its Athletic Council, offered to make the trip with no guaranty save that of entertainment and expenses. This action, taken in view of the fact that there will be no financial returns from the game in Providence, is a very pleasant instance of intercollegiate courtesy. Brown and Wesleyan are very similar in the ideals of their founders, and it is gratifying to have the younger institution thus extend courtesies to the older.

The two universities are bound by many ties. The first President of Wesleyan was a Brown man—Wilbur Fisk. At the present time Brown is represented on the Wesleyan Faculty by three men, of whom a private letter from Middleton, from which we are permitted to quote, says:

"Professor Walter G. Cady, '95, is recognized as at least the peer of any of our younger professors; not only, however, is he a scholar and an inspiring teacher; his personal influence over the boys is remarkable.

"Last fall there came to us Dr. Moses L. Crossley. Dr. Crossley has, in one year, made a large place for himself. . . . He has been elected Associate Professor of Chemistry for next year, and, in the going of Professor Bradley, will be acting head of our Department of Chemistry.

"Last winter Professor Frederick Slocum, now of Yerkes Observatory, was elected Professor of Astronomy. Those of us who have met Professor Slocum believe that he will be a distinct addition to our Faculty.

"I simply want you to know of the appreciation in which these sons of Brown are held at Wesleyan."

A CHAPEL SUGGESTION

Editor Brown Alumni Monthly:

I was much interested in reading the suggestion of Dr. Edward Judson this month, in reference to the proposed new College Chapel, taking the place of Manning Hall, relegating the sturdy Greek temple to a place in an affectionate memory.

Rarely in the old college groups of the country is there a more notable composition of architectural harmony. The long simple horizontal lines of University Hall and Hope College give an emphatic value to the vertical dignity of the massive columns which unitedly, in their environment of campus and elms, constitute the crown of College Hill.

A new Chapel wisely designed in harmony with the environments, might equally well accentuate the architectural tout ensemble of the middle campus. At the same time, a Chapel, both in its exterior and interior, giving a message of inspiration to the whole University life

COMPLIMENTS FROM COLORADO

Editor Brown Alumni Monthly:

As a former newspaperman of ten years experience from Coast to Coast, may I be permitted to say that yours is a most excellent publication? It stands so far ahead of other college publications of its kind that I think it but scant praise to call it the peer of them all. Your work in fostering the good old Brown spirit cannot be too highly commended. So, from "the top of the world," we say to you, more power to you and the Brown Alumni Monthly.

Sincerely yours,

Luke J. Kavanaugh, '98

THE GOAL

By Harry Lyman Koopman

The loads by Fate in spite or scorn
 Laid on man's eager, questing soul,
 Swift-straining toward a far-off goal,
Are heavy, but they can be borne.

Toil we have borne till we have won
 A strength that else had ne'er been ours;
 Pain, it but softer makes the bowers
Where we shall rest, our journey done.

Doubt, even this our souls can bear—
 The question if our way be right,
 Or, being true, if ours the might
To scale its steep, to breathe its air.

The end at last shall banish doubt;
 But we, shall we behold the end?
 For we are not, who weary wend,
The same who, blithe, long since set out.

O mocking Distance! Every height
 We trample, every traversed plain,
 Reveals the goal we thought to gain
Crowned with a new horizon's light.

And so, with half a life-time past,
 We waken dazed to realize
 We seek a goal behind our eyes
Projected on the infinite vast.

We cannot reach it, for it flees
 Even with the step that would pursue;
 Or, could we gain it, we must rue
'Tis one that flesh, not spirit, sees.

So now, with hearts no longer wrung,
 We mark our goal fleet far and dim;
 For, while it haunts the horizon's rim,
Whatever our years, we still are young.

THE PSI UPSILON CONVENTION

By Theodore Francis Green, 1887

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 29th and 30th and May 1st, the Annual Convention of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity was held with the Sigma Chapter at Brown. This was the first time the Convention has been held here since 1890, and, furthermore, it was the occasion of celebrating the beginning of the Sigma Chapter's 75th year of continuous and prosperous existence. In consequence there was an exceptionally large and enthusiastic attendance, there being present not only delegates from all the twenty-four chapters in the various colleges as far West as the University of California, but many other undergraduates also, and a considerable body of alumni, some of the latter coming from the middle West and even from the Pacific Coast and Canada.

