

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

✧ 1924 - 1925 ✧

FOUR years in Providence must have given to every Brown man an acquaintance with the names of those who are directing the affairs of the Puritan Life Insurance Company of Rhode Island.

NO matter where Brown men are now located they must have experienced a familiarity with the motive forces of this Rhode Island Institution.

THIS feeling of personal interest is reciprocal. It yields unusual satisfaction to us to receive applications for life insurance from Brown men.

Board of Directors

Puritan Life Insurance Company

Providence, R. I.

Walter R. Callender
Edmund D. Chesebro
Dutee W. Flint
Lyman B. Goff
Webster Knight
Henry F. Lippitt
Eben N. Littlefield
Edgar J. Lownes

Stephen O. Metcalf
Charles Perry
Aram J. Pothier
Edward H. Rathbun
Henry D. Sharpe
William P. Sheffield
Henry G. Thresher
Clinton C. White

THE
Nitrogen Corporation

53 CANAL STREET, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

EDWARD E. ARNOLD, President

SYNTHETIC AMMONIA

PURE, ANHYDROUS

Plants designed and installed for the production of Synthetic Ammonia from atmospheric Nitrogen and by-product Hydrogen.

Financial Co-operation
That You Need

While our main function is to give a safe, convenient service in connection with transactions involving money, we are also prepared to help our patrons in many other ways. One of the most helpful aids to our customers comes through the ability of our officers to give reliable financial counsel when requested. You are invited to take advantage of all the facilities that this bank offers. Your patronage will be welcome—and appreciated.

Industrial Trust Co.

Member of Federal Reserve System

Vacation-Time Service

There is no need to go away for your vacation with a burden of worries on your mind. This Company is prepared to relieve you of many of the details of caring for your property, thus making your summer outing more restful and enjoyable.

Our Safe Deposit Department offers full security for jewelry, silverware, rare pictures, or other household valuables. If you will call us on the telephone, we will send to your home for any articles or packages you desire to place in safe deposit storage.

By placing your securities with our Trust Department for safe-keeping and proper handling, you make sure that each detail will be cared for at the right time and in the right way. You will find this service very convenient and profitable whether your holdings are many or few.

Our Foreign Department can assist you not only by supplying you with safe travelling funds, but also in purchasing tickets, making hotel, steamship, or Pullman reservations, and rendering numerous other travel services.

Brown alumni are sure to be interested in the historical review of Brown University which appeared in the June Netopian—our monthly magazine. Illustrated with new campus pictures. Copies mailed free on request.

15 WESTMINSTER ST.
PROVIDENCE

216 MAIN ST.
PAWTUCKET

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

The Oldest Trust Company in New England

The whole world in your hands

Rivers that now furnish power for great mills once ran wastefully away. Not in the United States alone, but all over the world, equipment made by the General Electric Company is transforming idle rivers into hard-working servants.

General Electric motors enable one great mill to produce paper enough in a day to cover a 13-foot road from New York to Chicago. Other G-E motors run the huge presses which can print as many as 300,000 newspapers an hour.

So, served by electricity, you breakfast like a king—an electric percolator and an electric toaster on your table, and the world's news in your hands!

GENERAL ELECTRIC

On The Hill

RUTGERS COLLEGE has become Rutgers University, and we offer our respectful best wishes on the occasion of its expansion into our more ambitious company. We do not understand, however, that the change of nomenclature carries with it any immediate and spectacular development. It is rather a recognition of the fact that Rutgers is more than a mere college, with its main department for men, its women's college and its agricultural department.

Most of us know Rutgers principally through its close approach to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, from which we glimpse its old Colonial row in passing. How little, by the way, we college men know about other colleges than our own!

* * *

THIS fact was brought again to the editor's attention the other day on his return from the Commencement exercises at Andover. Behind him in the car of the train for Boston sat two old Andover graduates with whom he entered into casual conversation. One of them proved to be a Yale man and the other a graduate of Williams. As courtesy seemed to demand, the editor injected into the talk as many agreeable things as he could think of regarding the excellent institutions of learning at New Haven and Williamstown. (The Harkness tower will always stir a Yale man to enthusiasm, as it should, and a Williams grad. can usually be reached with pleasant references to the Berkshire scenery and the fine new college buildings at Williamstown). There was a good deal of talk about Yale and Williams, accordingly, which the editor enjoyed as much as anyone. It came out, incidentally, that the editor's boy at Andover was going to enter Brown. "O!" said the Yale man—and that was literally the only reference to Brown in the entire conversation on the part of any one of those engaged in it. In fact, the Yale man did not seem interested in Williams or the Williams man in Yale.

We plead for knowledge about other colleges and a willingness to talk about them. We can conceive of no greater evidence of provinciality than the absorption of a college graduate in his own institution to the point where, his face having been alight with enthusiasm during his references to it, his smile vanishes and eye dulls at the mention of some other college.

As the motto in the University Club reminds us, Veritas una, lucēs multae.

* * *

OFTEN the college graduate says to himself: "If I had my undergraduate days to live over again, I would go in for high marks. Why is it that the younger generation has so little interest in scholarship? I should think that a mentally and physically normal boy would jump at the chance to pit his wits and skill and strength against his fellows."

But how often the graduate himself follows the path of least resistance when he gets out into life. How often he represents in his business or official career the same type of indolence that many undergraduates represent! His idea is to get through the day comfortably, to do a fair but not an excessive amount of work, to avoid the harder places, to be content with a mediocre accomplishment, to leave the dizzier pinnacles for other men to climb.

Of course there are innumerable instances to the contrary. We are all familiar with cases of men who woke up after they had finished college and made a great name for themselves. But nevertheless there are a very large number who cannot understand the undergraduate's unwillingness to make the most of himself and yet exemplify in their own after lives the philosophy of unstriving mediocrity.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

* * *

IF YOU, fellow-graduate of Brown, were choosing a site for the new Hegeman Hall of Residence, where would you place it? Three sites have been under discussion—one, the property newly acquired by the University on the south side of College Hill, east of the Athenaeum and west of the D. K. E. House; the second, the two lots now occupied by old wooden houses, the property of the University, just east of the John Carter Brown Library on George street; the third, the lot on which the brick residential block at the corner of George and Thayer streets stands.

Personally we have no strong preference in the matter, though on the whole it seems to us as if a dormitory on College Hill would suffer a disadvantage in its close proximity to the downtown district. Other things being equal, we would rather have it a little further from Westminster street. However, there are now four fraternity houses on College Hill.

As we go to press, we learn that the two George street sites are still under discussion with the probabilities favoring the selection of the one at the corner of Thayer street. It will surprise most Brown alumni to know that the University has lately acquired the brick block there. This block contains four dwellings, but has not proved of recent years a very popular renting property. It is in poor repair and it seems likely that the block will be torn down, at least in part, and the new dormitory erected on a north-and-south site, facing on Thayer street and occupying the eastern half of the lot on which the block now stands.

It may also surprise most of our readers to know that the theory is that dormitories, other things being equal, should run north and south rather than east and west, so that the sun will reach all the rooms at some time of the day. One argument against the College Hill site was that the dormitory, if built there would run east and west.

What, now, shall be done with the vacant property on College Hill? We do not know that any very serious thought is being bestowed upon the question. It may be that a dormitory will eventually be erected there, or that it will be used for a recitation hall or laboratory. The main point is that the property belongs to the University and will be utilized for some purpose that will emphasize the fact that College street above Benefit street is a Brown thoroughfare—open to the public of course, but dominated by structures possessing a University significance.

* * *

HOW great an institution, financially considered, Brown University has become is shown by the statement, printed elsewhere in this issue of the Monthly, that the operating expenses for next year are estimated at $944,000. The day cannot be far distant when it will cost well over a million dollars a year to pay the University's bills.

* * *

IT IS gratifying to know that a sufficient sum has actually been paid in on the athletic fund to justify the Corporation in authorizing the immediate beginning of work on the construction of the stadium. The work on the Cole street plat—Aldrich Field—was long ago begun. The more that can be done on the stadium this season, the better. There must be no slip-up on the plan to have it ready for the unique series of football games scheduled for 1925

Commencement, 1924

SELDOM has a Commencement season at Brown been attended by fairer skies than that of 1924. The entire four days, from Saturday to Wednesday inclusive, were pleasant, though Wednesday waxed a trifle warmer than was necessary.

CLASS DAY

A company of nearly or quite a thousand persons attended the "Under the Elms" exercises on the middle campus on Monday afternoon.

The speakers, in addition to President Faunce, were Charles Sumner Stedman, Jr., who delivered the farewell address of the Senior class; Ernest Frederic Schmults, class poet; Mahlon Martin Meier, class orator, and Edward Ringrose Place, class prophet. Joe Nutter, President of the Senior class, presided.

President Faunce, basing his remarks on the ancient proverb, "He that regardeth the wind shall not sow; he that watcheth the clouds shall not reap," pointed out that the man who allows his mind to dwell on other things beside his work will never get anywhere, will never amount to anything, and eventually will lose what interest he may have had in life and become nothing more than a rolling stone.

"I do not like rolling stones," President Faunce said, "for they are the men who do not give their all to their tasks. They root nowhere but are continually changing and changing, looking for something easy, something better than they have, without having to labor for the fruits.

"Make the most of your opportunities. Get the most out of the place where you are and strive to make a success. For if you have a will there is a way, and where there is a way there should be a will.

"Have perseverance, integrity, courage and ambition and everything will come to you in time. Of course there will be clouds on the horizon, the cloud of ill health, the cloud of sorrow and disappointment and the cloud of small opportunity—and things will not always be as sunny as the sky is here to-day. But do not let them worry you. Stick to your tasks in man-fashion, be big enough to do your work and you will reap the harvests that are in store for you in a life worth living.

CLASS DAY EVENING

We quote from the Journal's romantic account of Class Day evening:

"The verdant, ancient campus that lies high and isolated upon the hill was clothed by nature and by artifice with a soft, resplendent glamour that entwined itself about the thoughts of all who went within. Swaying loops of lanterns made a colorful lacework above the lawns that was rivalled only by the stately splendor of the moon, which in honor of the occasion chose to be perfectly spherical.

"From Sayles and Rockefeller Halls, where lilting couples voiced their mood in dancing, strains of suavely syncopated melody escaped to burden the air. High aloft, the belfry of old 'U.H.' called in the catalogue University Hall, was ablaze with incandescence, while in the centre of the intertwining throng a band burst on occasion into tunes more martial.

"At 10 o'clock a respite hardly earned was taken by the dancers in order that all might attend the sonorous singing of 1924 on the chapel steps. Their first song was appropriately that gem of college melodies, written by J. N. Eno, Brown '83, 'Chapel Steps,' and was followed by 'We Are Ever True to Brown.'

