Important Changes In Tax Laws

Now is the time to become familiar with the many changes in the income tax laws; if you wait until your income tax return is actually due you may experience a great deal of difficulty in making it up correctly.

This Company will be glad to furnish upon request a booklet containing the full text of the Federal Revenue Act of 1921, with summaries of the more important provisions. It contains a complete index and side notes as an aid to easy reference.

This booklet covers the Federal Income Tax, Excess Profits Tax, Estate Tax, Stamp Tax, and miscellaneous taxes.

PROVIDENCE, FEBRUARY, 1922

NO. 7

ON THE HILL

A COMPILATION by the Associated Alumni, covering about 80 per cent. of the men undergraduates at Brown, shows that the following states furnish the greatest number of students:

|               | 1922 | 1923 | 1924 | 1925 | Oth-ers |
|---------------|------|------|------|------|-------------|
| Rhode Island  | 75   | 78   | 94   | 114  | 49          |
| Massachusetts | 46   | 50   | 50   | 81   | 14          |
| New York      | 11   | 14   | 37   | 68   | 7           |
| New Jersey    | 11   | 25   | 21   | 49   | 3           |
| Connecticut   | 16   | 25   | 17   | 37   | 4           |
| Pennsylvania  | 5    | 7    | 6    | 15   | 0           |
| Illinois      | 1    | 1    | 4    | 10   | 0           |
| Maine         | 4    | 7    | 7    | 8    | 0           |
| Ohio          | 3    | 2    | 4    | 10   | 2           |
| New Hampshire | 1    | 6    | 5    | 3    | 0           |
| Vermont       | 1    | 3    | 3    | 2    | 0           |
| Dist. Col.    | 0    | 4    | 2    | 3    | 0           |

From this we see that Rhode Island, as always, is first, the total being 410. Of course this would be considerably enlarged, as would most of the other state totals, if the canvass were complete.

Massachusetts, as heretofore, is second. The figures are 240. New York's quota is 137, an extraordinary gain; while New Jersey's is 109—also a remarkable increase—and Connecticut's is 99.

Other states show the following figures: California 2, Colorado 2, Delaware 4, Florida 1, Iowa 2, Kentucky 4, Louisiana 1, Maryland 2, Michigan 6, Missouri 6, Nebraska 2, North Carolina 1, North Dakota 2, Oklahoma 1, Virginia 1, Washington 2, West Virginia 1. From Hawaii we have 1 and from Porto Rico 2; and from foreign countries: Canada 1, Dutch West Indies 1, Panama 1 and Sweden 1.

These figures indicate a steady development in the direction of a "national" university, with students from 29 states out of 48. At the present time, however, the notable fact is our substantial growth in the Middle States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois.

THE most striking fact about the denominational statistics just gathered by the Associated Alumni is that in the Freshman class the Episcopalians lead, with the Congregationalists a close second and the Baptists third. The Roman Catholics are fourth, the Presbyterians fifth and the Methodists sixth.

Or, if Unitarians are regarded as Congregationalists (and two members of the university Board of Trustees who were elected as Congregationalists are Unitarians), the Congregationalists come first, with 52 members of the class. This is the first time in the experience of the Alumni Monthly that such a showing has been made. It suggests that a remarkable denominational change is at work in the undergraduate body. No one branch of the Church is at all likely in the future to hold a preponderant position there.

The canvass is not complete, but it represents eighty per cent. of the undergraduate body exclusive of the Women's College. It shows 44 Episcopalians, 41 Congregationalists, 35 Baptists, 34 Roman Catholics, 26 Presbyterians and 25 Methodists in the ranks of the 1925 men.

AMONG the immortals on the grounds of Brown University a welcome newcomer has appeared. Through the generosity of the Italians of Providence a portrait of Dante has been placed on the terrace before the John Hay Library. The ceremony of the unveiling, which took place December 9th, was appropriately graced by the presence of Italy's hero, General Diaz.

The monument is the work of P. S. Abbate. It consists of a bronze bust of heroic size resting upon a simple and dignified granite pedestal, on which is the inscription:

GIFT FROM THE ITALIANS
OF RHODE ISLAND
TO BROWN UNIVERSITY
COMMEMORATING
THE SIXTH CENTENARY
OF DANTE'S DEATH

In the Dante museum at Ravenna is a mask, probably made in the 16th century by the Venetian sculptor, Tullio Lombardo, upon which the traditional portraits of Dante are based.

This is the type which Signor Abbate has given us at Brown. But within the bounds of truth to the type there has always been ample opportunity for individual interpretation of Dante's face, just as within the bounds of truth to the words there has always been ample opportunity for individual interpretation of Dante's poetry. The laurelled head on the library terrace presents a Dante that is both kindly and serious. It sets forth an ideal which cannot fail to leave its impress upon the many who pass daily before it.

THIS issue of the Monthly contains a unique contribution—a page advertisement inserted by the Brown University Club of New York. This is the first time a Brown alumni organization has used the pages of the Monthly in this way.

It is to be hoped that our readers will take to heart the appeal of the New York Brown Club and act upon it. The University should have as strong an alumni organization in New York City as can possibly be maintained there. New York is certainly the industrial hub of the country, and, while Boston may dispute any claim that it is the educational hub, it nevertheless is the centre of great educational activity, and has within its sphere of influence many excellent preparatory schools. A strong New York alumni organization can be of assistance to the University in innumerable ways.

The New York Club has shown commendable courage and initiative in establishing such a club house as it now maintains, and can give non-resident as well as resident members the worth of the money they expend in dues. The club furthermore offers many Brown alumni located in centres without alumni organizations an opportunity to belong to an active local club. We hope that the advertisement which the Brown Club has inserted in the Monthly will be productive of satisfactory results.