Of course, the nature of the business transacted at the business sessions is kept confidential, but there were many other features of the programme, some of which are of general interest.

On Wednesday evening there was an organization meeting of the delegates, and later a smoker in the Narragansett Hotel ball-room, which gave excellent opportunity for all the visiting brothers to meet one other.

On Thursday, the forenoon was taken up with a business meeting, and at half past twelve a special train of five cars took the members to the Pomham Club, where a luncheon was served, followed by a fraternity baseball game between the East and West, and other sports. At five o'clock a regular Rhode Island clambake, with all the fixings, offered the men from away a good illustration of a form of hospitality for which Rhode Island is peculiarly famous. About nine o'clock a special train returned to Providence.

On Friday, the forenoon was again taken up with a business meeting. A luncheon was served at the Sigma Chapter House, 4 Manning street, and after the Convention photograph was taken, special trolley cars left the Chapter House for Andrews Field. There, thanks to the courtesy of Professor Marvel, a section of the grandstand was reserved from which to watch the ball game between Brown and the University of Virginia.

In the evening the programme culminated with the convention banquet, which was held in the Narragansett Hotel ball-room.

While the excursion to Pomham proved to most of the men attending the greatest novelty, and perhaps the most enjoyable feature of the programme, the banquet was a matter of greater public interest. The Chairman of the Convention Committee presided. Judge Norman S. Dike, New York, Brown '85, made a particularly happy toastmaster; and the speakers were Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, Principal of Phillips Andover Academy, Amherst '94; Professor Henry C. Emery, of Yale University, Bowdoin '92; Reverend Lucian Rogers, Chestnut Hill, Trinity '91; and Honorable Rathbone Gardner, Brown '77. The speeches were not only of a high order of excellence, but as might be imagined from the speakers themselves, full not only of enthusiasm but of inspiration. Almost every speaker emphasized with conviction the value in life of loyal friendships. Ex-President William Howard Taft, Yale '78, was to have been one of the speakers, but being confined to his home by illness was prevented from coming. A special telephone connection was arranged between his room in his house and the speakers' table, so that in addition to the letter of regret which he had sent he was able to deliver a short address to those at the banquet, a feature which aroused much enthusiasm. Judge

Taft's letter was as follows:

April 29th, 1914.

My dear Sir:

"I had promised myself the pleasure of being present at the Psi U Convention and of enjoying the proceedings. As I have come back into University life and visited a number of the Chapters of the dear old Fraternity, I am impressed with its growth and influence for good; and with a knowledge of the useful influences that it exerts in college and university life, I deprecate the general attack upon the system of Greek letter fraternities and must attribute it to the restless agitation for change in conditions, without consideration of the practical utility of such a change that must, I suppose, accompany the present movement for real progress as a hysterical incident, and not as a permanent feature of it.

"With very best wishes for the Convention and the banquet, believe me,

"Sincerely and fraternally yours,

Wm. H. Taft

Mr. Theodore F. Green,

Chairman of the Psi U Convention Committee,
Industrial Trust Company Building,
Providence, Rhode Island.

After the Convention was over it was generally said to have been not only one of the most largely attended and enthusiastic which the Fraternity has ever held, but in every respect an unqualified success. It is certain that the men from the other colleges carried away with them warm regard for our hospitality: yet no untoward incidents occurred such as sometimes mar such occasions.

The success of the Convention was largely due to the general interest on the part of the local alumni and the manner in which the work was divided among different committees so that no too great burden fell upon any one group of men. It may be of interest to the local chapters of other fraternities expecting to entertain conventions here to know what this organization was. There was a General Convention Committee of nine members, of which the writer was Chairman, Frank Hail Brown, '85, was treasurer, and Maurice A. Wolf, '14, was secretary. A member of this General Committee was Chairman of each of the eight sub-committees. These were constituted as follows:

Speakers Committee—Henry B. Gardner, '84, Chairman. Robert H. I. Goddard, '58, Henry F. Lippitt, '78, Otis E. Randall, '84, Robert S. Holding, Jr., '14.

