

A stimulating reference work

analyzing the conflict between military and social priorities documented with basic data for 132 countries on military trends, GNP, education, health, nutrition, foreign aid, and international peacekeeping made graphic with 14 charts

World Military and Social Expenditures 1976

32 pages, $2.50

“In this study, Ruth Sivard, an experienced economist who has worked for some years on military and arms control matters, takes a look at the arms race in terms of the factors that are propelling it onward, and the sacrifices that it entails for society. The results are frightening . . .”

From the Foreword by

Hubert H. Humphrey
U.S. Senator