SPEAKING of advertisements, we feel it proper to refer to the announcement, elsewhere in this issue, of the Bureau of University Travel, which in its reorganized form, is to have no stock, no ownership and no private profit, and pay no dividends. "The bureau," we are told, "exists henceforth to elevate the tradition of organized travel, to give dignity and recognition to those who devote themselves to its scholarly guidance, to place its benefits within easier reach of those who will most profit by them," and thus to further the cause of modern education.

TEACHERS IN CONVENTION

Brown Faculty Members at Meetings of Learned Societies

By Professor Clinton H. Currier

AS usual the meetings of learned societies, held during the Christmas holidays, were attended by many members of the Brown faculty.

The gathering of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, held at Toronto, Canada, from December 27 to 31, was attended by Professors Richardson, Archibald, Currier and Burgess, and by Messrs. Cummings and Howard. Professor Richardson, as secretary of the American Mathematical Society and a member of the committee for Section A of the American Association, had much to do with the arrangement of the program of that section.

Professor Archibald was honored by election to the presidency of the Mathematical Association of America. Professor Currier represented the Brown Chapter of Sigma Xi at the annual convention of that society. Professor Burgess read a paper on "The Problem of Apportionment," in which he suggested a new method for the apportionment of the members of the House of Representatives among the different states, the method of the "weighted geometric mean." Mr. Howard of the Botany Department read a paper entitled: "Notes on Chemical Injury to White Pine," representing the results of certain researches carried out jointly by Professor Snell and Mr. Howard. Another paper by Professor Snell on "The Effect of Heat Upon the Mycelium of Certain Structural Timber Destroying Fungi within Wood" was on the program although the author found it impossible to attend the meeting to present it in person.

Mr. William G. Vinal, a member of the faculty of the Rhode Island College of Education and a graduate student in the Department of Biology at Brown, read a paper before the American Nature Study Society on "The Contribution of the Summer Camp to Nature Study." He was honored by election to the presidency of this society.

Professor H. L. Koopman, of the University Library, contributed a paper to the symposium on An International Auxiliary Language, dealing with some of the conditions to be fulfilled by such a language.

Those in attendance at Toronto were royally entertained by the University of Toronto. Especially interesting was the conversazione held in Hart House, a building which is both the students' gymnasium and clubhouse. Exhibitions of boxing, wrestling, fencing, swimming, diving, water-polo, gymnastics, squash, rifle shooting, billiards, basketball and indoor baseball were given by the students. There was music by a string quartette, a military band and Scotch bagpipers as well as vocal music in the theatre, while refreshments were served to the two thousand guests, who enjoyed the varied program offered and spent a very pleasant evening inspecting the magnificent building. On one afternoon there was an exhibition of fancy skating and ice hockey for the benefit of the visitors. With the many teas, receptions and banquets, as well as the varied program of lectures and papers, the week was indeed a busy one for those in attendance at Toronto.

Professor Allinson was the sole Brown representative at the meeting of the American Philological Association at Ann Arbor, Michigan. He was signally honored by election to the presidency of this association, the oldest language association in the country. Such an election is considered the highest honor possible in classical languages and literature.

The convention of the American Sociological Society at Pittsburgh was attended by Professor Dealey, who is a member of the executive committee. The American Economic Association also met in Pittsburgh, and attracted Professors Gardner and Adams as well as Messrs. Bancroft and Burton. Professor Gardner is a member of the executive committee of this association. Professor Adams also attended the meeting of the American Association of University Instructors in Accounting in New York.

The Modern Language Association of America met in Baltimore. Brown was represented by Professors Bronson, Potter, Hunkins, Metzenthin and Cavicchia. Professor Bronson led a discussion on the Teaching of American Literature in Colleges.

At a gathering of the historians in St. Louis, Brown's representative, Professor Crane, had charge of the conference on American Colonial History.

Although absent on sabbatic leave in Europe and hence unable to attend the convention of the American Philosophical Association, Professor Everett was elected president of the Eastern Division of the association.

Not all conventions come during the Christmas vacation. That of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers occurred December 7-10 in New York and was attended by Professors Kenerson and Hall, and Messrs. O'Brien, Faunce and Itschner.

Replies received from questionnaires sent out early this year indicate that 47 members of the faculty, representing 19 out of the 21 departments, plan to attend one or more conventions this year. This indicates that the members of the Brown faculty are taking an active part in the work of these important national societies. The selection of a member of the Brown faculty for the presidency in three of these societies is a record of which the university and its alumni may well be proud.

HENRY T. SAMSON, 1910, ALUMNI MANAGER

This Department is maintained by the Association and devoted to the interests of a wide-awake and working organization of Brown alumni. All news and communications should be sent to the Associated Alumni of Brown University, John Hay Library, Providence, R. I.

DO you remember the days when you marched down College Hill cheering wildly after Brown had thrashed the bulldog in the Bowl? Or the day when, at the Harvard Stadium, you watched the sons of Johnny Harvard do their best—but in vain—to withstand the old Brunonian fighting onslaughts? Do you remember the song you sang over and over again until your throat was dry and your voice a mere whisper?

I'm a Brown man born, I'm a Brown man bred
 And when I die, I'll be a Brown man dead!

Perhaps you never stopped to think over the words, to realize just exactly what they mean. Many Brown men have thought them over and have moulded them into a little ritual which runs something like this:

"I was a loyal Brown man during my four years on the Hill. But my loyalty, my devotion to Brown did not end then. Therefore, all the days of my life, I will serve Brown in my own community. I will keep in touch with her fountain of youth and spirit, that I may keep young in my love for her. I will do unto other Brown men as I would like them to do unto me, for I realize that when I stand by a Brown man I am helping Brown. All my years I will serve my college with increasing vigor and devotion, for she has given me more than I can ever repay. For—

I'm a Brown man born, I'm a Brown man bred
 And when I die, I'll be a Brown man dead!

Think it over! What does it mean in plain and simple words? Only this:

The strength of Brown depends upon the strength of the alumni. The strength of the alumni depends upon their keeping in touch with Brown, serving her through all the years after college. In order to strengthen the alumni, to keep every single Brown man a loyal and working Brunonian, the Associated Alumni chain of Brown clubs is formed.