Finance Committee—Frank Hail Brown, '85, Chairman. Henry T. Grant, '69, Rathbone Gardner, '77, William Gammell, '78, Charles T. Howard, '78, James Richardson, '82, Charles H. Meriman, Jr., '92, Francis M. Smith, '92, William P. Comstock, '99, Paul D. Howe, '11.

Banquet Committee—John Henshaw, '87, Chairman. James L. Wheaton, '91, John B. Lewis, '96, Frederick L. Jenckes, '98, Joseph H. Farnham, '14.

Smoker Committee—Edwin A. Barrows, '91, Chairman. Howard A. Richmond, '97, William H. Buffum, '98, LeBaron C. Colt, '99, Merwin White, '99, William P. Dodge, '09, Donald Babcock, '10, Milton H. Stansbury, '15, Frank A. Farnham, 2nd, '16, F. Russell Smith, '16.

Publicity Committee—Charles B. Mackinney, '96, Chairman. J. Donald Pryor, '08, Harold D. Scott, '16.

Delegates Committee—Paul C. DeWolf, '05, Chairman. Michael J. Lynch, '04, Frederick B. Thurber, '05, Royal W. Leith, '12, Arthur W. Howe, Jr., '13, James G. Affleck, Jr., '14, Cyrus G. Allen, '15, George C. Valentine, '15, Frederick A. Ballou, Jr., '16, W. R. LeRoy McBee, '16.

Excursion Committee—Ellery L. Wilson, '05, Chairman. Byron S. Watson, '97, Myron H. S. Affleck, '07, Harold P. Babcock, '09, Morris F. Conant, '10, Darius Goff, '11, Victor G. Gelb, '13, Harrison Bliss, '15, Philip S. Kellen, '15, W. Russell Affleck, '16.

Ball Game Committee—Maurice A. Wolf, '14, Chairman. Arthur E. Bartlett, '14, Samuel G. A. Rogers, '15, Frederic H. Bontecou, '17, Elliott L. Thurston, '17.

Apart from the actual business done at this Convention there are other lasting results. The high standard of hospitality previously enjoyed by the local chapter has been maintained; the bond between the active members and the alumni has been made faster; the appreciation of what a fraternity like Psi Upsilon means has been deepened; the spirit of loyalty has been strengthened. As Dr. Stearns said in his speech,

"It is not enough that you be loyal to Psi U. You must be loyal to the college you represent and above all to your country."

I think it impossible for a man to enter sympathetically into a gathering such as this Convention was without realizing what great possibilities for good lie in the fraternity system. I feel that the fraternities have done much for Brown in the past and stand ready to do and will do much for Brown in the future.

TOPICS OF THE MONTH

THE HONORARY SOCIETIES

Elections to the Brown Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa were announced on April 27 by President Faunce, and the successful candidates were decorated with the blue ribbon of the ancient society in the presence of the whole student body at the end of the daily chapel services. On April 28 the elections to the scientific honorary society, Sigma Xi, were similarly announced.

This formal and public recognition of the chief intellectual distinctions attainable by Brown students is another step in the general movement at the University to stimulate interest in the pursuit of intellectual honors. Heretofore election to the honorary societies has been announced inconspicuously on the bulletin boards, whereas the election to the chief Senior society, the Cammariam Club, has been announced in chapel with much ceremony.

Phi Beta Kappa men from the class of 1914: Charles Everett Blackway, Fall River, Mass.; Raymond Franklin Borden, Newport, R. I.; Arthur William Cate, Providence; Herbert Haywood Champney, Taunton, Mass.; Clarence Adelbert Davis, East Killingly, Conn.; Abraham Feitelberg, Fall River, Mass.; Frederick Rowland Hazard, Syracuse, N. Y.; Edward Aloysius McLaughlin, Providence; Cyril Carpenter Smith, Seekonk, Mass.

From the class of 1915: Ismar Baruch, New London, Conn.; Ralph Leon Blanchard, Pittsfield, Me.; George Fremont Bliven, Providence; Frederick

Hartwell Greene, Newton Centre, Mass.; Frederick Johnson Hunt, East Providence; Samuel Greene Arnold Rogers, West Chester, Pa.