"After a bit they rose and swung into the strains of 'Alma Mater,' stately tune of stately words, and as the phrases 'The happiest moments of youth's fleeting hours, we've passed 'neath the shade of these time-honored walls' drifted over the hushed assembly many an alumnus, grown gray (and perhaps a little bald), felt a recurrence of the spirit he had come far to seek.

"Little more than an hour of dancing brought the evening to a close for all except the privileged, who scurried at the tolling of the bell that had called them to classes for four long years, and miraculously reappeared in costumes whose variety and extemporaneity can be found only on a college campus. They swung into line, but not in step, and swept through the gates to the crest of College Hill.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

"Behind the band, a band chiefly notable for its place at the head of the column, they descended the incline in a blaze of fiery splendor to Market square, quickly crossed the level to the foot of Waterman street, and charged up that eminence to Benefit. They disappeared, cheering, into the staid arsenal of the Providence Marine Corps of Artillery, where, under the encouragement of Gerald W. Bennett, chairman of the Class Day committee and toastmaster of the evening, Hugh J. Reynolds, Joe Nutter, class President, and John J. Monk, held forth in oratory."

TUESDAY'S EVENTS

The class reunions reached their climax on Tuesday afternoon and evening, though some of them began on Monday and lasted until Wednesday.

The oldest class represented was 1855, ex-Governor A. O. Bourn and Rev. W. J. Batt both being in attendance. Rev. Lyman B. Tefft '58 and Thomas W. Bicknell '60 were also present. The first two are the only members of our oldest surviving class, and the last two are the oldest alumni in years.

The long-distance record was made by William Grant Van Horne of the class of 1877, for 22 years judge of the International Court of First Instance at Cairo, Egypt. Judge Van Horne recently resigned and sailed from Cairo in time to reach Providence for the gathering of his classmates. Another Brunonian who came from afar to be with his fellows of undergraduate days was Professor Harold D. Hazeltine '94 of the faculty of the University of Cambridge, England, to whom Harvard, during the week, gave the degree of LL. D.

The Elder Statesmen

Every year graduates of more than 50 years' standing dine together.

Those present at the dinner on Tuesday evening were: Rev. William J. Batt '55, Concord Junction, Mass.; former Governor Augustus O. Bourn '55, Bristol; Dr. Charles E. Hosmer '61, Billerica, Mass.; Dr. George B. Peck '64, Providence; John E. Bowen '67, Providence; Charles H. Smart '68, Providence; William E. Lincoln '68, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Xenophon D. Tingley '68, Gloucester, Mass.; Professor George H. Felton '69, M. D., Berea, Ky.; William T. Richmond '69, New Bedford; Professor Wilfred H. Munro '70, Providence; Arthur H. Armington '71, Providence; Rev. Alfred E. Johnson '71, Orlando, Fla.; Edward B. Hamlin '72, Providence; Daniel D. Waterman '72, Providence; Frank B. Bourne '73, Providence.

The Fifty-Year Class

Members of the class of 1874 celebrated their 50th annual reunion at the Squantum Club, where they were the guests of Dr. Forrest G. Eddy, one of their classmates, at dinner. The following attended; Walter Hidden, Abel P. Tanner, Samuel Park, Rev. E. W. Babcock, Dr. George H. Coffin, Frank E. Rockwood, Virgil C. Pond, Rev. Thomas D. Anderson and Harmon S. Babcock.

Other Reunions

Eighteen members of the class of 1876 were the guests of Dr. Henry Allen Whitmarsh at his home on Prospect street, where the annual reunion of the class was held.

Charles T. Aldrich '77 entertained 16 of his classmates on board his yacht Wanaloa.

Seventy-nine dined at Jim Smith's Inn, Pewtuxet. There were 22 present, including Professor Appleton. Dr. Munro, the indefatigable secretary, arranged the reunion as usual, and N. S. Calhoun of Cleveland was the host.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Frank L. Tinkham entertained '80 at his home in Taunton. Later, golf, tennis and other pastimes were enjoyed at the Rhode Island Country Club in Nayatt, and on Wednesday Prescott O. Clarke was the host at his home on Blackstone boulevard.

The class of '84 held its 40th reunion at the Hope Club with a dinner given its members by Albert A. Baker and William A. Viall. Thirty members of the class, including all but 16 of the survivors, attended. The class met first at the home of Mr. Baker, 264 Bowen street, and proceeded from there to the club, where dinner was served and the class picture taken. On Wednesday the class attended the Commencement exercises and the ball game in a body.

Laudatory resolutions were passed on the administration of President Faunce and the services of Professors Appleton and Poland. The following officers were elected for five years: President—Abbott V. Rice, Newton Centre, Mass.; Vice President—William A. Viall; Secretary—William M. P. Bowen.

Nineteen members of the class of '85 gathered at the office of Dr. Frank L. Day on Waterman street and motored to Shawme Farm, Charles O. Dexter's place at Sandwich, Mass., on Cape Cod. Dinner was served at 2 o'clock by the host. Vice President Frank H. Brown presided in the absence of Dr. Day, who was unable to attend.

The class of 1886 held its 38th annual reunion at the University Club at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, the host being Dr. William H. Bennett of Fitchburg, Mass.

The class of '89 celebrated its 35th anniversary at the Squantum Club, the festivities commencing in the afternoon and lasting into the evening. At the business session held during the evening, the following officers were elected: President—Edward H. Rathbun; Secretary and Treasurer—Bertram S. Blaisdell; Executive Committee—Lauriston H. Hazard, Charles A. Denfeld and Robert L. Spencer. Twenty-six present.

At the Hope Club, Arthur H. Colby and Frank L. Hinckley were hosts to the class of '91. Eighteen members of the class attended the dinner, which was preceded and succeeded by singing and much joviality.

The class of 1892 held its annual reunion at the Wannamoisett Gun Club. Those present were: F. M. Smith, Edward DeV. O'Connor, C. H. Merriman, Dr. H. G. Partridge, A. L. Barbour and James C. Collins.

The annual reunion of the class of 1893 took place at the Nelson W. Aldrich estate at Warwick Neck, where the members were the guests of Edward B. Aldrich. The members with several guests gathered in the Tea House, overlooking Narragansett bay, where a Rhode Island clambake was served. Present 23 and also six guests.

Members of the class of '94 were guests of Henry D. Sharpe at his summer home at Nayatt. Golf, tennis, bridge, mah jong and other games were enjoyed. A trip was made by automobile to the Squantum Club for luncheon.

On the return to Providence a stop was made at the home of Harold Congdon at 85 Keene street for afternoon tea. The class reunion supper was held at Carr's.

Professor Hazeltine of Cambridge, England, was awarded a cup for coming the longest distance to the reunion. The speakers were Professor Hazeltine, Judge Chester W. Barrows, Dr. Israel Strauss of New York, John Hope, President of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., and Professor Thomas Crosby of Brown.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President—John Hope; Treasurer—Henry D. Sharpe; Recording Secretary—Daniel F. George; Class Photographer—George S. Ellis of Portland, Me. Forty present.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

At the Pen and Pencil Club there was an informal '96 dinner, Tuesday evening, attended by 16 men.

The Wannamoisett Country Club was the scene of '97's reunion. Nineteen present.

The largest 25th-year-out-of-college reunion ever held in the history of Brown was conducted by the class of '99 beginning Friday, when many members went to the Atlantic House at Narragansett Pier to play tennis, golf and baseball, drive about the country and otherwise relax over the week end. F. E. Richmond won the tennis championship of the class. Some of the members were intrepid enough to brave the chill air and plunge into the Atlantic.

On Tuesday the wives of the members were entertained at luncheon at the Anawan Club in Rehoboth, and on Wednesday accompanied their husbands to the Brown-Dartmouth baseball game.

The culmination of the reunion was on Tuesday evening when 76 members of the class gathered in the University Club for dinner, with Wallace R. Lane of Chicago as toastmaster.

About 20 members of the class of 1901 were the guests of E. Tudor Gross at his summer home in Nayatt Tuesday afternoon. Golf and tennis were enjoyed at the Rhode Island Country Club and late in the afternoon a buffet luncheon was served.

A party of 35 classmates of 1902 sat down to dinner at the Agawam Hunt Club. The class golf tourney in the afternoon was won by Roland H. Wilson of Providence, with Arthur W. Pinkham runner-up. Tennis was also enjoyed.

At the Agawam Hunt a 1903 dinner was enjoyed by 16 members.

Jim Smith's was the scene of 1905's reunion, with 32 present.

Twenty-five members of 1906 met at the Wannamoisett Country Club for golf and dinner.

Twenty 1907 men dined at the Wannamoisett Club.

Nineteen hundred and nine was at the Gardner Inn in Jamestown from Saturday noon till Tuesday night, with 70 members present. Golf and tennis tournaments were played at the Jamestown Country Club. Cups were awarded as follows: Golf, best foursome, Henry S. Chafee and Albert E. Leach; best gross, "Chic" Butterworth; best net, "Rollic" King; tennis, singles, Harold B. Tanner; doubles, Harold B. Tanner and Sidney Wilmot; quoits, Charles H. Ward. A cup was also awarded to Donald L. Stone of Culver, Ind., the member coming the longest distance to the reunion.

1910—Met at Wannamoisett. Fourteen were on hand.

1911—Gathered at Twin Elm Farm in Harmony. Steak dinner. Twenty-three answered the roll call.

1912—Eight present at dinner at Wannamoisett.

1913—Met at Jim Smith's for a chicken dinner. Present, 16.

1914—Forty on deck at the American Legion Country Club, Quonset. Ball game and shore dinner.

The following officers were elected: President—R. S. Holding, Jr.; Vice President—I. J. Shepard; Secretary-Treasurer—Morgan W. Rogers. A committee, headed by P. D. Meader as chairman, and J. M. Legris as vice chairman, was appointed to lay plans for some contribution, financial or otherwise, in recognition of the class obligations to Brown University, to be announced at the 15th reunion.

1916—Twenty-four members dined at the Hotel Dreyfus.

1918—John S. Chafee was host to 28 of his classmates at his home, Laneway Farm, Taunton. Golf at the Taunton Golf Club. Ball game, won by the bachelors from the benedicts. Dinner at the Metacomet Golf Club.

1919 started off its fifth reunion by attending a clambake and meeting at the Hummocks, where the class of 1921 also celebrated. At the annual election Tom

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Black was made President and Fred Perkins Secretary for the coming year. Leaving the Hummocks late in the afternoon, the class gathered for the annual sing in honor of Perry Edson Faunce at the President's home on Hope street. Following this ceremony there was a dinner at the Metacomet, which concluded the programme. About seventy members returned for the fifth reunion. Tom Conroy of Cincinnati was back for the first time.

1920—Dinner and sports at the Wannamoisett Club. Present, 20.

1922—Motored to the home of Marshall B. Martin on the Taunton Pike. Athletics and a clam bake.

1923—Sail on the bay (steamer Prudence). Lunch at the Cold Spring House, Wickford. Polo, football, baseball, tennis, bowling and track sports. Forty-four answered "here."

