

One day my husband told me he got a gospel tract from a man who invited him to church. I could not believe my husband was talking to me about church, because during our seven years of marriage, not once did he ever mention church. My husband accepted the invitation and I went along with him. In New York City on Friday night, we went to church. Even though the church was a small place, there was something very unusual about it; the Lord was present.

The service began with singing rousing songs of praise to God, where everyone clapped and lifted their hands toward Heaven. They prayed earnestly to the Lord and gave their testimonies on how the Lord changed them. I never experienced anything like this in my whole life. After the service a brother asked my husband and I if we wanted to accept Jesus Christ as our Saviour. We both said yes and went to the altar. On our knees, believing with all our hearts, we prayed to the Lord and asked Him to wash all of our sins away with the blood that he shed and to change our lives and make us new creatures.

The Lord answered and has truly changed us. I praise God that we are saved. After I got saved, I felt clean inside; I could feel the presence of God inside my heart. Never will I forget that night as long as I live. Words cannot describe how I felt. The only way to know is for you to get saved and experience it yourself.

My life now is changed. I no longer use drugs or have the desire to use them. I was cured instantly of my drug addiction when I accepted the Lord into my heart. No matter how many rehabilitation programs I tried, they never cured me of my drug addiction. It was the Almighty God that changed me in a twinkling of an eye. The Lord has given me something to live for and something to die for—to tell people the gospel of Jesus Christ and how He changed me.

During the four years that I have been here, I have seen many mighty moves, many miracles from God. I have seen people healed from sickness and disease, people that were dying get healed because of prayers, court battles being won where there did not look like any hope of winning. I know that the Lord hears and answers our prayers. At the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Church and Seminary we have services twice a day and three times on Sunday. We go witnessing, visit the sick in hospitals, prisons, and nursing