Hazard, '14, and Greene and Arnold, '15, are sons of Brown men.

Phi Beta Kappa women, '14: Elizabeth Bodfish of Palmer, Mass.; Mildred X. E. Cutler and Mary C. Grandfield of Pawtucket, R. I.; Florence H. Simonds of Franklin, Mass., and Marjorie A. Thayer of Woonsocket, R. I.

Women, '15: Marion P. Harley of Pawtucket and Blanche A. Schiller of Central Falls, R. I.

Each student elected to membership in Sigma Xi was presented with a formal notification of his election. The basis of election to Sigma Xi is a little different from that of Phi Beta Kappa, since it is promise in scientific research, rather than the rank in one's class, which is the determining factor. The list of students elected in 1914 is as follows:

Resident graduates; Miss Helen Emerson of Bryn Mawr, Alfred C. Hawkins of Plainfield, N. J., Instructor in Geology at Brown, Ralph G. Hurlin of Antrim, N. H., Thomas H. Roberts of Providence, George H. Robinson of Lewiston, Me., and John F. Von der Lieth of Hoboken, N. J.

Class of 1914: Raymond F. Borden of Newport, Hubert H. Champney of Taunton, Mass., Herbert E. Foote of Pawtucket, Earl W. Harrington of Providence, Chester L. Knowles of Narragansett Pier, Cyril G. Smith of Seekonk, Mass., and Eli M. Viner of Providence.

BROWN WINS DUAL MEET

Thanks largely to Captain Bartlett, who contributed 10 points, Brown won the dual track and field meet from Amherst at Andrews Field, May 2, by a score of 65 to 60.

None of the time made in the track events was exceptionally fast. A brisk wind blew across the field and the runners encountered hard work battling with it on the back stretch.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Cole, Amherst; second, Hall, Brown; third, Halloran, Brown. Time :10 2-5.

220-yard dash—Won by Cole, Amherst; second, Hall, Brown; third, Washburn, Amherst. Time :24 1-5.

120-yard hurdles—Won by Nelligan, Amherst; second Ames, Amherst; no third place. Both Brown entries disqualified. Time :17.

230-yard dash—Won by Ferguson, Amherst; second, Nelligan, Amherst; third, Affleck, Brown. Time :27 3-5.

400-yard dash—Won by Cole, Amherst; second, Hall, Brown; third, Halloran, Brown. Time :52 3-5.

880-yard run—Won by Coop, Brown; second, Stafford, Amherst; third Saunders, Brown. Time 2:06 2-5.

Mile run—Won by Coop, Brown; second, Heavens, Amherst; third, Otte, Amherst. Time 4:49.

Two-mile run—Won by Waterman, Brown; second, Langley, Brown; third, E. Glann, Amherst. Time 10:20 4-5.

Shot put—Won by Bartlett, Brown; second, McLeod, Brown; third Herrshaft, Amherst. Distance 39 feet 4 inches.

Discus throw—Won by Bartlett, Brown; second, Burwell, Brown; third, Miller, Amherst. Distance 118 feet 10 inches.

Hammer throw—Won by Bartlett, Brown; second, Miller, Amherst; third, McLeod, Brown. Distance 118 feet 4 1-2 inches.

High jump—Bartlett of Brown and Huthsteiner of Amherst tied for first and second places at 5 feet and 7 inches; third, tie between Cross and White, both of Brown. Huthsteiner won the toss for the first medal and Cross the toss for the third medal.

Broad jump—Little of Brown and Huthsteiner of Amherst tied for first and second places at 20 feet 10 3-4 inches; third Carpenter of Brown. Little won the jump off for the first medal.

Pole vault—Won by Strewsbury, Amherst; McLaughlin of Brown and Ames of Amherst tied for second and third places. Height 10 feet 3 inches. Ames won the toss for the second medal.

CARPENTER PRIZES

The annual contest for the Carpenter prizes in elocution was held in Manning Hall, April 28. The competition was open to Juniors and Sophomores and eight men who had survived the preliminary trials delivered orations.