Total number present at reunions (including classes not reported above) between 900 and 1000.

COMMENCEMENT DAY

The Commencement Day procession included more than 1200 undergraduates, alumni and officers of the University.

At the meeting house a total of 334 degrees were awarded, of which 272 were first degrees, 56 advanced degrees and six honorary awards.

The recipients of honorary awards were: Masanao Hanihara, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, Doctor of Laws; William Howard Sweetland, Chief Justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court, Doctor of Laws; James Henry Franklin, Secretary of the Baptist Foreign Mission Society, New York, Doctor of Divinity; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, editor of the Boston Herald, Doctor of Literature; Wilberforce Eames, librarian, New York, Doctor of Literature, and Joseph H. Gainer, Mayor of Providence, Master of Arts.

The degrees in course included Bachelor of Arts (119), Bachelor of Philosophy (124), B. of S. in Engineering, B. of Education, M. A., M. S., B. of Business Administration and Doctor of Philosophy.

At the afternoon exercises in Sayles Hall the speakers were Elmer L. Stevens '04 of Chicago, presiding officer; Governor Flynn, President Faunce, Ambassador Hanihara and Robert L. O'Brien, editor of the Boston Herald.

Dr. Faunce read the following letter from Clinton L. White 1900:

"The Brown Amphitheatre committee is pleased to render to you, President Faunce, the following report. The majority of the subscriptions to the fund were in amounts less than $5000. The following is a list of those contributing $5000 or more:

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York, $100,000; Aldrich brothers, Charles T. Aldrich of Providence, Henry L. Aldrich of Providence, $100,000; C. Prescott Knight of Providence, $10,000; Henry F. Lippitt of Providence, $10,000; Jesse H. Metcalf of Providence, $10,000; Stephen O. Metcalf of Providence, $10,000; Henry D. Sharpe of Providence, $10,000; Class of 1899 in 25th reunion, $5,525; Alfred C. Bedford of New York, $5,000; Webster Knight of Providence, $5,000; George E. Warren of Boston, $5,000.

"C. Prescott Knight, in the name of the class of 1885, to put the fund 'over the top,' $7,500, making Mr. Knight's total pledge $17,500.

"The committee reports to you that the total number of subscribers to date is 3600 for a total of $501,000 in full completion of the fund.

"The expense of the campaign has been kept well within 2½ per cent., so that the interest upon the fund paid in will more than offset the expense, and net the committee over one-half million dollars."

Since this letter was written, the total of the fund has been increased to $512,316, with 3719 as the aggregate number of subscribers. Mrs. Frank A. Sayles has been added to the list of those giving $10,000 each. Of the total fund, over $350,000 was raised in Rhode Island.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Dr. Faunce announced that the pledges for the Social Hall fund for the Women's College now amount to $314,600, including the sum raised by the alumnae and students and the gift of Stephen O. Metcalf, who has promised to give an amount equal to the total contributed by alumnae and students.

Other gifts announced by Dr. Faunce included:

Five thousand dollars from Mrs. Edgar J. Lownes, for organ recitals to be given in memory of her husband.

Five thousand dollars from Abbott B. Rice '84, for scholarships for graduates from the Newton, Mass., high school.

A portrait of Allen Ormsbee Peck of the class of 1824, given by Ellen and Elizabeth Peck.

One thousand dollars from the Social Hall fund from the graduating class of the Women's College.

One thousand dollars from the class of 1880 in honor of the 25th anniversary of President Faunce's coming to Brown.

Twenty thousand dollars from the Brown Loyalty fund toward a new gymnasium.

Mr. Hanihara, whose "grave consequences" note to Secretary Hughes two months ago caused Congress to write the Japanese exclusion clause into the immigration bill, in the course of his address asked "if it is the true sentiment of the American people to make light of its friendship for Japan."

"The friendship of Japan and America," Mr. Hanihara declared, "has been built up by hard, conscientious labor of the two peoples extending over nearly three-quarters of a century, not only to the good of themselves alone, but to the good of the rest of mankind."

The Japanese Ambassador told his hearers that it "is indeed a blessing to feel that one is among trusted friends, to whom he may open his heart without fear of being misunderstood."

He declared that Brown, in conferring the honorary degree upon him, "has not only honored me, but also the country that I represent," and added that he prized the honor highly "because it is an assurance for my country of your good will and friendship."

"The next speaker," said Mr. Preston, introducing Mr. O'Brien, "is from Boston; but you mustn't hold that against him. The only thing of interest or beauty to me in Boston," he added, "married another man."

Mr. O'Brien spoke of the dangers we run under our haphazard method of nominating Presidents, relating anecdotes of a number of prominent political figures. He referred to New England's last previous citizen in the Presidency, Franklin Pierce, and told several stories concerning him.

He asserted that an old man in Concord, N. H., broke the news to Pierce of the latter's nomination in these words:

"Strange as it may seem, sir, and ridiculous as it may appear, sir, they have nominated you."

Mr. O'Brien said it was only by good fortune that the country had escaped having many unfit Presidents, operating as it does under the party convention system.

As Mr. O'Brien continued his anecdotes of Presidents, he related several concerning Grover Cleveland, whose personal secretary he was for several years.

He said that he believed the Republicans made a good choice in General Dawes for Vice President, but pointed out that the choice was made only after the nomination had been bandied about with no one willing to accept it.

He declared that the President nowadays is the legislative leader of the country and that he is becoming more and more like the Premier in a parliamentary Government. He opposed popular primaries for the nomination of presidential candidates as well as the proposal for a single six-year term for Presidents. He advocated advancing the presidential inauguration date from March 4 to Jan. 1.

University News

CORPORATION NOTES

The June meeting of the Advisory and Executive Committee was held in the President's Office on Friday, June 13th, at 2.30 p. m. The budget was revised, including many changes in appointments to the teaching staff, and showing an operating expense for next year of $944,000. The report of the Comptroller was presented and placed on file.

The thanks of the Corporation were presented to Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin of New York for his assistance in connection with the gift of $250,000 for the John R. Hege-man Hall.

It was voted that a certain number of fellowships be established to enable the ministers of churches in Rhode Island to avail themselves of courses of graduate study on the same terms as are offered to teachers in public schools. The President and the Professor of Biblical literature were appointed a committee to carry out the provisions of the vote.

A report of progress was presented by Dr. Bumpus on behalf of the committee on further provision for the training of graduate students in public health.

A report was presented by Mr. Wood on the present situation with regard to the Modern Language Building.

The President reported that a gift of $5000 had been received from Mrs. Lownes to constitute a memorial to her husband, the late Edgar John Lownes, the income to be used in furnishing organ recitals in Sayles Hall.

A report was presented from the Committee on the Brown Amphitheatre showing that $50,000 had already been paid in to the treasury of the University, whereupon it was voted that the Committee on Amphitheatre and Athletic Fields should be authorized to proceed at once with the building of the Stadium and the equipment of the fields, in accordance with general plans previously presented.

The Committee adjourned at five o'clock.

JUNE CORPORATION MEETING

At the meeting of the University Corporation on Thursday, June 19, C. Sherman Hoyt and Herbert H. Rice were elected trustees, the latter succeeding himself.

The question of amending the charter of the University came up for friendly discussion and favorable comment followed. After Dr. Faunce had made a broad-minded presentation of the subject and other members of the Corporation had discussed it in the same amicable and sensible way, it was voted that a committee of five should be appointed by the President to consider changes in the charter and report its findings next June.

The Corporation passed unanimously a vote of thanks to Clinton C. White 1900 and his associates for their effective work in raising the half million dollars necessary for the building of a football amphitheatre and providing other outdoor athletic equipment for the University. Thanks were also voted to Mrs. Edgar J. Lownes for her gift of $5000 for organ recitals to be given in memory of her husband, and to Henry D. Sharpe for taking care of the salary of a cataloguer in the John Hay Library.

President Faunce made his report and Frank W. Matteson, treasurer of the University, submitted his report. Henry D.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Sharpe, Z. Chafee, Paul C. DeWolf, William Vail Kellen and Charles R. Adams told respectively of the work of the committees of which they are chairmen. Mr. Adams's report dealt with the new hall of residence for which the University has received $250,000 from the estate of the late John R. Hegeman.

Chancellor Arnold B. Chace, Oscar Lapham, Dr. Hermon C. Bumpus and Walter C. Wyckoff were re-appointed as members of the advisory and executive committee and Paul C. DeWolf and James M. Pendleton were named as auditors.

Members of the committee on investments, library, scholarships, board of management of the John Carter Brown Library and board of management of the Brown Union were likewise reappointed. Fred T. Field of Boston was named as a member of the committee to fill vacancies in the board of trustees to succeed Walter C. Wyckoff, whose term has expired.

The choice of a member of the advisory council of the Women's College to serve for five years in place of the late Sarah E. Doyle was postponed until fall. Professor John F. Greene and Albert D. Mead were named to represent the University on the board of the Rhode Island School of Design and the executive committee of the Women's College was re-elected.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Professor James Quayle Dealey '90 of the Brown faculty was unanimously re-elected President of the Rhode Island Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa for the year 1924-25 at the annual meeting on June 17. The following other officers were also chosen: Vice President—Dr. Henry A. Whitmarsh, Secretary—Professor William T. Hastings, Treasurer—William W. Moss, Historian—Professor Wilfred H. Munro, Auditor—Claude R. Branch.

Two graduates of Brown University, Professor Philip D. Sherman of Oberlin College, a member of the class of 1902, and Howard M. Chapin '08, librarian of the Rhode Island Historical Society, were elected to membership.

Henry D. Sharpe, chairman of the local committee on the National Phi Beta Kappa Endowment, reported that about $2000 had been contributed by members of the Brown Chapter, and that $8,000 more was sought. The Brown Chapter leads all others in contributions thus far, with the exception of the original chapter at William and Mary College.

The following amendments to the By-Laws were adopted:

1. Amend Article III, Section 9, of the By-Laws to read: "A member of any other Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa is entitled to attend the meetings and enjoy the social privileges of a member of the Chapter at Brown University. Members of other Chapters who are also members of the Faculty of Brown University may, during their connection with the University, be registered as associate members with all the privileges of members."

2. Amend Section 6 of the By-Laws to read: "No undergraduate shall be eligible for election to Phi Beta Kappa unless at least two-fifths of his work has been in humanities, which shall here be understood to mean courses in language, literature, fine arts, philosophy, education, history, political science, and economics, and unless in those courses he shall have attained an average grade of B."

WOMEN'S COLLEGE SOCIAL HALL

The main feature of the Commencement season at the Women's College was the success of the movement to raise a fund for a new social and religious building. The undergraduate body pledged more than $18,000, and enough other pledges have been secured to bring the total above the required $150,000 from graduates, undergraduates and special students past and present. Mr. Stephen O. Metcalf, Brown '78, had generously agreed to match the contributions from these sources dollar for dollar, so that more than $300,000 for the building is now assured. It is a splendid achievement for the promoters of the undertaking and for those who worked to bring it to fulfillment. To Mr. Metcalf in particular the gratitude of the college and its multitude of friends is of course due. He has been a most liberal donor of the institution in the past, so that this latest gift is only a crowning benefaction.