If one were to ask the question "Why the Brown Club?" the answer would be: "Because the Brown Club keeps its members loyal and devoted to Brown."

There is no organization among the undergraduates or the alumni so necessary as the local Brown Club. Within its membership there should be brotherhood, loyalty, pride in being Brown men, service to the University and the Associated Alumni, service to each individual Brown man within the fold.

In other colleges a man may sever his relations after he receives his degree. With Brown, he is forever Brown. There is no quitting. Every man who has ever been on the Hill is the possessor of a heritage which is priceless. This heritage is what makes for the splendid morale which will continue to exist always among Brown men.

Brown clubs are the guardians of this heritage. In Hartford, Springfield, Boston, Chicago, Albany, Rochester, Syracuse, Worcester, New York, New Bedford, Fall River, Brockton, Lynn, Rockland, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New Haven, Pittsburgh, Providence, Fitchburg, Lowell, Los Angeles, wherever there are numbers of Brown men, this spirit should be kept alive and fostered.

Each club needs one group of willing workers who will bear the responsibility for the success of that club in the Associated Alumni system. If the club is dead now, revive it. The Associated Alumni will do everything in its power to help. Get every Brown man you know to join the association and to attend the meetings of the local club.

The clubs are picking up fast. Some of them are working like fire to put Brown on the map in their own towns. Is there a club in your locality? If there isn't, write to the Associated Alumni office in the John Hay library and say that you will start something going. If there is a club within fifteen miles of your own town, look it up. It's yours. Use it and keep on being a Brown man until you die—and ever afterward.

Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Amherst, none of them can compare with Brown for spirit, for stick-to-itiveness, for sustained loyalty. Join a Brown Club and keep the tradition going! Show them all that a Brown man never quits being a Brown man!

A NEW SCHEME

The Associated Alumni has a new plan for Brown club organization in the State of Massachusetts which will be presented to the Advisory Board meeting in March. It provides for the establishment of the clubs affiliated with the Association in Boston, Fitchburg, Worcester, Springfield, Rockland, Brockton, Fall River, New Bedford, Attleboro, Lynn and Lowell. Each club is to have full power and responsibility within its assigned district. Efforts to increase the number of active Brown men will, under this plan, be concentrated on certain well-defined areas.

MASSACHUSETTS MEMBERSHIP

According to the records of the Associated Alumni there are 881 graduates of Brown in Massachusetts. Of this number only 317 are members of the association. Through the active organizations of local clubs, it is hoped that during the coming year this percentage will show some signs of an increase.

HONORARY MEMBERS

There are three honorary members who have been elected by the Associated Alumni of Brown University. They are Edgar L. Marston of New York, Jesse Metcalf of Providence and John Hunt of the class of 1842, the oldest living college graduate in America.

HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS

One of the best bits of news to come to the Associated Alumni office in months is contained in the dispatch from New York which reads:

"At a Christmas breakfast on Long Island, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Hyde of Joliet, Illinois, announce the engagement of their daughter Louise to Mr. Hugh Wilson MacNair, Brown 1917."

Mac, one of Brown's honor men overseas, wearer of the D. S. C., Croix de Guerre and several other decorations, has been a loyal and hardworking New York Brown Club and Associated Alumni member from the beginning.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Compiled by Henry T. Samson, Alumni Secretary

NEW YORK

During the past month, Brown men have kept busy winding up the affairs of the first new Brown Club year and starting off on the 1922 season with spirit.

At the annual meeting held at the clubhouse on 39th street, Clarkson A. Collins, Jr., 1908, was elected president, succeeding Charles E. Hughes, Jr. Frederick W. Murphy '98 was elected vice-president, Dana M. Hubbard '15 secretary and Lawrence S. Walker '10 treasurer. F. W. Murphy '99 was chosen chairman of the sub-Freshman committee and W. R. Burdick '02 chairman of the committee on auditing.

Under the management of Fred Murphy, a committee for the annual dinner began its work immediately after the annual meeting. Arrangements were made which culminated in the banquet held in the rose room of the Hotel Astor on Thursday evening, January 19th, which was attended by over 125 sons of Brown.

President Faunce, who arrived that afternoon from Washington and Philadelphia, spoke to the Brown Club men on the progress which is being made on the Hill, announcing that ground would soon be broken for the new Metcalf Chemical Laboratory.

Dave Fultz '98 was chosen toastmaster for the evening and presided over the ceremonies after President Collins had described in a few words the rebirth and progress of the New York Club. H. M. Kaltenborn, associate editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, who had been present at the sessions of the arms conference, spoke on that subject, paying several compliments to the clear-headed leadership of Brown's fourth Secretary of State.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recently returned from an extensive trip through China, where the new medical institution endowed by the Rockefeller gift has lately begun work, described the progress which is being made in that country and some of the important customs and habits of the people. Mr. Rockefeller was followed by Alumni Secretary Henry T. Samson, who spoke of the place of the Brown clubs in the Associated Alumni system and made a plea for support for the association and the individual clubs.

During the evening Brown songs rang out through the corridors of the Astor and the spirit of the party was of the best, helped along by the wit and loyalty of the toastmaster. Not until after midnight did the sons of Brown in New York break away from the enlivening influence of the banquet.

BOSTON CLUB

At the Boston City Club on January 11, the Sons of Brown in Boston and Vicinity held their regular noon luncheon and meeting to which about 45 Brunonians came to breathe a bit of the spirit from the Hill and discuss subjects of university interest.

President Scott presided at the luncheon and at the meeting of the club's executive committee, which met an hour earlier. Plans for the annual Boston dinner, to which it is expected Brown men will come this year from various sections of New England, were taken up and a report made by Henry K. Metcalf '07, chairman of the committee in charge of this annual event.

The dinner will be at the City Club at 6.30 p. m., Feb. 28. President Faunce will be present and will speak on the trip through the West which he is now taking.

