

- The significance of the Cultural Revolution, the Shanghai Commune and the fall of Lin Piao for understanding today's events in China.
- Teng Hsiao-ping and what his second reemergence means.
- The course of the Sino-Soviet conflict and how it affected domestic relations in China.
- U.S. imperialism's maneuvers to use the split in the socialist camp for its own predatory interests.
- Why the suppression of the left-wing of the Chinese Communist Party is a serious setback for the Chinese Revolution and the world revolutionary struggle as a whole.
- The tremendous gains won by the masses and safeguarded in the new social system.
- How in the long run the direction of the Chinese Revolution flows from the socialist means of production—that the material interests of Peoples China lie in unity with the socialist camp against imperialism.

World View Publishers

Atlanta • Chicago • New York

$2.00