SOCIAL AND RELIGIOUS HALL FOR THE WOMEN'S COLLEGE

The plan has been to erect the building east of Sayles Gymnasium, in part on a lot given by Mr. Metcalf some time ago and in part on the none-too-large campus. But as we go to press we hear of a movement, started by the Boston alumnae, to raise a fund of $10,000 for the purchase of land sufficient, east of and adjoining the lot given by Mr. Metcalf, to accommodate the building, so that the campus, as it exists to-day, will not have to be encroached upon. A most commendable idea. Certainly the attractive open space now devoted to lawn, shrubs and trees should be left intact if possible.

OUR SENIOR ALUMNI

Brown's eldest alumni are as follows. After each name appears the graduate's class and date of birth:

Augustus Osborn Bourn, Bristol, R. I., 1855, Oct. 1, 1834.

Rev. Lyman J. Batt, Concord Junction, Mass., 1855, Oct. 5, 1834.

Rev. Lyman Beecher Tefft, D. D., Oaklawn, R. I., 1858, July 15, 1833.

Dr. William Williams Keen, Philadelphia, Pa., 1859, Jan. 19, 1837.

Thomas Williams Bicknell, Providence, 1860, Sept. 6, 1834.

Francis Metcalf Pond, Providence, 1860, April 30, 1835.

Rev. Leander C. Manchester, Boston, Mass., 1860, Dec. 5, 1835.

Rev. James DeWolf Perry, D. D., Germantown, Pa., 1860, Dec. 22, 1838.

From this list it appears that the oldest graduate in actual years is Lyman Beecher Tefft '58, who will be 91 next month, while the oldest in point of graduation is Augustus Osborn Bourn '55, who will be 90 next October.

1924 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Oct. 4—Colby at Providence.

Oct. 11—University of Chicago at Chicago.

Oct. 18—Boston University at Providence.

Oct. 25—Yale at New Haven.

Nov. 1—Dartmouth at Hanover.
 Nov. 8—Haskell Indians at Providence.
 Nov. 15—Harvard at Cambridge.

Nov. 22—University of New Hampshire at Providence.
 Nov. 27—Colgate at Providence.

Brown Beats Yale and Harvard

BROWN 5, YALE 1

Brown won from Yale at Andrews Field, May 28, 5 to 1, thereby taking both games of the annual series.

Yale could do nothing against the superb pitching of Elmer Duggan, Brown's star left-handed pitcher, getting only three hits.

Captain Bill Mallory made two of these, one of them going deep into left field for a homer and Yale's only run.

In addition to holding the Yale batters to three hits, Duggan fanned sixteen batters, Charlie O'Hearn being the only member of the Yale team to escape. Duggan was in trouble only once during the game, in the eighth, when he passed Wear and Neale, the first two men up. But he worked out of this hole by striking out Hinchcliffe, Lindley and Ewing in succession. Only one Yale man except Mallory reached third base.

Brown found Ashburn for three hits, one a double by Dixon in the third inning, and these coupled with a base on balls and Neale's error in handling Ruckstull's drive to centre netted three runs. In the next inning with two down Murphy was walked, went to third when Mallory made a bad throw to get him off first base, and scored on Welch's single to centre. Ashburn, who started for Yale, pitched good ball for seven innings, except in the third, allowing only five hits. He was replaced by Scott in the eighth. Brown smacked Scott for three hits in a row and added the final run.

The fielding features of the game were furnished by O'Hearn with a beautiful one-hand catch of a liner off Hoffman's bat in the second inning, and fine catches by Neale and Wear and brilliant infield play by Ewing, Ruckstull and Murphy.

BROWN 4, HARVARD 1

At Andrews Field on Memorial Day, May 30, Brown outplayed Harvard and won without much trouble. The crowd, numbering 7000, was one of the largest ever seen at a baseball game at Brown. A strong northwest wind made the judging of flies difficult.

Harvard was able to reach Neubauer, Brown's right-handed pitcher, for but four hits, Campbell getting two of these.

Harvard threatened to score on three occasions but only came through on one, Hammond stealing home in the second inning for the Crimson's only run. It was a daring piece of base running and cleverly executed.

Brown nicked Spalding for eight hits in eight innings, but these hits were well scattered, most of Brown's runs coming as the results of the ragged playing of Harvard's infield behind Spalding. Earl Brown, who replaced Spalding in the box for Harvard in the eighth, was touched up for one single.

Cutler came through strongly with the bat, getting three of Brown's hits, while Ruckstull and Trumbower each connected for two safe drives. There were some bright lights in the fielding, each team making two double plays. Trumbower made a pair of brilliant catches and Ruckstull and Jenkins turned in some fine infield work.

BROWN 1, HARVARD 0

A most remarkable week in baseball came to an end on Saturday, May 31, when Brown blanked Harvard, winning her second victory in two days over the Crimson. The record for the season against Brown's principal baseball rivals was thus set at two victories over Harvard and two over Yale.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

After the first inning, in which Brown scored her only run, the contest developed into a pitchers' battle between Elmer Duggan, Brown's star hurler, and Earl Brown, Harvard's dusky twirler. Both men pitched exceptionally fine ball, Duggan a trifle outshining his opponent.

The Brown hurler, who on the previous Wednesday struck out 16 batters in the game with Yale, fanned 11 in the Harvard game and allowed only three scattering hits. Brown of Harvard struck out eight Brunonians and allowed six hits, three of them in the first inning.

The trio of singles in the initial frame was sufficient for Brown to put across the winning run. Ruckstull, the first man up, singled into right field, and Trumbower followed with another. Pitcher Brown tightened, and Dixon, the next man at the plate, could hit only a roller which was easily fielded by Hill, Harvard third baseman. Cutler, Brown shortstop, then singled to right, scoring Ruckstull.

With both pitchers at their best, the game offered little that was spectacular. Brown fielded cleanly throughout the game and Harvard was only a little behind. The attendance was the second largest of the year.

BROWN 0, PROVIDENCE 1

In one of the most remarkable college baseball games ever played anywhere, Providence College won from Brown at Andrews Field, June 7, 1 to 0 in twenty innings in the first of the annual series between the two local institutions of learning.

Elmer Duggan of Brown and Reynolds of Providence, the opposing pitchers, twirled the whole of this wonderful pitchers' battle. Duggan allowed only five hits and fanned twenty-nine batters. Reynolds, pitching his first big game, allowed eight hits and fanned eleven batters. Duggan passed five men and Reynolds six.

Reynolds was saved on at least five occasions by the marvelous fielding of Wholey in centre, who had nine put-outs, most of them of the sensational order, and by wonderful catches by Brickley and Beck. Trumbower of Brown prevented Providence from winning in the twelfth inning when he raced backward fifteen yards for Doyle's drive to centre and caught the ball with one hand. Beck of Providence performed a similar stunt in the eighteenth when he made a shoestring catch of a drive by Hoffman, which would have won the game.

Brown missed several possible chances to score by poor work on the bases. Reynolds took advantage of this and pitched extraordinary ball to get himself out of tight holes. Providence won the game in the twentieth with one man out. Doyle hit to Ruckstull of Brown, who made a mess of an easy roller. Creegan sacrificed and Doyle continued to third on a wild pitch by Duggan. Doyle was thus the first Providence man to reach third base during the twenty innings.

With this stage set, Beck rapped a single to centre that scored the only run. In Brown's half Ruckstull walked and went to second on Trumbower's sacrifice, but Dixon and Cutler were unable to produce the hit that would have tied the score. Out of Brown's eight hits Trumbower and Murphy each made three. For Providence Brickley made two of the five for his team.

BROWN 2, PROV. COLLEGE 1

At Andrews Field, June 14, Brown took her revenge for the defeat by Providence College a week earlier. One of the largest crowds ever seen at Andrews Field was in attendance. Elmer Duggan, the Brown pitcher, allowed only one hit, while Reynolds of Providence allowed three. Brown scored two runs in the fourth inning and Providence one in the sixth.

BROWN 6, DARTMOUTH 3

At Andrews Field on Commencement Day, June 18, Brown, with Duggan in the box, beat Dartmouth 6-3.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

BASEBALL RECORD

April 12—Brown 18, Conn. State 2.
 April 16—Brown 3, Clark Univ. 2.
 April 19—Brown 1, Princeton 5.
 April 23—Brown 4, Maine 1.
 April 25—Brown 4, Pennsylvania 1.
 April 26—Brown 6, Wesleyan 9.
 April 30—Brown 4, Springfield 3.
 May 3—Brown 4, Bates 1.
 May 7—Brown 1, Yale 0.
 May 14—Brown 4, N. Y. Univ. 5.
 May 17—Brown 3, Pennsylvania 6.
 May 21—Brown 3, Wesleyan 0.
 May 24—Brown 4, Dartmouth 5.
 May 28—Brown 5, Yale 1.
 May 30—Brown 4, Harvard 1.
 May 31—Brown 1, Harvard 0.
 June 7—Brown 0, Prov. College 1.
 June 14—Brown 2, Prov. College 1.
 June 18—Brown 6, Dartmouth 3.

BROWN-DARTMOUTH BASEBALL

Brown and Dartmouth have clashed on the diamond 45 times since 1866, and Brown leads in the series with 26 victories. Dartmouth has 18, one game being tied. Three games only have had to be cancelled on account of rain during the period of 57 years the rivals have been playing.

Dartmouth has the distinction of piling up the most runs in one game, tallying 33 times to Brown's three in 1889. We remember the occasion well; the game was played at Eagle Park, and shortly afterward Brown's connection with the inter-collegiate league was severed, the other colleges being too strong for us. Times have certainly changed since Trinity and Amherst ranked above us on the diamond. Brown inflicted a 31-4 defeat on the Green in 1896.

Up to 1900 Brown had 12 victories to the Green's 8. Since 1900 the record stands 13 for Brown and 9 for Dartmouth with one tie.

The record:

	B.	D.		B.	D.
1866	7	4	1902	6	4
1889	3	33		6	7
1891	14	7	1903	4	3
1893	3	2		4	0
1894	11	0	1905	4	3
	9	1	1906	7	2
	12	1		4	4
1895	5	3	1907	7	3
	2	3		11	1
	5	7	1916	4	5
1896	6	0		6	0
	31	4	1918	6	4
1897	11	6		1	5
	9	1		3	13
1898	5	6	1919	4	3
	7	2	1920	9	3
1899	8	12	1921	3	7
	7	8	1922	4	5
1900	5	7		4	9
	3	6	1923	3	7
1901	1	0		3	2
	5	0	1924	4	5
				6	3

A Quarter Century

(Sung at the alumni exercises, June 18, in Sayles Hall)

To W. H. P. F.

