

I will send you

Elijah
the Prophet

Following are the last words of the Old Testament:

Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD: And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse. (Malachi 4:5-6)

A study of the above prophecy is herein presented, that we may ascertain if there is to be a future fulfillment, and if so, if it is to be by a literal resurrection of Elijah, or by some other means, that we may correctly understand God's promise, and not be deceived by false claims which might be made in the name of Elijah, or in the Name of his Lord and ours, Jesus Christ.

This study is slightly condensed and revised from sermons preached at Lord's Covenant Church in Phoenix, Arizona by Pastor Sheldon Emry.