Following the luncheon, Dr. Fred W. Marvel spoke at length upon the problems facing the Athletics Department and told of prospects for a gymnasium. In his address he opposed any move to place the new "gym" at a distance from the campus, for the reason that it is the centre of undergraduate life and should therefore be close at hand. He thanked the Boston alumni for their support of his policies toward Dartmouth and said that the resumption of friendly relations between Brown and the Hanover college was due in large part to the co-operation of the Boston sons of Brown.

Henry T. Samson, alumni secretary, then addressed the meeting on the subject of alumni organization, showing how the strength of the alumni depended primarily upon the efficiency of individual Brown clubs. Mr. Samson made a plea for membership in the Associated Alumni, urging each alumnus to become a member of the alumni organization of the university.

Publicity in Boston, relations with Harvard—which are felt to be the best possible, and a number of other questions of alumni interest were taken up. The meeting ended at 2 o'clock, although a number of men remained until almost 3 o'clock discussing questions of policy with "Doc" Marvel.

LYNN

One of the most active Brown clubs on the circuit, especially in work among the schoolboys, is the Lynn Club, now under the presidency of Frank E. Marble '05.

At a meeting of the club held December 29 at the Lynn Y. M. C. A., there were 17 undergraduates, 13 of the alumni and 6 local high school boys present. Secretary Douglass of the club writes that the University Glee Club will go to Lynn during March for a concert under the direction of the Women's City Club.

The eighth annual Brown night, for the schoolboys in Lynn, will be held in the early spring. Eight of the boys present at the last Brown night are in this year's Freshmen class on the Hill. A committee of the club has been appointed to consider the establishment of a student aid fund to help boys from that vicinity who may need assistance while in college.

HARTFORD

If there is an ideal Brown Club on the list, it is at Hartford, where about 30 or 35 Brown men gather each month to spend a social evening and to do what they can to support the interests of old Brown.

On January 9th Hartford met at the University Club. President Frank O. Jones opened the meeting, which followed a dinner, by introducing the alumni secretary, who spoke on various plans for better alumni organization. Enthusiasm was at a high mark throughout the entire meeting, with Hal Tinker, President of the class of 1921, acting as song-leader.

In order to co-operate with the Associated Alumni in the award of schoolboy cups to championship teams in Hartford and vicinity, President Jones appointed Joseph Coulter, one of Brown's greatest centres, Rev. George C. W. Hill, D.D., of New Britain and W. R. Harris of South Manchester a committee to investigate the schoolboy situation in that district and report back to the club. The cup plan is to award a trophy by the local Brown club each year to the championship team in the sport designated by the Brown club.

Members of the Hartford Brown Club voted to include membership in the Associated Alumni with their membership in the Hartford Club.

WASHINGTON

"We want to cultivate the international mind and the international outlook," said President Faunce on January 17th in the course of his address at the annual dinner of the Brown Alumni Club of Maryland and the District of Columbia at the University Club in Washington. After paying a tribute to the work that is being done for the advancement of the world by Secretary of State Hughes, he continued: "The man who does not look outside of his own environment, his own country, is not a good citizen and not a good patriot. In our colleges we should see that every class room has an outlook across the water, and a view of our great international responsibilities. It is easy to be provincial in a great country, but we can no longer be provincial. As a nation we are entering upon a great task."

Dr. Faunce was the guest of honor at two gatherings. In the afternoon a tea was given in his honor by the Brown Alumni Association at the National Club, American Association of University Women. Mrs. Paul Kaufman, the President of the association, was in charge of the programme, and tea was poured by Miss Bertha Payson. The wives of the graduates of the university were invited to participate with the alumnae in paying honor to the guest from Providence.

Professor John R. Lapham of George Washington University presided at the dinner at the University Club. Many distinguished sons of Brown were present in the gathering, including Professor George G. Wilson, Brown '86, of Harvard, who is participating in the conference on the limitation of armaments. One of the special guests was Dr. Sverdrup of the Amundsen expedition, a graduate of the University of Christiania, who told of some of his experiences on the northern coast of Siberia.

Dr. Faunce, in the course of his address, told of Brown's sociological work in China, and of co-operation with Rhode Island affairs by the departments of economics and Biblical literature, as well as that which is planned with the great textile industries when the new chemical laboratory is built.

PHILADELPHIA

President Faunce, addressing the 53rd annual banquet of the Brown University Club of Philadelphia in the University Club on January 17th, paid tribute to the many great men whose careers began within the walls of Brown, among them Dr. W. W. Keen, one of Philadelphia's foremost physicians, who has attended every banquet of the club for the past 53 years.

Dr. Edwin C. Broome '97, superintendent of schools, who spoke, said that when the present school programme here is realized, Philadelphia will have the foremost educational system in the country.

Preceding the dinner the club held its annual election of officers, which resulted as follows: President—Charles S. Shinn; First Vice President—J. T. Wilson; Second Vice President—Louis Bagnall; Secretary—Joseph K. Burwell, and Treasurer—Lester W. Nickerson. The following were appointed to the executive committee: Seth K. Mitchell, J. R. Smith and P. T. Fort.

About 25 were in attendance. Included among those present were Dr. Horace P. Dormon, who was toastmaster; Dr. Frank E. Rockwood, former president of Bucknell University; Dr. Daniel Fuller, head of the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane; Dr. Daniel M. Hoyt; J. Benton Porter, Jefferson Shiel, Robert J. Fuller, Albert P. Martin, Charles L. Knowles, James F. Shea, G. D. Hautman, H. D. Corkum, J. High, J. T. Wilson and James K. Burwell.

PITTSBURGH

Friday, December 30th, the Brown men in and around Pittsburgh staged another monthly luncheon, as a start towards working up some Brown propaganda in the Pittsburgh schools. We were fortunate indeed in having as a speaker Dr. Henry B. Gardner, who was on for the American Economic Association Convention. Dr. Gardner spoke very entertainingly about the work done in his department at Brown, as well as plans and work which he hopes to do in the future in the way of a Department of Business Administration. Mr. Wm. E. Lincoln and Mr. A. M. Crane, our two oldest members (both graduated in the sixties), spoke informally.