Words by Harry Lyman Koopman

We hail the noble son of Brown
 Who twenty years and five
 Has led her quest to first and best
 And fires her still to strive;
 Who keeps his trust, though empires fall,
 That ill shall end in good;
 Whose love would bind all human kind
 In ties of brotherhood.

His clarion voice Brunonians know,
 Our country wide has heard,
 And oft his call to duty all
 The tribes of men hath stirred.
 His thought discerns the Word revealed
 In book and stone and sky;
 His faith still leads through dark of creeds
 To light of God on high.

We lift our eyes to yonder walls
 And hail with fond acclaim
 The great of yore who onward bore
 Brunonia's cross of flame.
 To all and each our grateful hearts
 Unite in glad response;
 A memory bright to them we plight—
 Our fellowship to Faunce.

With the Clubs

NEW YORK

Brenton G. Smith '11 is the new President of the Brown Club of New York. "Brent" has long been one of the active members of the club and, under his direction, we are confident that it will go forward during the year at hand. With him these officers were also chosen: Vice President—Fred W. Murphy '99; Secretary—Walter R. Bullock '02; Treasurer—John G. Peterson '17; Board of Governors, term ending 1927—William R. Dorman '92, Alexander Graham '06, Willard S. Richardson '94 and Thomas C. Watson, Jr., '19. Harold O. Barker '11 and Arthur Wilkinson '17 were elected to fill two vacancies on the board.

Following the annual meeting, Dr. H. C. Bumpus gave a delightful talk. It was a treat to hear Dr. Bumpus once more and to have him as the guest of the club.

With the advent of summer, activities are slowing down, but the search by the expansion committee for larger and better quarters by next fall continues active.

BOSTON

Under the auspices of the Brown Club of Boston, there was a Brown Night at the "pops" at Symphony Hall, Boston, on June 2. It was the first time in ten years that such a night has been on the programme and, according to authentic report, it was a success. Invitations were mailed to Brown men in Rhode Island as well as in Massachusetts and the gathering was a representative one. At one of the intermission Brown songs were sung, the words being provided by the "pops" management. All of the tables on the floor were reserved for Brunonians and their friends. The music was furnished by 80 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the leadership of Agide Jacchia. The committee in charge was composed of Homer N. Sweet '07, president of the Brown Club of Boston, George S. Burgess '12, the alert secretary, and George Lincoln Parker, chairman of the "pops" nights.

WORCESTER

With President Faunce as its guest and speaker, the Worcester County Brown Club met at the home of Dr. Charles L. Nichols '72 on May 25 for its annual dinner and election of officers. Dr. Nichols acted the host in his delightful and friendly style, and President Faunce was at his best as he told the Brunonians about the plans for the new outdoor athletic development at the University. He also showed his versatility by playing the piano accompaniment to "Alma Mater," which was sung at the end of the meeting. (Perhaps some of the men present did not realize that in his undergraduate days Dr. Faunce helped pay his way through college by officiating as organist at one of the Providence churches.)

Not only did the President discuss the new amphitheatre and playground but he also gave an interesting summary of other matters, conditions and needs on the Hill having to do with the intellectual, spiritual and moral phases of Brown life. At the business meeting a nominating committee made up of Dr. Nichols and George A. Gaskill '96 proposed the following officers, who were elected for the year ahead: President—Benjamin E. Martin '94; Vice President—Albert W. Hinds '87; Secretary-Treasurer—George E. Marble 1900; Executive Committee—Judge Winfred H. Whiting '01, E. T. Willson, Jr., '16, George D. Church '99, Wiley H. Marble '12 and Samuel J. Beeber '08. Thus the Worcester Club starts afresh and we wish for it renewed vigor and interest in Brown and Brown affairs.

ROCHESTER

At its annual meeting at the Chamber of Commerce, June 4, the Brown Club of Rochester, N. Y., elected Theodore F. Peavear '02 as its President for 1924-25. On the board with Mr. Pevear the following will also serve: Vice President—Lawrence Gardner '11; Secretary—Edward W. Holmes '03; Treasurer—George E. Heberner '15; Executive Committee members—William K. White '07 and Dr. David H. Atwater '99.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

These Brunonians were present at the meeting: Dr. David H. Atwater '99, John B. Barbour '91, Edward I. Cristy '16, Professor Earl B. Cross '05, Alfred C. Hawkins '16, Edward W. Holmes '03, Dr. John R. Honiss '08, Theodore F. Pevear '02, Rev. Joseph C. Van Doren '96, William K. White '07 and Daniel S. Willson '81.

WORCESTER ALUMNAE

The Worcester County Brown Club for graduates of the Women's College of Brown University was organized in May at the home of Miss Anna L. Metcalf '97, 46 Elm street. Officers of the newly organized club hoped that all the alumnae would be included in the membership by June.

A visit to Worcester of Dean Margaret Morriss of the Women's College, resulted in the organization of the club.

The officers elected were: President—Mrs. Gardner Boyd '09, Barre; Vice President—Miss Metcalf; Treasurer and Recording Secretary—Miss Mary E. Kelley '20, Grafton; Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Stockwell '23, Worcester.

The membership committee includes Miss Martha J. Ryan '18, Worcester; Miss Sadie Duguid '16, Grafton; Miss Marion M. Farnham '15, Uxbridge, and Miss Eunice R. Simpson '22, Worcester.

Under the Elms

By Harold S. Litchfield '20

No hoary walled acropolis
Stirs in our hearts the thrill
Of this leaf vaulted temple on
Our own Brunonian Hill.
No mortal carved this stalwart grace
And wrought its verdant crown;
'Neath sylvan colonnades we sing
Of these grand elms of Brown.

Traditions of these noble elms
Ring through our songs of praise.
In memory we live again
Our own dear college days:—
High pulsing cheers of victory,—
Gay student pranks in town,—
Ambitions fired, and friendships formed
Beneath the elms of Brown.

And when, at last, cold winter winds
Strip off life's faded screen,
May lives of Brown men stand revealed
As stalwart, strong, serene,
As when, with graceful boughs laid bare,
Deciduous veil flung down,
Stand out in rugged symmetry
The grand old elms of Brown.

A Book by Professor Hunkins

To record that "Favorite French Poems," by Professor Charles H. Hunkins of the University faculty, was ordered immediately on publication by fourteen colleges is to indicate the interest in the book. Many of us have long known Professor Hunkins as a thorough-going, inspiring teacher of French. A few of us know him as a sincere admirer of the French people and a student of their language, their manners and their customs. For some years he has given especial attention to French poetry, believing, as he says in the preface to his book, that "poetry is an important part of French literature, yet little time is given to its study by our high schools and colleges." This slighting he attributes to "the lack of time and the difficulty of making American students understand and appreciate French poetry."

So Professor Hunkins has set out to acquaint students with some of the best-known poems in French. Report has it that he read many hundreds of poems in making his selections. He has ranged from Charles D'Orleans, who fought and fell prisoner to the English in the battle of Agincourt, 1415, to Paul Bourget and Edmond Rostand. He has chosen with a view to variety and interest; and there is not a dull poem in the collection. We suspect that some of the poems are Professor Hunkins's own favorites and, accordingly, the study of them is the more acute for us. The book has a clear-cut exposition of the fundamentals of French versification, an excellent vocabulary, brief sketches of the authors included, line drawings of some of the better-known poets, and helpful notes. Professor Hunkins has done his work well; we commend his book to all students of French, especially those outside the classroom. Henry Holt and Co. are the publishers.

Brunonians Far and Near

Faculty

Professor Clinton H. Currier is expected to reach home late this month from his sabbatic year in Europe.

F. J. W. Drury, assistant librarian, has been re-elected President of the Rhode Island Library Association.

"Jim was one of the most popular students in Brown when he was there," said Mr. Grinnell. "He was a member of the famous Freshman ball team of '72 and also of the University baseball club. . . . The mention of Jim Hendrick's name will bring up many pleasant memories to members of the classes '70, '71, '72, '73 and '74, if not of others."

1874

The temporary address of Alpheus H. Schoonover of Old Mystic, Conn., is 42 Churchill road, Bridgeport, Conn.

1875

At the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Chelsea, on May 27, Judge Albert D. Bosson delivered an address at the unveiling of a tablet on the historic Bellingham-Cary mansion on Parker st. The house was built in 1659 by Governor Richard Bellingham.

Alumni

1870

Professor John M. English, D. D., author of "For Pulpit and Platform," has just published another book entitled "The Minister and His Ministry."

1873

John B. Grinnell of Mystic, Conn., wrote us recently that he had learned with regret of the death of "Jim" Hendrick '72.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Published for the graduates of Brown University by the Brown Alumni Magazine Co.

Henry R. Palmer, Editor and President

Clinton H. Currier, Business Manager and Treasurer

Member of Alumni Magazines Associated.

Business Office, Brown University

Subscription, $1.00 a year. Single copies, 10 cents.

There is no issue during August and September.

Entered at the Providence post-office as second-class matter.

JULY, 1924

1876

After an illness that had made him an invalid for some years, Rev. Horace F. Brown died at his home in Kingston, Mass., April 27. He was born in Hopkinton, N. H., Aug. 20, 1850, the son of Langdon and Catharine Pierce Brown. He prepared for college at Colby Academy. After his ordination as a Baptist minister in 1879 he held pastorates in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, and came to this State to the Baptist Church in East Greenwich in 1893. He remained there three years, going to Phenix, where he served until 1906. His last active work as a minister was done in Meriden, N. H. He served for a term as President of the New Hampshire Conference of Baptist Ministers and was otherwise prominent in his denomination in that State. Rev. Mr. Brown was twice married, his first wife having been Jessie L. P. Wate and his second, Annie Stone Wate. His two sons, Horace T. Brown and Reginald L. Brown, who was a member of the class of 1903 at Brown, are dead. Mr. Brown belonged to the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

1877

Rev. Dryden W. Phelps was seventy years old, March 16, and addressed an adult Bible class that day in San Diego, Calif., taking as his subject St. Patrick. He has been a church member over sixty years. He preached, March 30, in Grace Baptist Church, San Diego.

1881

Arthur Bateman Corthell, who had a nation-wide reputation as a bridge builder and railroad terminal construction engineer, died at his home in New Boston, N. H., May 24. For the last 12 years Mr. Corthell had been chief engineer of the Boston and Maine railroad. In his long career he had done engineering work in all parts of the country. His major pieces of construction were the Sioux City, Ia., bridge and the present vehicular traffic bridge over the Thames river at New London, Conn. This last bridge, at the time of its building, had the longest draw in the United States. Mr. Corthell also was first assistant engineer in the construction of the Union Station, Providence, resident engineer on the South Station, Boston, and terminal engineer for the New York Central, with headquarters in New York. He had a direct part in the construction of the Grand Central terminal in the last-named city. Mr. Corthell was born in Whitman, Mass., July 3, 1860, the son of James H. and Charlotte (Almy) Corthell. He was a member of Chi Phi in college. He belonged to many engineering societies and was one of the really big men in his field in this country. He was married, Sept. 26, 1882, to Lena Cynthia Foster, who survives him, together with two sons and a daughter. Mr. Corthell was a cousin of Elmer L. Corthell '67 and J. Roland Corthell '73.

Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes is the new President of the American Society of International Law. Last month he received the degree of LL. D. from both Princeton and Amherst.

1882

Professor Walter Ballou Jacobs had an article, "The Status of the New England High School Principal," in a recent number of the School Review, published by the University of Chicago. Professor Jacobs also had a vivid pen picture of this same

Announcing the Brown Tennis Racket

A SUPER-FINE PRODUCTION OF THE NARRAGANSETT MACHINE
CO., PROVIDENCE, R. I., THE PIONEER TENNIS RACKET
MAKERS OF AMERICA, WITH 44 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE.

The Brown Alumni Monthly takes pleasure in offering this beautiful new racket to the public.

Nothing has been omitted to make it a distinctly quality product in every respect. The design has been studied carefully from the points of view of strength, durability and attractiveness. Those who have seen and handled this racket pronounce it the most beautiful piece of racket craft on the market. The particular features are the new pointed oval bow of half-oval section, made up of an outer and inner piece of extra selected second growth ash, with a center strip of black walnut. The manufacturers say: "All the supreme elements of strength and life that are inherent in the 'Live-Wood' process of manufacture obtain in this construction and insure beyond question the strongest and fastest racket possible." The strength is further increased by a throat reinforced with ash and shoulders reinforced with black walnut strips which continue downward forming the sides of the four piece black walnut deeply corrugated handle. The stringing is of the very best quality split lamb's gut, and the trimming is done in brown and white with two rows of spacer gut to lock the vertical strings in place.

Handle 5 1-4, straight. Balance 54—56.
Weight 13 1-2—15. Price each, $15.00.

A wonderful gift for your son in Brown or intending to enter. A racket bearing the college name, finished in the college colors and first-class in all particulars.

Sent postpaid to any part of the United States.

Brown Alumni Magazine Co.,

Box 72,

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

high school principal in the Boston Transcript not long ago.

Dr. O. C. B. Nason tells us that he is now living at 148 Berkshire st., East Cambridge, Mass., having moved there recently from Sharon, Mass.

1887

Joseph Walker's daughter, Miss Evelyn Walker, was married at the home of her parents, 108 Upland road, Brookline, Mass., May 31, to John MacDuffie, 2nd, of New York and the Harvard class of 1923. Mr. Walker gave his daughter in marriage.

1889

Dean Vernon P. Squires of the College of Liberal Arts, University of Dakota, writes: "I wish that I might have been there to join in the festivities at the big dinner to Dr. Faunce you had ten days ago. I am sure you had a memorable time. I am not going to be able to get back to my class reunion this year either. It comes just at the time of the beginning of our summer session, when it seems imperative that I be on deck here to help start things off. I suppose that almost anyone could do the job as well, but after all it is my job, and I am supposed to be here. . . . I have two boys in the University now and my daughter Emily will also be there next year. My oldest son, Duane, passed through Providence about a week ago. He earned a trip to Washington by writing a prize essay for our Senator Ladd. The Senator gave him a wonderful time in Washington and Duane made a detour to Boston to visit his cousins. But with examinations coming on he had to hasten home. I should certainly like to send one of my youngsters to old Brown, but the family income hardly allows that luxury when there is another university at our very door."

1891

When Professor Courtney Langdon returns from Italy he expects to lecture on the subject of Fascism, according to a letter received recently by President Faunce. The subject, he wrote from Rome, "is as yet, I fear, little understood in America." Professor Langdon added that as soon as he had seen and thanked Premier Mussolini and King Emmanuel for the honor conferred upon him, he and Mrs. Langdon were "going to Florence, where I shall see all I can of Signor Ferrero whose writings I have been studying." The honor he refers to is the degree of the Commander of the Crown of Italy, one of the highest in the gift of the kingdom. It was bestowed upon Professor Langdon in recognition of his translation of the Divine Comedy of Dante and of his work in creating interest in Italian culture in this country. In honoring him the King made it plain that he also wanted to honor the University.

Professor Albert Bushnell Johnson has returned from his sabbatic year, which he and Mrs. Johnson spent in South America, and is at his farm home in Rehoboth, Mass., for the summer. Under the heading "A New England Couple in Brazil," the New Bedford Sunday Standard of June 1 had an excellent story of Professor and Mrs. Johnson's South American visit.

1892

Marshall S. Brown, Dean of the Faculties of New York University, was appointed a Commissioner from the Westchester Presbytery to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church meeting at Grand Rapids on May 22nd. Dean Brown, who has been Dean of the Faculties since 1918, has been serving during the present academic year as chairman of the Committee on Administration, which has administered the affairs of the University during the six months leave of absence of the Chancellor of the University. Dean Brown has a son at Brown University, class of '25.

1893

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn was elected to honorary membership in the class of 1924 at the last senior chapel at Amherst on May 29.

1896

Gardner K. Hudson is attending the international bar convention in London this month and will visit the continent with Mrs. Hudson and his son, Gardner C. Hudson '27, before returning home the last of August.

1897

Byron S. Watson, in addition to his other varied interests, is now a director of the Industrial Trust Co. of Providence, having been elected to the board at a meeting held May 27.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has given $1,000,000 for reconstruction of the roof of the cathedral of Rheims, repairs to the famous fountains in the park at Versailles and the reconditioning of the palace and grounds of Fontainebleau, where Napoleon lived. Commenting on this thoughtful gift, the New York Evening Post said editorially: "Mr. Rockefeller specifically states that he was led to make it not only by his admiration for the marvels of French art but also by his admiration for French courage. It thus constitutes one more recognition of the superhuman effort put forth by France in the war. As such it should strengthen the ties between the two republics. . . . It is distinctly pleasing that Mr. Rockefeller has expressed in so gracious a way the gratitude that Americans feel toward the French Government and the French people."

James H. Arthur and Mrs. Arthur have changed their address to 197 Bowen st., Providence.

1899

Clarence S. Brigham, librarian of the American Antiquarian Society, Worcester, Mass., has aided William Beer of the Howard Memorial Library, New Orleans, in compiling a "Checklist of American Periodicals." The Checklist, which makes a pamphlet of 18 pages, "attempts to give the titles of all magazines and periodicals published in the United States during the 18th century, or from 1741 to 1800, inclusive." Mr. Beer in the introduction says that Benjamin Franklin's "The General Magazine," was the first published, being issued a month earlier than Andrew Bradford's "The American Magazine" in 1741. The Boston Transcript calls the Checklist "a valuable contribution to American bibliography."

1900

Professor Charles W. Brown and Mrs. Brown sailed, June 20, on the Scythia from Boston to travel in England and France. Professor Brown intends also to visit Wales to do some geological research.

Clinton C. White, chairman of the Amphitheatre committee that carried so successfully to conclusion the campaign to raise $500,000 for the University's new outdoor athletic equipment, was the guest of his fellow members of the committee at a dinner at the University Club, Providence, June 3. Earl Medbery '14 engineered the affair, and Earl did it neatly. Mr. White was taken wholly by surprise. And, to put it mildly, he was flabbergasted when Tom Appleget '17, on behalf of the committee, presented him with a model of the proposed football stadium done in sterling silver and mounted on a mahogany base. The stadium, the football field and the straightaway running track are of silver. The yard lines, sidelines and other markings are in white enamel against an oxidized silver background. The model, made entirely by hand under the supervision of Alfred B. Lemon '13 at the factory of the E. L. Logee Co., of Providence, consists of 63 separate parts and is a genuinely beautiful piece of work. On the base is the seal of Brown, enamelled in brown and white. Beneath the seal is this inscription, which tells tersely the story of Mr. White's splendid effort: "Presented by his committee associates to Clinton C. White, whose inspiring leadership, untiring energy and personal magnetism carried the Brown amphitheatre campaign to success."

1901

Rev. Floyd L. Carr is doing missionary education work in connection with the Associated Baptists of the North and is living at 606 Hope st., Providence.

Bob Steere gets his letters at 66 Leonard st., New York city. He is a member of the firm of Chace, Steere & Co., commission merchants of textiles.

Lieutenant-Colonel G. A. Taylor, F. A., U. S. A., is located at headquarters of the First Coast Artillery district in Boston for the present.

W. H. Hull has forsaken the wilds of Riverside and is now located at 266 Gano st., Providence.

Howard Coffin is at present connected with the Cadillac Motor Co., Detroit, Mich.

Charles E. Bryant's daughter, Miss Margaret Bryant, was a member of the graduating class at Mt. Holyoke College last month. Miss Bryant wore at her graduation the same academic gown worn by her father when he was graduated. It is also of interest to note that President Faunce preached the baccalaureate sermon in each instance.

Jesse Melendy, who was injured by a fall with an ore car at Denver early in March, is now able to leave the hospital on crutches. His address is 1441 Logan st., Denver, Colorado.

1902

Richard W. Comstock, Jr., well known in Providence club circles, died suddenly at the Jane Brown Memorial Hospital, Providence, May 25. Mr. Comstock had not been in good health for some time and had undergone an operation shortly before he died. He was the son of Richard W. and Cornelia B. Comstock and was born in Providence, Dec. 25, 1880. He left college in his Freshman year to enter the employ of the Rhode Island Perkins Horse-shoe Co. He was assistant superintendent of the company when he resigned to join the R. W. Comstock Land Company, of which he was president at the time of his death. He was a member of Psi Upsilon, and of the Hope, Agawam and Squantum clubs. He was also a Mason and Knight Templar. Mr. Comstock was married in 1905 to Mabel B. Field who survives him, together with a brother, William P. Comstock '99, and a sister, Mrs. Clarence S. Brigham, of Worcester, Mass.

Rev. Morris E. Alling, executive secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Churches, has been appointed annual lecturer in international comity at the Hartford Theological Seminary and will assume his duties at the next term of the seminary in September. Mr. Alling was born in Northfield, Mass., in 1877. He was graduated from the Mt. Hermon School and from Brown University, class of 1902. He attended Yale Divinity School, where he was superintendent of Yale Missions, and was ordained in 1903. For about six years

BLACKSTONE CANAL NATIONAL BANK

20 Market Square

Capital Stock $500,000
Surplus and
Undivided Profits over $800,000

ALBERT R. PLANT, President
JOHN B. BRANCH, Vice President
CHARLES P. BROWN, Cashier

DIRECTORS

Herbert F. Hinckley	John B. Branch
Edwin M. Dodd	Albert R. Plant
C. Moulton Stone	William A. Viall
Chas. H. Merriman, Jr.	Fletcher H. Mason
Frank O. Field	Henry S. Chafee

he was principal of Rogers Academy, Rogers, Ark., under the Congregational Education Society and was also pastor of the Congregational Church in Rogers. In 1912 he accepted the pastorate of the Fountain Park Congregational Church of St. Louis, Mo. Ten years ago he became pastor of the Rocky Hill Congregational Church, to leave in 1919 to become executive secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Churches. He married Miss Jane Cooke of Providence in 1903.

