ASHBAUGH CAPTAIN.

Brilliant End Elected Leader of Football Team at Meeting of "B" Men Yesterday.

Russell G. Ashbaugh '13, was elected captain of the 1912 football team at a meeting yesterday afternoon of the football "B" men. Ashbaugh has played three years at end on the Varsity. He has been conspicuous for his great defensive work, fine tackling, and remarkable ability in handling the forward passes.

This year the Boston Journal, the Boston Globe, and the New York Tribune have given him the All-Eastern end position, while Walter Camp has placed him on his third All-American team. Last year, Camp listed him in the "honorable mention" list.

Ashbaugh prepared for Brown at Rayea High School, Youngstown, O. There he played football for four years, being captain in 1907.

Ashbaugh is 22 years old, 5 feet 9½ inches tall, and weighs 185 pounds. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He has figured prominently in class basketball for the last two years. He served on the Sophomore Ball Committee last year, and is now a member of the Union Trophies Committee.

REVIEW OF 1911 FOOTBALL SEASON

WORK OF SEASON IN DETAIL.

From Early Season Darkness Brown's Hopes Come to Climax in Pennsylvania Victory.—Harvard and Yale at Top Form Administer Defeats.—Season Ends with Defeat by Carlisle—But Hopes of Next Season Are Bright.

With the election of the new football captain, the team of the season of 1911 passes into history. While there is some dissatisfaction as to the results of the year's play there are certainly some bright spots. The team defeated Pennsylvania for the first time since 1902. They scored against Harvard team by straight football, a trick that only one other team turned during the season, the Carlisle Indians playing against a substitute team. The team was always feared by its opponents and met them as is generally conceded when they had been forced up to their top form.

The outlook for a good team at the beginning of the season was decidedly dark. In Captain McKay Brown lost one of the best football leaders that she ever had. Gaping holes were left in the line and backfield by the graduation of members of the class of 1911. The early season work promised well, however. New Hampshire was defeated 56-0. Tenney and Mitchell at once proved themselves of Varsity calibre. The presence of Gelb on the field after two years of ineligibility was a further encouragement. Jones made good at once in hard line, plunging and consistent defense work. The veterans of the year before were in better form than ever. In this and the two following games the team seemed to be developing early something of the same shifty attack that defeated Yale last year.

The successful use of the forward pass and perfect handling of the ball on a slippery field kept Penn always on the defensive and won for Brown a 6-0 victory. Brown rooters went wild and the week before the Harvard game little was thought of besides the possibility of a victory over Harvard. Boston papers conceded Brown's best chances for a victory over the Crimson.

Then came the great disappointment. From the first few minutes of play it was evident that the Brown team had met a more powerful team. Considerable offensive ability was evidently in the power of the Providence team, but the line crumbled before one of the best smashing attacks that a Harvard team has shown in the Brown game for some years.

Tufts was defeated 30-0. An occasional burst of speed gave supporters of the Brown warriors hope that the team would develop for late-season victories as the 1910 team had done. Rumors of a Yale team being whipped into shape to retrieve the defeat of the year before came from New Haven. A large crowd of rooters, hoping against hope, took the journey to Yale and saw the Brown team defeated 15-0. Here again there was an element of strength shown in the stonewall defense the Brown clad players offered at times.

The Vermont and Trinity games were rather unsatisfactory, mainly from the lack of scoring plays at critical times. In the final game of the season Carlisle came on the field with a team that its coach

In Reviewing.

The completion of the masticatory process with this year's football season seems to have left a dark brown taste in the mouths of a large number of the undergraduates. It is worth while remembering, however, that there is one source of comfort that may still be rolled under the tongue with a fair degree of satisfaction: we did beat Penn.

And after all we do not feel quite so ill as we often try to persuade ourselves to think we do. The real satisfaction in any football season is calling a team ours that plays the game for all that there is in it, and plays it fairly. In felicitating with Captain Ashbaugh on his election to the generalship of the 1912 team, we congratulate him not only on being the captain of a team that has promise of victory, but more especially on the privilege of serving as the custodian for a year of the heritage of true sportmanship with which Brown teams of the years gone by have endowed us.

conceded the best that he had ever trained. Against the versatile Indian attack the home team put up the most stubborn defense of the season, preventing any scores from straight football, the Carlisle scores coming from a long end run and two place kicks. The Brown players showed themselves on the alert to take advantage of every slip, when a kick was blocked and Ashbaugh took the ball over for a touchdown.

Considering the difficulties at the beginning of the year, the season cannot be called a failure. Last year's team was ahead of most of its opponents in its mastery of the new football. The infusion of considerable new material this year, with a necessary emphasis on the fundamentals, may have prevented any very great progress. The over-rating that the team received in the early part of the season was also an hindrance to effective development.

The same difficulties do not seem likely to occur for the season of 1912. Big vacancies will be left by Captain Sprackling, Adams, Jones, Marble, and Donovan, but able men seem to be ready to fill their places. Captain Ashbaugh may lead his team on the field with every prospect of success.

Always ready to write at the first stroke without shaking.

That is a vital point which is lacking in ordinary fountain pens. You can readily understand how this is made possible in a Moore when we explain that the pen when not in use lies submerged in ink which keeps it moist and prepared for instant writing, positively eliminating the necessity of shaking.

But that is not all of its strong features. The Moore can be carried in any position without the least fear of leaking. Has a large ink capacity. Always writes freely and evenly, and is easily filled.