We were fortunate in having with us seven of the local undergraduates and one sub-Freshman, a brother of Walter Fraunheim, one of our members.

It is to be regretted that a lack of time did not permit several addresses or talks from the undergraduates, as we look upon this group as the connecting tie between the graduates and things on the Hill. We hope during the next vacation to have them all with us again to meet possibly a number of high school and private school boys in Pittsburgh.

This was one of the largest meetings the club has ever had, numbering as it did nearly twenty-five. We are now making plans for an even bigger meeting January 20th, when Dr. Faunce and Mr. Appleget (Executive Secretary) are to be with us. Dr. Faunce will probably do some speaking in Pittsburgh during the day and Mr. Appleget will speak at two of the high schools and a private school in the morning and afternoon. In the evening we expect to show "movies" of the 1921 Commencement and some of the football games during the past season. At this time the members of the club will be advised as to the details of future work in the schools of Pittsburgh.

W. H. MARBLE, Secretary-Treasurer.

President Faunce and Executive Secretary Thomas B. Appleget were speakers here on January 20th at the annual dinner of the Pittsburgh alumni of Brown, held in the Union Club.

C. D. Miller presided at the dinner, at which W. E. Lincoln of the university corporation also spoke. During the evening films taken on the campus at the last

Commencement were exhibited. W. I. King was elected president for the coming year and W. H. Marble was reelected secretary. Among Brown alumni present were the following:

Rev. R. N. Jessup, Rev. Floyd Carr, C. D. Mercer, W. E. Lincoln, Kirke Lincoln, E. W. Sill, Professor R. O. Hughes, J. E. Bliss, L. A. Winslow, J. O. Chesley, N. M. Jones, W. H. Marble, R. A. Marble, M. P. White, I. T. Gump, L. P. Curry, L. F. Payne, Dr. J. A. Crane and W. I. King.

DETROIT

Word comes from L. M. Bishop, newly appointed secretary of the Michigan Alumni Association of Brown men, that the annual dinner of the Detroit and Michigan men was held on January 21, too late for the details to be published in this number of the Alumni Monthly.

At this meeting it was expected that the Michigan alumni would pass a resolution of affiliation with the Associated Alumni and that they would be addressed by President Faunce. The Brown "movies" prepared by Secretary Appleget were shown at this Detroit dinner.

FALL RIVER

From the pen of Carl Terry, secretary of the Fall River Brown Club, comes the news that the date for the annual dinner of the Sons of Brown in Fall River and Vicinity will be in February.

Speakers at the Fall River celebration will include a member of the Brown faculty and the alumni secretary. As there are over 100 loyal Brunonians in the district which should be covered by the Fall River Club it is hoped that this banquet will be one of the best attended. "Brown expects every man to do his duty," is the motto of the committee from the Spindle City in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

SPRINGFIELD AND CONNECTICUT VALLEY

There are rumblings of a big time in Springfield on February 14th, when the Sons of Brown in the Connecticut Valley gather at the Nayasset Club in Springfield for their annual dinner and meeting. President Meiklejohn of Amherst (Brown '93) will be the principal speaker at the dinner.

According to news received from President Herbert E. Thayer '82 and Secretary H. F. Ostegee of the club there will be another speaker, a member of the faculty, and the alumni secretary will also be on hand.

News of this annual dinner of the Connecticut Valley men will be published in the next number of the Alumni Monthly. It is expected that at this meeting the Hillmen in this section of Massachusetts will discuss matters of interest to the Associated Alumni and to the university.

ANOTHER NEW ONE

Here is another plan for better cooperation devised by the Associated Alumni. From the schedules of Brown teams which go "on the road" and from the trip schedules of the musical clubs and other college organizations, the alumni secretary will notify Brown men by postal card when a team or club is to appear in towns nearby.

"Larry" Walker, treasurer of the New York Brown Club, has made this suggestion after noticing that the basketball teams playing in New York did not put in an appearance at the club while they were in the big city. It is recommended that coaches and faculty advisers plan to visit club headquarters wherever they are established so that the alumni may know some of the undergraduates who are leading the old Bear to victory.

UNDERGRADUATE NEWS

LECTURES ON RELATIVITY

A series of lectures—ten to twelve in number—is now in progress at Brown on the Theory of Relativity, commonly known as the Einstein Theory. These lectures are being given by members of the Mathematical Department with some assistance from the members of the Department of Physics. The first lecture was on Thursday, January 5th at 4 p. m. in Wilson Hall, and the lectures will continue on successive weeks at the same hour.

The introductory lectures have been by Professor Richardson. The mathematical argument of the theory is conducted by Professor Manning, and the astronomical application of the theory by Professor Currier.

These lectures are open to the public, though they are adapted to those only who have had considerable mathematical training.

TWO SMALL FIRES

There were two fires on the Hill during the Christmas holidays, one which started in the cellar of the Delta Phi House at 2 Prospect street, and one which occurred in the chimney of the Theta Delta Chi House at 36 Prospect street.

The fire at 2 Prospect street started from the spontaneous combustion of some oily rags in a bureau in the cellar. No damage was done with the exception of a few broken windows.

The fire at the Theta Delta Chi House broke out at 2 a. m. A few moments after the fire had started the roof was covered with men clad in pajamas to put out the fire. Assistance was rendered by members of the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity, who brought a fire extinguisher. No damage was done and the cause of the fire is unknown.

DENOMINATIONAL PREFERENCES

Following is the result of a denominational poll of students by the Associated Alumni of Brown University. The figures represent approximately 80 per cent. of the undergraduate men.