William A. Needham of Providence was awarded first prize by the committee of judges. He delivered "Rufus Choate" by Joseph H. Choate. Second award went to Harry E. Dow of Lawrence, Mass., his declamation being "The Old South Church" by Phillips. Robert E. Quinn of Riverpoint won third prize with Bryan's "Imperialism."

The committee of award was Hon. Oscar Lapham, '64, Henry D. Sharpe, '94, Edward P. Jastram, '95, Frederick T. Guild, '90, and Professor Thomas Crosby, Jr., '94.

ANNIVERSARY COMMITTEE

A committee of undergraduates has been appointed to act in co-operation with the Faculty Celebration Committee on the 150th anniversary celebration next fall. Its members have been selected from the class of 1915 together with one Sophomore and one Freshman.

The names of the committeemen follow: 1915, W. P. Sheffield, chairman, G. F. Bliven, R. W. Cram, F. H. Greene, E. W. Hincks, S. K. Mitchell, R. A. Terry, W. S. Tilton. 1916, R. W. McBee. 1917, W. K. Sprague.

VACATION APPROACHES

The Brown Daily Herald says editorially:

"The next few weeks will be the most delightful, in many ways, of the whole year. Long, sunny days crowded full of activities, mornings of melodious laziness in the Union, afternoons in the stands at Andrews Field or on the Ten Mile, evenings spent in cementing already firm friendships, Junior Week, baseball, tennis, the Senior clambake, the Junior Cruise, and Cap Celebration—all make for a last month full of happiness for Brown men.

"But there is work as well as pleasure for everyone. Exams are not far off and the increased diversions of May days make bending over a book more difficult than ever. The next month is no time for half-hearted effort. Whether it be work or play, it is for the man who is alive and in college to pitch in for all that is in him. Work becomes easier, is completed sooner; the joy of play is immeasurably heightened, if plunged into with the desire to make the most of it."

THE NEW LABORATORY

Plans for the new Biological Laboratory are well under way. The architects, Clarke and Howe of this city, intend it to be on the plan of the Harvard Medical School buildings. The outside construction will be of red brick. The Monthly will print a sketch of the building from the architect's plans next month.

CHRONICLE OF THE CAMPUS

E. F. Luther, '15, has been elected President of the Deutscher Klub. The other officers are: Vice-President, W. Christy, '16; Secretary, Miss E. C. Davis, '16; Treasurer, Miss A. I. McMeehan, '16. J. Cook was elected captain of the baseball team to meet the team of the Cercle Francais.

The annual meeting of the Brown Alumni of Chicago was held on April 24. Professor W. G. Everett attended as the representative of the university.

On his way to Chicago Professor Everett stopped at Syracuse, N. Y., to give an address before the high school.

A volunteer military organization has been formed at Brown with some 250 members.

Following the resignation of Arthur F. Newell, '12, as secretary of both organizations, E. T. Bugbee, '14, has been appointed secretary of the Brown Union and Frederick Davis, '14, general secretary of the Brown Christian Association.

The University Library has received from the Herreshoff family a ponderous folio containing the "Select Works of William Penn", London, 1771. The volume was originally presented to Mrs. Sarah Brown by John Francis.

A $3,000 fund, to be known as the Annie Crosby Emery Fellowship Fund, in honor of the first dean of the Women's College has been voted by the Brown Alumnae Association. The fund will be established within two years, and its income will be awarded annually to the Senior showing the most promise and ability, and who must use the money for post-graduate study.

In the eighth annual contest of the New England Oratorical League at Amherst, May 7, Brown was represented by J. J. McGovern, '14.

Hon. Bertrand Russell, A. M., F. R. S., son of the late Lord John Russell of England, delivered an interesting address on "Mysticism and Logic" in Sayles Hall April 30. Mr. Russell is a lecturer at Trinity College, Cambridge, and has given the Lowell lectures at Boston this year. The address at Brown was under the auspices of the Department of Philosophy.

Spring football practice began April 21. About 20 men turned out. The work was directed by Head Coach Robinson.

A Brown alumni association is to be formed by graduates of the university in and near Montreal.

MID-SEASON BASEBALL GAMES

BROWN 3, YALE 2

Brown won a close game from Yale on Andrews Field, April 25. It was one of the best contests seen on the Brown grounds in years.