1903

Joshua Henry Jones, Jr., is the author of a novel, "By Sanction of Law," which is published by the B. J. Brimmer Co., Boston, and which is described as "a narrative of racial conflict and co-operation."

1904

Arthur L. Young is now supervising the schools of Ellington, Somers and Tolland for the Connecticut State Board of Education. His address is Ellington, Conn.

Charles W. Hunt has been elected dean of the School of Education at Cleveland and will begin his work there September 1st. The School of Education has a Junior College which is a Normal School and a Senior College which grants a degree through the Western Reserve University. Mr. Hunt has been Director of Extramural Instruction at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. James Murray Gallison of 17 Cotswold road, Brookline, Mass., a surgeon at the New England Deaconess hospital, Boston, was fatally injured when he fell down a short flight of stairs on June 14th at the Atlantic House, Narragansett Pier, where he was attending the 20th reunion of the class of 1904 at Brown University. He died an hour and a half later of a fractured skull. A number of doctors who were also members of the class saw the accident and rushed to the assistance of Dr. Gallison, but were unable to save his life. An ambulance called from the Rhode Island hospital arrived after death came. Dr. F. Edward Burke, medical examiner for Narragansett Pier, pronounced death due to accident and gave permission for the removal of the body.

1905

A. W. Ingalls is practicing law in Lynn,

An Opportunity

WE want to open negotiations with a few men now employed but looking for the opportunities for personal development and increased earnings offered by a dignified selling connection. The kind of man we want is at least twenty-eight years of age and has been out of college four or five years. He has had some selling experience or feels that, with the right training and cooperation, he can develop selling ability. He must be willing to work hard and enthusiastically. He will have an opportunity to earn at least $5,000 the first year and to broaden his contact with business men.

You need not necessarily be desirous of making an immediate change. We want to get thoroly acquainted with you and your qualifications, give you full information concerning our work, and arrange for a personal interview before concluding final arrangements. Our idea is to have you available to take over a vacancy when it occurs on thirty days' notice to your present organization. Write fully to

Alexander Hamilton Institute
13 Astor Place New York, N. Y.

—a strong bank
—a progressive bank
—a friendly bank

MECHANICS NATIONAL BANK

34 DORRANCE STREET,
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

Mass. He was in the City Council in 1921-22 and is now serving as Representative to the Massachusetts General Court.

Howard Heyden's New York address is 228 W. 11th st. He has recently returned from a trip to South America.

Charles H. Seddon is the proud possessor of the pen with which President Coolidge signed the hospitalization bill for World War veterans on the White House lawn at Washington last month. The President gave it to Charlie, who was sitting near by as Mr. Coolidge put his name to the bill. Charlie has been at Walter Reed Hospital for some time to receive treatment for a spinal trouble resulting from injuries sustained while he was in France as a sergeant, first-class, with the 104th Ambulance Company.

1905 special

Hans Schneider, director of the Hans Schneider Piano School, has recently lectured before the "Clubs of Practical Psychology" in Providence, Fall River and New Bedford. His subject was "Memory and its relations to every-day life."

1906

Will R. Hersey wrote from Knollways, South Harwich, Mass., just before Commencement that he was hoping "some day to get to an '06 reunion. This year, however, it is still a hope deferred." He noted that Leonard (Jed) Prouty "is thriving down there in Charleston, S. C., at the Porter Military Academy."

Everett H. Swett writes us that he has changed his address from Lowell, Mass., to 11 Hall ave., Nashua, N. H.

1907

Fred Auty is now advertising manager of the Drying Systems, Inc., with his headquarters at 11 South Desplaines st., Chicago.

A Chester Snow and Mrs. Snow are now living at 156 George st., Providence, having changed their residence from 19 Arling-ton ave.

1908

Bob Nason reports that he is with the Scott Publishing Co., 45 W. 45th st., New York, and that he is living at the Hotel St. James, Times square. He adds: "With best wishes for everything and everybody on the Hill.'

The address of Haven A. Cobb, formerly Unsaukinki, Korea, Asia, is 21 Pacific ave., Piedmont, Calif.

1909

John W. M. Bunker has been appointed associate professor of biochemistry and physiology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, beginning next academic year.

George W. Babcock is a practicing attorney in Hackensack, N. J., a member of the firm of McKay and McKay. He has sent a large number of boys from his vicinity to Brown.

Harold B. Tanner headed the corps of ushers who served at President Faunce's reception at the Faculty Club, Commencement evening, June 18. Other '09 men who ushered were John H. Wells and Henry S. Chafee.

Hovhannes Zovickian is now with Stone and Webster, 147 Milk st., Boston.

The 15th Reunion was held at Gardiner Inn, Jamestown, from Saturday noon until Wednesday morning under the able leadership of Herb. Sherwood with his committee of Wells, Whitmarsh, Tanner and Littlefield. The reunion was voted the best of all our fifteen occasions. Over 75 were present for all or some part of the party, as follows: Alger, Babcock, Geo. W., Babcock, Harold P., Barrett, Bennett, R. K., Beytes, Brown, Harold P., Budlong, Buffum, Burgess, Buss, Butterworth, Campbell, Chafee, Chambers, Champlin, Chase, Newt., Chace, Mant., Church, Clark, Connell, Connolly, Cook, Crossley, Curtis, Dodge, Everett, Goodwin, Gorman, Greene, Hagar, Hardy, Harkness, Havens, Henderson, High, Hollen, Hughes, Huxford, Jackson, D., King, Kirley, Leach, Littlefield, Manter, McCarthy, McCoy, L., Meader, Miller, Mitchell, W. E. B., Nash, Nourse, Patterson, Paul, Payne, Poland, Price, Richmond, Seabury, Sherwood, Smith, E. R., Smith, Harry F., Stone, Strickler, Sykes, Tanner, Tinkham, Turner, Ward, Wells, Wheeler, Whipple, Whitmarsh, Willemine, Wilmot and Winsor.

Professor Robert W. Burgess has a leave of absence from Brown University through the coming academic year. He plans to do some special statistical work for the Western Electric Company in New York and will live at 22 E. 38th st.

Don Stone was awarded a Class Cup at the reunion for having travelled farther than any other to attend the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Bosworth of Blackamore ave., Eden Park, announce the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Bosworth, May 24, 1924.

Harold B. Tanner has given his services to the special committee of the Rhode Island Bankers Association to make legal arrangements for the proposed loan of the banks to the employees of the State of Rhode Island of their wages which have been unprovided for because of the blockade of business in the State Senate.

1910

Frederic L. Trover, who has been teaching most of the time since he left college, has passed the bar examinations in Ohio and expects to practice law. Trover received his law degree a year ago from the John Marshall Law School, Cleveland, which is affiliated with Ohio Northern University.

Harry L. Oldfield's address is 63 East Second st., New York city. Harry graduated from the Union Theological Seminary in 1913. While attending the seminary he also acted as assistant pastor of the Olivet Church, where he has remained as pastor since his graduation. The church is located at 63 East Second st., New York. Harry also took his M. A. at Columbia in 1913. He has two daughters, Ruth Adele, aged 8, and Louise May, aged 2. He writes that he will be present, if possible, at the fifteenth reunion, and wants to do "just what the other fellows do."

Winfield Wardwell Greene's address is 675 Prospect st., Maplewood, New Jersey. Win has stuck to insurance work since he left Brown. From 1910 to 1913 he was in the actuary department of the New York Life Insurance Company. In 1913-14 he was with the New York State Insurance Department; in 1914-15, assistant actuary, New York Workmen's Compensation Commission; 1915-17, manager of the Colorado State Compensation Insurance Fund; 1917-20, manager of the Compensation Rating and Insurance Bureau of Lasting Satisfaction is felt by those who have a savings account and keep it.

They know their money is safe in the bank—they know it is not idle—it is drawing interest regularly, and it is theirs when needed.

Isn't it the wise thing for you to have a savings account?

National Exchange Bank

63 Westminster Street
Providence, R. I.

The Best T O N I C

Horsford's Acid Phosphate is especially recommended for the restoration of energy and vitality, the relief of mental and nervous exhaustion, impaired digestion or appetite.

HORSFORD'S Acid Phosphate

(Non-Alcoholic)

Is a scientific and carefully prepared preparation of the phosphates, and has been found a most valuable general Tonic.

A teaspoonful added to a glass of cold water, with sugar, makes a delicious and wholesome beverage.

If your druggist can't supply you, send 25 cents to Rumford Chemical Works, Providence, R. I., for trial size bottle, postage paid.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

New Jersey; 1920-22, underwriter, Employers' Mutual Insurance Company of New York; 1922-23, consulting actuary; he is now actuary for the National Convention on Compensation Insurance. Win has one son, Winfield Curt Greene, 4½ years.

Clifton H. Walcott's address is 18 Glen road, Winchester, Mass. During his attendance at the Newton Theological Institution, Cliff was pastor of the Ashland, Mass., Baptist Church. From 1913 to 1920 he was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sharon, Mass., and since that time has been pastor of the First Baptist Church, Winchester, Mass. His children are Jane Walcott, 6 years, and David Knights Walcott, 2 years.

1911

John McGill Montz has recently been promoted to the rank of assistant professor in civil engineering at Ohio State University.

Earle B. Arnold has been admitted to practice before the United States District Court in Providence. Mr. Arnold was introduced to the court by District Attorney Norman S. Case '08.

1912

Fred C. Perry of the city staff of the Providence Evening Bulletin is represented in the new volume, "The Best News Stories of 1923," edited by Joseph Anthony and published by Small, Maynard Co., of Boston. Fred's story is called "Etta May." It was one of several articles prepared for the Bulletin on juvenile delinquency in Rhode Island—one of the best-written series, in this writer's opinion, ever to appear in any New England newspaper. Our hat went off to Fred at the time, and we doff it again on this occasion.

Henry G. (Heinie) Marsh was the active spirit in charge of the annual reunion of the 301st Engineers held in Hartford, Conn., on June 21. Heinie reports a great time with the boys talking over the "sprudelung" days at Brohl-am-Rhein, Germany, where the regiment was stationed for several months after the armistice.

Lieutenant Ernest S. Baker, U. S. A., is

A Good Morning Cup—

rich brown, fragrant
and mellow, free
from bitterness, and
with a delicate flavor all its own—that's

AUTOCRAT COFFEE

Sold everywhere: In Cities—in the Mountains—By the Seashore.