From this table it will be seen that the total number of Congregationalists (including 26 Unitarians) is 134, Baptists 131, Episcopalians 122, Roman Catholics 101, Methodists 63, Presbyterians 53, Jewish 45. It would be interesting to know more of the 32 students who call themselves simply Protestants.

"B" FLAGS FOR CHAPTER HOUSES

The suggestion made and pushed by the Brown Daily Herald that all fraternities have big "B" flags to fly in front of their houses on days of athletic importance to the university was enthusiastically received by the secret societies and orders have already been taken to complete the project.

The flags will be 4½ by 7 with a dark brown field and a big white block "B," costing $6 each.

This action by the fraternities is welcomed as showing a tendency to emphasize their loyalty to the university as a whole.

THE SKATING CARNIVAL

At Roger Williams Park on January 18 Brown staged a highly successful skating carnival. There was an estimated attendance of 6000 at this initial event of what ought to prove a long series. "Practically the entire student body of both the Men's and Women's Colleges were present," says the Herald.

An ice baseball game went five innings. The team led by A. F. Merewether '22 won, 5-2. There was a 100-yard dash, won by Merewether in 7 1-5 sec.; a 220-yard dash, won by S. W. Remington '22 in 24 3-5 sec.; a girls' 100-yard dash, won by Miss M. E. Sampson in 17 sec.; a couples' 100-yard dash, won by Miss Nancy Dyer and H. Robertson '19, in 14-15 sec.; and an open 880-yard race, won by John Rogers of New Bedford in 2:47 3-5 sec.; an open snowshoe race, won by Miss Beatrice McGrath '25; and a three-legged race, won by Merewether and H. F. Destremps '23. There was also some interesting fancy skating. The proceeds from the affair will go to the fund to defray the expenses of the Brown delegates to next summer's Y. M. C. A. conference at Silver Bay.

TRACK TEAM PROSPECTS

Coach Smith's track team candidates numbered 130 just after the Christmas recess.

W. C. Forstall '22, who has been a consistent point winner for three years looks even better than last year. He is the best quarter miler in college, and will probably run anchor man on the relay team in both the New England Intercollegiates and the National Intercollegiates.

Captain West has been working hard on the pole vault, and has the appearance of a sure point winner in both of the big intercollegiate meets.

Carter '23, another of last year's veterans, and holder of the college record for the hundred-yard dash, is showing his usual excellent form.

In the sprints, Soellner '24 and Sullivan '24 look promising, while Monk '24, Wells '22, Martin '23 and Prentiss '22, have been doing well in the distances. Nutter '24, Elson '25, Vinning '25, and Underdown '25 are the most promising in the middle distance events.

The third game was won by Brown against the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, 30-23.

NOTES OF THE MONTH

There is to be a Brown dance at the Hotel Biltmore, New York city, during the Easter vacation. The committee in charge is W. Povey '22 and G. W. Yates '24.

The President and Mrs. Faunce gave a reception to the Freshmen class at their home, 180 Hope street, on Jan. 11.

The Junior Week committee is: L. Lanpher, chairman, D. C. Rubel secretary, P. C. Brown treasurer, and Messrs. Chase, Heeks, Jeffers, Lincoln, McCarthy, Nichols, Peterson, Swaney, Waldon, Wofsey and Worthington. The Junior Prom committee is: W. B. McCormick chairman, C. R. Johnson secretary, R. C. Smith treasurer, and Messrs. Gonzales, Hazen, Joslyn and Sheldon.

Under the head "Back to Normal" Harry Cross says in the New York Evening Post: "The resumption of gridiron relations between Harvard and Dartmouth and between Brown and Dartmouth may perhaps be regarded as an indication that the globe-trotting fad has somewhat subsided. Intersectional games are always interesting and should be encouraged, of course, but of late years it has reached a point where many of the elevens spend most of the fall season on sleeping cars."

UNIVERSITY INTERESTS

CORPORATION NOTES

The January meeting of the Advisory and Executive Committee was held at the University Club in Boston on Friday, January 13th, at 3 p. m., the Board of Fellows coming from their previous meeting to attend the meeting of the Advisory Committee.

It was voted to appoint O. G. H. Oden instructor in physical training for the remainder of the year. It was voted to appoint Arthur O. Hickson of Acadia College instructor in mathematics for the second semester, during the absence of Professor Archibald, who will spend that time in Europe.

A report was presented from the building committee of the Metcalf Chemical Laboratory, showing that bids had been received for the construction of the laboratory and that very soon the contract would be awarded. A report was received from the committee on the Marston Hall of Languages, showing that the plans were being reconsidered and the matter of site further discussed.

It was voted to erect a new heating station and install new boilers on the site of the present heating station in the rear of Rogers Hall, some of the present boilers being thirty-three years old and no longer capable of good service. It was also pointed out that such action was necessary because the present heating station was inadequate to heat the new buildings soon to be erected.

The library committee reported that the rare and valuable collection of Napoleana, loaned to the university a few years ago by Mrs. William H. Hoffman of Barrington, R. I., was to be presented to the university in the immediate future.

The comptroller's report showed that of the Emergency Fund of $3,500,000, $1,700,000 had already been paid in, and that all subscriptions or installments of subscriptions had been paid up to date with the exception of the small sum of $15,000, which would undoubtedly be paid very soon.

At five o'clock other members of the Corporation and a few Boston alumni joined the committee and the Board of Fellows and discussed until nine o'clock the question of the limitation of the number of students, and the selective process which might be applied, and the courses of study and methods of teaching now pursued.

The Board of Fellows held a special meeting at the University Club in Boston on Friday, January 13th, taking luncheon at the University Club in that city as the guests of W. V. Kellen '72. At 3:00 p. m., at the same place, the Fellows were invited to join the Advisory and Executive Committee of the Corporation for the regular monthly meeting of that committee. At 5:00 p. m. other members of the Corporation residing in Boston joined the two bodies and all remained for dinner as the guests of Zechariah Chafee '80.