Incidentally, the chatter of Brown players, to which objection was taken in the Princeton game, was almost entirely done away with—a great improvement.

Brown scored in the first inning. Dike walked and stole second. Tewhill was out, Blossom to Hanes, but Babington singled, scoring Dike. Durgin was thrown out at first by Blossom, and Andrews struck out, retiring the side. Yale's only scores came in the third inning. Hanes, the first man up, went out, Babington to Durgin, Hunter and Gile singled. Hanes was sent in to run for Gile. Hunter scored from second on Middlebrook's hit. Falsey reached first on a fielder's choice and Hanes scored on the play. Middlebrook attempted to steal, but was caught. Vaughn flied out to Johnston and Yale retired.

The next inning, the fourth, saw Brown tie the score. Nash was thrown out at first, Reilly to Hanes. Johnston hit but was thrown out at second by Blossom on the play by which Hazlett reached first. Henry and Dike, the next Brown men up, both hit Gile, driving in Hazlett and tying the score. The winning run was made in the sixth, when Captain Nash drove out a home run for Brown. The score:

Dennison, '17, succeeded him and in five innings struck out five men and allowed five hits. H. Winchester, the Wesleyan pitcher, did excellent work. The score:

BROWN 8, VIRGINIA 3

Twenty-four hours after Harvard had beaten the University of Virginia 3-2, Brown turned the same trick by the more impressive score of 8-3. The game was won by the home team's skill with the stick, Captain Nash in particular starring with a three-base hit when the bases were full. James, the Virginia pitcher, retired in the fifth in favor of Flanagan. Henry allowed only four hits to the visitors.

BROWN 0, HOLY CROSS 1

Brown's second defeat at the hands of a college nine came at Worcester, May 2, when the Holy Cross team beat it in a close game. What seemed an unfair decision against Brown in the sixth inning was followed by Holy Cross's only run. The score:

BROWN 1, HOLY CROSS 2

In spite of the fact that Holy Cross secured only one hit off Henry in the second game with Brown, at Andrews Field, May 6, the Worcester team won. Brown made four hits. After the fatal first inning, only three Holy Cross men reached first base. But the mischief had been done. Such is baseball.

BROWN 8, R. I. STATE 0

May 13, on Andrews Field, Brown had an easy victory over R. I. State, the game belonging to it by a big margin when the umpire ended the contest in the seventh inning on account of the cold weather. The State College team was not in the running from the time that Ken Flanders went on to the rubber. It was Flanders's first real game for

Brown, and considering that he was not called upon to show much, he gave promise of being heard of more frequently in the future. Not many occasions arose when he found it necessary to put anything on the ball, but he was in good form, both as regards speed and control. The visitors hit him hard, five fairly long flies going to the outfield besides the two safe hits which were made off his delivery, but he received good support.

The Brown batters found both of the Rhode Island pitchers to their liking and hit the ball hard and often. Lussier was driven from the box in the third, but Coleman fared better. The score:

BROWN 6, AMHERST 4

Brown managed to beat Amherst at Andrews Field, May 16, but the exhibition as a whole was pretty poor. There were two features—Captain Nash's steal home with two out and two strikes on the batter in the sixth and a phenomenal catch by Dike in the seventh which prevented two Amherst runs.

BROWN 2, YALE 1

Brown made it two straight over Yale at New Haven, May 20, in the most exciting match of the season there.

The game developed a play never before seen on Yale Field. With Cornish on second in the eighth inning, Pumpelly smashed a sizzling liner at Dave Henry, who was pitching for Brown. Unable to catch the cannonball drive Henry partially turned his back. The ball struck him squarely between the shoulders, bounding high, and was caught by Tewhill, who passed the ball to Johnston, who touched second base before Cornish could return. Umpire Sternberg consulted with Umpire Stafford and finally called it a double play, in the face of a stubborn protest by Captain Blossom of Yale.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE IN BROWN UNIVERSITY

ALUMNAE FELLOWSHIP FUND

It was voted, at a special meeting of the Alumnae Association of Brown University, held April 25, 1914, to raise, before June 1, 1916, a fund of at least $3000, to be named the Annie Crosby Emery Alumnae Fellowship Fund, in honor of former Dean Emery, the income to be awarded each year to the member of the Senior class in the Women's College in Brown University who is best prepared to do advanced work.

