Sir/Madam,

We want to thank you for your participation in the Second National Convention on People's Right to Information. Widespread participation by organizations from around the country made the convention a resounding success. Participant interaction and feedback during the workshops and the plenary sessions played a very important role in helping us achieve the goal of raising awareness about the right to information, and building up solidarity with groups and individuals working on a diversity of issues. These discussions will help us in formulating our future strategy, especially in pressurising the government to amend and pass the national Right to Information Act, and in establishing the usefulness and criticality of people's right to information as a tool for public accountability.

We will update you on our activities periodically and send you a summary of the Convention Report once it is ready.

NCPRI welcomes individuals as members. If members of your organization have not already registered as members of NCPRI, we'd request you to encourage them to do so at the earliest by contacting our office.

We look forward to your continuing support.

Thanking you and in solidarity,

Yours faithfully,

Shekhar Singh
Convenor