PRESIDENT VISITS ALUMNI

President Faunce is making an extensive tour of the country, having left Providence on January 16. He has been visiting the alumni associations of various cities, his object being to get into close touch with alumni living at long distances from the university and bring to them in person the latest news from Alma Mater.

The President's itinerary has included stops all the way across the country as far as the Pacific coast. He has spoken to the following associations: January 17, Washington; 18, Philadelphia; 19, New York City; 20, Pittsburgh; 21, Detroit; 23, Chicago; 25, Denver; 26, Colorado Springs. He expects to be two weeks on the coast, visiting the alumni at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Berkeley and elsewhere. He will make no stops on his return trip.

Executive Secretary Appleget accompanied the President as far as Colorado Springs and then returned, making several stops on his way. His itinerary included Beaver Dam, Wis.; Delafield, Wis.; South Bend, Ind.; Culver, Ind.; Howe, Ind.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Youngstown, Ohio; Toledo, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Rochester, N. Y.; and Syracuse, N. Y.

DEAN RANDALL IN CHICAGO

In January, 1921, Dean Randall was appointed by the Association of American Colleges chairman of a commission to consider questions concerning sabbatic leave. The other members of the commission were President Neilson of Smith College, President Richmond of Union College, President Scott of Northwestern University and Dean Nollen of Grinnell College.

Questionnaires were sent out to the Presidents of 590 colleges and universities with the intention of securing information concerning present practice in the various institutions, and further information concerning the attitude of these same institutions toward possible improvement in present practice. These questionnaires were promptly and frankly answered and the replies were carefully tabulated. The Dean presented the report at the meetings of the association at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, on January 13th.

The commission was reappointed with the request that a more elaborate report be made at a later date, when the commission had had more time to examine the returns from the questionnaires.

Many questions of interest to the college world outside of the question of sabbatic leave, such as tenure of office, freedom of speech, restriction in enrollment, etc., were discussed.

While in Chicago the dean was invited by the Chicago alumni to attend a dinner prepared especially for him. Twenty-five of the alumni who had been notified over the telephone by Secretary H. M. Jackson reported. This was particularly gratifying as the regular annual banquet had already been planned for January 23rd. The dean reports that during his entire stay in Chicago the alumni did everything in their power to make this visit to the west the most delightful in his experience.

FRESHMEN AND THE B. C. A

When Bob Jones, 1925, from the green hills of Vermont, timidly directed his steps for the first time through the Van Wickle Gates and witnessed the boisterous greetings which seemed to be extended to everyone but him he felt that Vermont and home were indeed far, far away and he longed for some one to stretch out a friendly hand. Then he remembered the letter which had invited him to go directly to the middle campus and find out "everything" from the "B. C. A. Secretary." And so he received his initiation into the fellowship of Brown men.

Now Bob has learned that the B. C. A. is ready for every problem. Does he need to earn money? The B. C. A. will find him work. Is he unable to find a room? The B. C. A. has investigated and can confidently recommend for his choice a dozen. It will furnish a map or send a guide to show him where they are and then it will find him a classmate to share his room. Has he been accustomed to a certain church? The B. C. A. has registered his preference and has furnished the information to the neighboring churches of that denomination from whom he will receive invitations to attend. Does he want information about college customs, calendars and class rooms? The B. C. A. has printed for him a "Freshman Bible" full of the way of (college) life. Is he lonesome? The B. C. A. has promoted a steady succession of Freshman socials at which college traditions, songs, cheers and ideals are taught and classmates become friends. And finally the man of 1925 finds a chance, in study and discussion groups led by such outstanding undergraduates as captains and managers of athletic teams, editors and managers of college publications, the captain of the debating team and the manager of the dramatic society, for intimate knowledge of the best ways to make time and energy count in college days—both in the classroom and out of it. And it is all a service of Brown men to Brown men.

So the Class of 1925 knows that the Brown Christian Association stands for practical Christianity. It is because the graduate advisory committee finds and has confidence that you will find this all worth while that it turns annually to you, the readers of the Monthly, for the contributions necessary to insure that this spirit shall claim its place in the life on the hill, now and always. The European Summer School costs no more than an ordinary tour. It is more of an education than a year in the university. It excludes no legitimate travel interest.

Rev. Dr. Augustus H. Strong, president emeritus of Rochester Theological Seminary, died at Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 29, 1921. He received the degree of D. D. from Brown in 1870.

1871

Rev. Alfred Evan Johnson, honorary assistant at All Saints Memorial Church, Providence, is now occupying the position of instructor in Sacred Studies and Church History at the Cathedral School for Girls in Orlando, Fla.

1872

Andrew J. Jennings has been elected president of the University Club of Fall River.

Reuben Eugene Walker died in Concord, N. H., on January 1, 1922, after a distinguished career as lawyer, judge and citizen. He came to Brown from Colby Academy. He was a quiet man in college, keen, studious, kindly and well-liked. Not a high-rank man in scholarship, he was a good steady-going student who did his work without frills or display. He was not prominent in athletics or so-called college activities, simply a reliable member who attended class and college meetings, took a wise and cheerful interest and never asked anything for himself. He came to Brown with the definite purpose of making ready and that was his steadfast aim. It is grateful to his old classmates to know that he achieved a real and decided success and became so distinguished and competent a judge and citizen. He studied and practised law in Concord, not far from his old home, Warner, N. H.; was admitted to the bar in 1878, and was connected from the first with the best lawyers of the State. He was a member of the firm of Ray and Walker, and the partners wrote a legal book that has been much used, "Ray and Walker's New Hampshire Citations." After a time he set up his own office and practised alone with success until 1891. In that year he became connected with Streeter, Walker and Hollis, a firm which was soon very well known both within and without the State. In 1901 the Courts of New Hampshire were reorganized and Walker was made an associate justice of the Supreme Court. He held that position until about a year ago, when he retired at the age limit. His opinions from the bench were models of clarity, learning, diction and brevity. Some of them were famous and important. Outside the regular duties of his profession he was president of the New Hampshire Bar Association and a vice-president of the American Bar Association. He was also a member of the Legislature and of the New Hampshire Constitutional Convention, a superintendent of schools, a trustee of the library and held many positions of usefulness and importance. All his life he was a high-minded and loyal citizen. In religion he was a liberal Unitarian and in politics a broad minded Republican. Dartmouth gave him the degree of LL.D. in 1916 and his own college the same honor in 1921, an act which pleased him very much. He was always a devoted son of Brown and a most faithful member of his class. Walker married Miss Mary E. Brown in 1875. She died in 1903, and their only child, Miss Bertha May Walker, survives them both.