BROWNELL & FIELD CO.
Providence, R. I.

A valuable coupon in each can.
Write for premium list.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

now on duty at Camp Alfred Vail, New Jersey, and his home address is 12 Georgia road, Morristown, N. J. Lieut. Barker has a son, Ernest S. Barker, Jr., who, we are sure, is headed for Brown.

1913

Norman S. Taber, who has been acting as dean of the School of Commerce and Finance, Northeastern University, Providence, presented the diplomas to the seventeen graduates of the school at the exercises held June 11.

1914

David C. Adelman was elected Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Rhode Island at the 52nd annual convention of the grand lodge held in Providence in May.

Reggie Nash, coach of the Milton Academy baseball team, received the baseball M in recognition of his work at a meeting of the school's athletic council following the last game of the 1924 season.

1915

Cecil M. P. Cross, at present American consul at Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, has received the degree of Ph. D. in history from the University of Chicago, the degree being granted in absentia.

Paul Kingsley has left Architecture, one of the Scribner magazines, we hear, and is now with the Curtis Publishing Co. in its New York office in the Canadian bldg., Madison ave. and 45th st.

1917

Anthony Caputi has deserted the effete Middle West and is now getting his mail, he writes us, at 8 Roslyn st., Salem, Mass.

1918

Charles H. Eden was admitted to practice before the United States District Court in Providence last month. Eden has his law office in the Union Trust bldg., Providence.

Ronald M. Kimball writes that he would like to have any and all communications addressed to 2457 Pioneer road, Evanston, Ill. There you are, Ronald!

Burton Harrington, secretary-treasurer of the Brown Club of Chicago and editor of Poster in his spare moments, made his looked-for visit to the campus last month on his way home from Montreal, and he and the Alumni Manager had a lively hour together, discussing ways of stirring more interest among Brown men in Brown and Brown affairs. Burt is doing a fine work for Alma Mater out in his adopted city.

1919

Claude B. Davidson is one of the incorporators and directors of the Daylight Saving Association of Massachusetts, which has for its object the promotion of daylight saving in that State.

1920

Nineteen-twenty responded to a hasty summons on May 22nd and crowded joyfully into the comfortable and commodious kitchen (this was to make the married members feel at home) of Greene's Coffee House on College Hill. There amid the harmonized fragrance of cake and toasting cheese and the popping of ginger ale bottles (for the prowess of 1920 even under

Winship Teachers' Agency

Send for blank.

6 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

ALVIN F. PEASE

Brown Graduate, A. B. & A. M.

Starkweather & Shepley

Incorporated

George L. Shepley, President

INSURANCE

Of Every Description

Fidelity and Surety Bonds

17 Custom House Street

Providence, R. I.

New York Office, 55 John Street

Chicago Office, 175 W. Jackson Boulevard

Boston Office, 43 Kilby Street

Paris, France, Office, 20 Rue Chauchat

extra dry conditions has been always admitted ever since that first Big Fight Day back in the Fall of 1916) the roof above was lifted and the ceiling below splintered in strict alternation for a crowded three hours or so, while plans for the bigger and better future were discussed. Sure, you've guessed it. The big feature was when Chairman Bill Dewart confessed the place and time of the annual banquet when the opening mine for next year's big Five Year

Reunion is to be exploded. Among those who joined in the Hallelujah Chorus which followed this announcement besides the chief cheer-leader were: Dick Sarle, Johnny McGhee, Ernest Jenckes, Herb Barlow, Stan Dore, Jimmy Dealey, H. C. Sweet, Stan Whipple, Jimmy Sinclair, W. L. Dedrick, Mike Schoeneweiss and S. B. Gifford. This year's big time was held at the Wannamoisett on Tuesday, June 17.

George H. Rhodes was married on May 28th to Miss Rena Gladys Macomber at Boston. George Carr was best man, while Herb Barlow helped ush. George, who is one of the country's leading chemists potentially, and family, will live in Elizabeth, N. J.

1921

Jimmy Edmonds is editor and publisher of a new literary magazine, Phantasmus, which carried in its first number last month an instalment of Sherwood Anderson's autobiography, "A Story Teller's Story." Here's success to Brown's youngest editor!

1922

Ray Rich continues to be the champion traveller of the class. Ray is now on his way to China by way of Japan to begin his duties as teacher of history and sociology in Canton Christian College for the academic year 1924-25.

R. B. MacDougall is coming back to the campus next fall as an instructor in English. He tells us that he'd like nothing better than to try his hand at special writing for a good newspaper.

In memory of Lawrence E. Chapman, who was drowned in Narragansett Bay, July 4, 1920, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapman, of Edgewood, R. I., have established an award whereby two silver medals will be given annually to the boy and girl in the public schools of Camden, Me., who stand highest in the practical study of sight-reading. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman have had their summer home at Camden for many years and Lawrence was popular in the community. The awards were made for the first time last month.

1923

Arthur McKenny has finished his first year at the Yale Divinity School and is studying this summer as well as supplying

The Merchants National Bank

Providence, R. I.
20 Westminster Street

o

Capital,	$1,000,000
Surplus Earnings,	$1,500,000

o

ROBERT W. TAFT, President
CHARLES H. NEWELL, Vice President
MOSES J. BARBER, Vice President
FRANK A. GREENE, Cashier
WILLARD I. ANGELL, Asst. Cashier

DIRECTORS

George M. Smith	Moses J. Barber
Robert W. Taft	Frank E. Richmond
Charles H. Newell	Edward P. Jastram
William B. McBee	A. Livingston Kelley
Everett L. Spencer	Wilson G. Wing

Interest allowed on Current Accounts

DRUGS

Chemicals and Medicines

Electric Batteries
Invalid Roller Chairs
Prescriptions a Specialty

GEO. L. CLAFLIN CO.

62 to 64 South Main Street,
Providence, R. I.

the pulpit of the Baptist Church in Ardena, N. J.

Chet Worthington has been awarded one of the two faculty scholarships offered at the School of Journalism, New York, for the year 1924-25. Chet, they say, made a fine record at the school this past academic year.

Elmer Joslyn spent several weeks at the Rhode Island Hospital in June after undergoing an operation to relieve a condition that resulted from an injury received while "Jos" was playing basketball in college.

Bob Spellman has come back to Providence to sell bonds for Baker, Young and Co., and has his headquarters at 821 Hospital Trust bldg.

Alumnae

1911

Dr. Eva W. Magoon of Providence, business manager of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialists' Association of the osteopathic profession, attended the eighth annual convention in Kirksville, Mo., and led in the singing of an original song at the opening of the convention.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sampson have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marian E. Sampson '22, Women's College, to Grant H. Potter.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Ruth Adams Small to Nathaniel B. Chase '23. Miss Small is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William I. Small of Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Borden have announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen L., to Stanley P. Whipple. Miss Borden is a member of the class of 1922 at the Women's College. Stan confesses that the date has been set for next September.

Robert A. Bogle's engagement to Miss Margaret Conkling of Newton has just been announced.

Preston & Rounds Co.

No. 98 Westminster Street

Providence, R. I.

Booksellers

Stationers

The Corlew Teachers' Agency

GRACE M. ABBOTT

Manager

120 Boylston Street

Boston

Providence Coal Co.

Anthracite and Bituminous

COAL

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Central Office, Corner Custom House
and Weybosset Street. Yard, Corner of Dorrance and Dyer Sts.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

WEDDINGS

Frederick N. Beede '23 and Miss Mar-

BROWN DIRECTORY

ARTHUR H. BLANCHARD

Consulting Highway and Transport
Engineer

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Abbott '80

Edwards '96

ABBOTT, FAUNTLEROY, CULLEN &
EDWARDS

Attorneys at Law

Suite 315, Commercial Building

214 North Sixth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Abbott '15

MENDELL W. CRANE

Attorney at Law

312 Howard Building, 171 Westminster st.,
Providence

PERRY and SAUNDERS

Counsellors at Law

185 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.
Joseph Earl Perry, Williams; Albert L.
Saunders, Brown 1902

CRAHAN

ENGRAVING COMPANY.

DESIGNING

CATALOGUE

PHOTO

ENGRAVING

ILLUSTRATIONS

50 Exchange Place

Providence

BLANDING'S

Prescription Department

For over half a century has set a standard for reliability that makes it the logical place at which to have your prescriptions compounded. Prices consistent with the high quality of drugs used.

BLANDING & BLANDING

58 Weybosset Street

jorie I. Brice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Brice, were married, June 21, in the Central Congregational Church, Providence.

Francis L. Simons '18 and Miss Dorothy S. Holt '20, Women's College, were married in St. Paul's Church, Pawtucket, R. I., June 24. Mrs. Simons is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Brooks of Pawtucket.

Miss Frances Easton, daughter of Frank T. Easton '92 and Mrs. Easton, was married to Albert S. Tufts in Grace Church, Providence, on June 25.

Miss Edith May Tanner, daughter of Judge Willard B. Tanner '79 and Mrs. Tanner, and J. Wilbur Riker were married at the Tanner home on Blackstone boulevard, Providence, on June 14.

BIRTHS

1899—To Mr. and Mrs. Raymer B. Weeden of Providence, a son, William Balch Weeden, on May 23.

1909—To Mr. and Mrs. Clarence V. Bosworth of Eden Park, R. I., a daughter, Elizabeth, on May 24.

1911—To Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Palmer, a son, Arthur Palmer, Jr., Brown 1945, on April 23, 1924.

1912—To Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Tanner, a daughter, Jean McKay Tanner, on June 4.

1914—To Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Knowles of New Rochelle, N. Y., a son, Chester L. Knowles, Jr., on May 30. Mrs. Knowles was Marjorie Webster '20, Women's College.

1916—To Professor and Mrs. Earl F. Wood of Providence, a son, Douglas Finch Wood, on June 10.

1919—To Mr. and Mrs. Pierre E. Teets, a son, Pierre Everett Teets, Jr., on Feb. 20, 1924.

1920—To Dr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Stanton, a son, Nelson Evans Stanton, on May 21.

1920—To Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Whipple, a son, Richard W. Whipple, on May 5.

1922—To Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Bonoff, a son, on May 10, 1924.

BODELL & CO.

Investment Securities

10 Weybosset Street
PROVIDENCE

115 BROADWAY
NEW YORK

35 CONGRESS STREET
BOSTON

BESIDES selling Men's Handkerchiefs, Hose, Gloves, Shirtings, Jewelry and Leather Goods, this store also offers large comfortable Chairs, Smoking Stands, Humidors, Desk Lamps and the like, for men.

Come in sometime and just look there over.

Gladding's

Brown Headquarters
in New York

HOTEL BRISTOL
129 West 48th ST.

JUST EAST OF BROADWAY

400 Rooms 300 Baths

Convenient to

THEATRES, SHOPS, SUBWAYS

European Plan

Most Popular Restaurant in New York

J. Elliott Johnson

'08

President

