

WELCOME TO

“One of the best laboratories
in the world”

One year after the director of NIH called Thomas Gennarelli's laboratory at the University of Pennsylvania "one of the best ... in the world," it lost its funding. Videotapes had exposed unsterile surgery, gross neglect and painful injury of conscious monkeys.

In 1992 Gennarelli received $5 million of your tax money to resume his brain-smashing experiments using pigs and rodents.