Died, in Boston, Sunday, December 18, 1921, Sophia M., wife of John T. Shaw, and daughter of the late Dr. James and Catherine Northrop Hine of New Milford, Conn. Funeral services were held at New Milford on Tuesday, December 20th.

1880

Mrs. Henry G. Hardy wrote to the secretary of the class after Mr. Hardy's death: "It was indeed a great comfort to me to receive your note written in behalf of the Class, and to hear from you that Henry's loss was felt so keenly by you all. As you saw him at such times, so he always was, bright and cheery with always a smile. I never saw him any other way; even through disappointments and trouble he was never discouraged but hopeful that all would be well. His only worry during the last days when he was so weak was that he might not be strong enough to meet with you all at your fortieth anniversary. He counted the weeks in anticipation of going."

1885

Rev. Edward A. George, Yale '85, who spent his Freshman year at Brown, died on the street at New Haven, Dec. 22, 1921, having been stricken with heart trouble.

1886

William Allan Dyer, president of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce, appealed, at a State Department of Labor hearing, Dec. 17, for a revision of the industrial building code so that it would apply only to new structures. He was supported by other citizens in the commercial life of Syracuse. Mr. Dyer has lately addressed the Boy Scouts.

Join the Brown Club in New York

It is not merely a selfish interest in the new Brown Club at 119 East 39th Street that leads us to ask you to become a member. It is rather that we have something to offer you—accommodations in New York City at more reasonable prices than the hotels and with more pleasant surroundings.

The New York Club is the first Brown Alumni organization to attempt the maintenance of a resident club house. A large, comfortable house has been procured at 119 E. 39th Street for the accommodation of club members. Rooms, both transient and permanent, meals, and the usual club conveniences, newspapers, magazines, etc., are at your service here.

Already many non-resident members have spent the night at the Club and expressed approval of its management in no uncertain terms. It is a pleasant place and most conveniently located within but a minute or two of the Grand Central Station at 42nd Street, two and a half blocks from 5th Avenue, within a stone's throw of the Williams, Princeton, Zeta Psi, Psi U, Beta Theta and Union League Clubs.

Send for the descriptive booklet "The New Brown Club of New York" that explains more fully the usefulness of the Club and the advantages you can enjoy by using it. The scale of club dues is given in the booklet.

Why have 57,000 College Men enrolled in the Alexander Hamilton Institute?

THE President of the largest institution of its kind in America—a man still in his forties—was commenting on his own experience in business.

“When I graduated from college I supposed I was equipped with the training necessary to business success,” he said.

“As a matter of fact I had nothing more than a bare foundation. I discovered that fact even in my first job, and for weeks I spent my evenings in a night school trying to master the elements of cost-finding and accountancy.

“Later as I made my way up toward executive positions I found I needed to know the fundamentals of sales and merchandising, of advertising and factory management, of office organization and corporation finance.

“These I picked up from books as best I could. Probably my college training made it easier for me to acquire them; but the college training alone certainly was not an adequate preparation for business in my case. I doubt if it is for any man.”

More than 155,000 men in 11 years

The Alexander Hamilton Institute was not founded early enough to be of service to this man; but it grew out of an appreciation of the needs of men of just this type.

In the eleven years of its existence the Institute has enrolled more than 155,000 men who are today making more rapid progress in business as a result of its training.

Of these 155,000 no less than 57,000 are graduates of colleges and universities.

This is the Institute's mark of distinction—that its appeal is to the unusual man. It has only one Course, embracing the fundamentals underlying all business, and its training fits a man for the sort of executive positions where demand always outruns supply.

The splendid privilege of saving wasted years

One of the tragedies of the business world is that so many college men spend so many of the best years of their lives in doing tasks which they know are below their real capacities.

It is the privilege of the Institute to save those wasted years—to give a man in the leisure moments of a few months the working knowledge of the various departments of modern business which would ordinarily take him years to acquire.

That the Institute's Modern Business Course and Service actually achieves this splendid result, that its training is practical and immediately applicable to the problems of every business, the records of 155,000 business men, in every kind of business, prove.

At least you will want the facts

Every college man in business is interested in business training. He is interested in it either as a factor in his own progress; or as a factor in the progress of the younger men associated with him, who are constantly turning to him for advice.

To put all the facts regarding the Modern Business Course and Service in convenient form the Alexander Hamilton Institute has prepared a 120-page book, entitled “Forging Ahead in Business.” It tells concisely and specifically what the Course is and what it has done for other men. There is a copy of this book free for every college man in business; send for your copy today.

Have you a fund which is regularly accumulating for your child's education?

The Educational Fund Contract, issued by the Puritan Life, offers the most modern and complete plan whereby a fund will be in hand at the right time.

The Contract provides for $500 payable to the boy each year for the four years of his college education, beginning at age eighteen.

Here is how it works out. Assume that the father is thirty years of age and the baby one year old. The parent deposits with us regularly each year $92.14 and when the child is eighteen we pay him $500 a year for four years.

If the parent does not live to complete the payments, upon his death all the remaining deposits are cancelled and the child receives his $500 a year for four years when he reaches age eighteen.

This unique plan has proved most popular and has been accepted by parents living in all parts of our good land.

Many boys and girls will look to the Puritan Life for the Educational Fund which is awaiting them.