The Alumnae Fellowship movement originated in the desire of the classes of 1904 and 1905 to honor, in their decennial gifts, the name of Dean Emery, under whose leadership they passed their undergraduate years. Similar fellowships, awarded to Seniors, have proved in other colleges to be valuable stimuli throughout the undergraduate course in strengthening the idea that intellectual life is only begun in the four years of college.

The work of raising the fund has been given to the Academic Committee. The Committee can do its work, however, only with the generous co-operation of our ever-increasing body of alumnae. Surely, every graduate and former student will wish to share in this fund by which the alumnae shall at once honor one to whom the College owes much and stimulate in a vital way future college generations to scholarly effort.

Pledge blanks will be presented at the annual meeting on June thirteenth. The careful and generous consideration of each alumna is asked concerning the amount which she shall set aside for her College in the next two years. May this Fellowship Fund be a spontaneous expression of all alumnae in the finest things for which the College stands!

ANNUAL MEETING

The eighth annual meeting of the Alumnae Association of Brown University will be held in Sayles Gymnasium, on Saturday, June 13, at three o'clock. Dean King will address the alumnae at four o'clock. At half past four the meeting will adjourn to the lawn of Miller Hall, where the alumnae will have as guests the members of the Faculty of Brown University, with their wives, the Rhode Island Society for the Collegiate Education of Women, and the Rhode Island Branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE BY-LAWS

Article IV. Officers. Section 6. The duties of the treasurer shall be to request an annual subscription of one dollar from all members of more than one years standing. . . Omit "of more than one year's standing."

NEW YORK ALUMNAE

The annual business meeting of the Brown Alumnae of New York was held in the Lavender Room of the Craftsman's Building on Saturday, April 25. There were eleven members and one guest present, Mrs. Annie Larry Putney, '99, Mrs. Margaret Langdon Fisher, '96, Mrs. Alverda Brown Sherwood, '99, Misses Agnes Clark, '99, Jessie Tiffany, '97, Alice Crosby, '04, Miriam Slocum, ex-'04, Margaret Roys, '02, Annette Milligan, '04, Isabelle Bronson, '05, Helen Humphrey, ex-'05. Miss Mabel Potter, '97, was the guest.

Luncheon was served at 1.30, after which the regular business was transacted. As this was the year for election of officers the following slate was presented and unanimously elected: Miriam Slocum, President; Agnes Clark, Vice President; Gertrude Allen, Secretary; Mrs. A. B. Sherwood, Treasurer. Mrs. Annie Larry Putney was appointed representative to the 150th Anniversary Celebration of Brown University to be held in October. The meeting was then adjourned and Miss Potter gave a very interesting talk on clubs, especially the College Club of New Bedford and the work it has done.

THE BROWN BEAR

For a number of years the Brown bear has been growing in popularity as a mascot or emblem of Brown University. The idea was given especial impetus by the New York Brown Club last February, when it sent out announcements of its dinner decorated with the Brown bear before the Van Wickle gates, with his paw resting on the Brown shield.

Theodore Francis Green, 1887, of Providence originated the idea of the Brown bear. He was a member of the building committee of Rockefeller Hall. He felt that a mascot of some sort should be placed in the building, and it occurred to him that a Brown bear would fill the place admirably. Accordingly he had a head mounted and placed above the office in the Union. The undergraduates adopted the idea in 1905 and took a Brown bear from Roger Williams Park to the Brown-Dartmouth game in Springfield.

Since that time the bear has grown more and more popular as an emblem. Different artists have presented different conceptions of him, none of which have been more impressive than that adopted by the New York Brown Club. Sporting writers refer to the Brown bear as they do to the Yale bulldog, the Princeton tiger, or the Army mule. The use of Bruno in many of the later Brown songs has played an important part in his increasing popularity.

In putting the bear on their announcements, the New York Brown alumni had a purpose. They hope by their use of the animal to increase the interest in it among Brown graduates throughout the country. They want to see the movement culminate in the official recognition of Bruin as the college emblem. If other alumni bodies adopt the New York idea, as they are now being urged to, then the bear as an emblem will become as conspicuous in the general life of the college as it is in connection with athletics. Old graduates, and graduates not so old, are heartily endorsing the movement.

FACULTY CHANGES

FACULTY APPOINTMENTS

President Faunce represented Brown University at the inauguration of Clark Wells Chamberlain as President of Denison University at Granville, O., on the 19th and 20th of May. Professor Moses O. Gile of the class of 1883 has been appointed to represent Brown University at the inauguration of Dr. Livingston Ferrand as President of the University of Colorado on Monday, June 1.

Harold Eugene Bigelow, Ph. D., has been appointed assistant professor in chemistry at Brown, and will take up his work in September, 1914. His academic record is as follows: A. B., Mt. Allison University, N. B., 1903; assistant master Acacia Villa School, Nova Scotia, 1903-4; head master Acacia School, 1904-6; A. B., Harvard University, 1907; A. M., Harvard University and assistant in qualitative chemistry, 1908; Ph. D., Harvard, for work in inorganic chemistry, 1911; professor of chemistry at Mt. Allison University, N. Clarence Edwin Ayres, assistant in philosophy, will also be assistant in English. Walter Henry Snell, 1913, formerly captain and catcher of the Brown University baseball team, has been appointed assistant in botany. Ralph Gibney Hurlin, 1912, has been appointed assistant in biology.

STRICTER FACULTY REGULATIONS

The Faculty of Brown University has recently voted that students who have not removed entrance conditions in English or Mathematics before the opening of their Junior year will be refused registration until the deficiency is made up. This action, in connection with the rule adopted two years ago, whereby entrance conditions in other than the above-mentioned subjects, if not made up by the beginning of the Sophomore year, are counted as deficiencies in college studies, puts an end to an unfortunate situation which has long existed. Before the adoption of this rule, it has not unfrequently happened that a student has come to the beginning or even to the end of his Senior year with one or more entrance conditions recorded against him. As a result of this vote, no student in the Junior or Senior year will have any entrance conditions. The rule applies first to students entering college in 1914.

The Philological Club met May 18, at the home of Professor Allinson, who spoke on "The Menander Fragments." Professor Huntington was elected president for the ensuing year. Professor Fowler vice-president, Professor Hastings secretary and treasurer, and Professor Hawkins the fourth member of the executive committee.

Facsimile of Card Announcing the Class Reunion

In conjunction with the other festivities of Commencement week the class of '99 will hold their 15th anniversary reunion on June 16. The programme, as arranged by the committee in charge, includes a trip to Sakonnet, where the members will arrive at 12.30. The afternoon of the day will be given over to a shore dinner, followed by a business meeting and talks by different members of the class. The party will return to Providence in the evening and a dinner will be served at a local club. Ladies will be taken along and a general good time enjoyed. On Wednesday, June 17, the class will march in the forenoon to the First Baptist Church for further exercises. In the afternoon a special car will take the class to the Commencement Day ball game, accompanied by the band. The reunion will be concluded by attendance at the President's reception in the evening.

Shall Poe's Letters Come to Brown?

The nine letters written by Edgar Allan Poe to Mrs. Sarah Helen Whitman, his betrothed, have never been put on the market, but are now offered for sale as a single lot to any one who will agree to give them to Brown University for the Harris Collection of American Poetry. Besides the letters are a presentation copy of Poe's "Eureka," with his inscription, and a lock of Poe's hair, also letters from Mrs. Clemm to Mrs. Whitman, and a few other items of Poe interest.

Further particulars will be furnished by the Librarian of the University.

To the Brown Alumni:

The Brown men with whom I have talked have an idea that the plan of creating an Endowment Fund for Brown through the medium of life insurance means that each alumnus shall take out an Endowment policy and make it payable to the University and then the alumnus so insured carry the policy to its termination at an annual expense of some $50 or more.

This is not the plan at all. It has been carefully evolved and perfected. It means nothing like the above.

It is a practical way to solve the problem of raising money for Brown in the years to come, and no Company is better fitted to consummate the transaction than the Puritan, because of its location in Providence and its sympathy with Brown. Many of the guiding forces in the Puritan are Brown men—therefore our especial interest.
