HISTORY'S GREATEST LIARS

by
Joseph McCabe

History's Greatest Liars, which has previously been issued as one of the "remainder" books out of the Haldeman-Julius collection, has now been retypeset by American Atheist Press, with an introduction by Madalyn O'Hair. In its new format, it is an ordinary paperback book, measuring 5¼" x 8¼" and consisting of 180 pages.

At a time when the school books of the nation are under attack by right-wing religious fundamentalists, this small book of Joseph McCabe's becomes critically important. McCabe was a scholar of the old school of original objective research. He combed through the voluminous tomes of his day to seek out the inaccuracies and the errancies which he knew existed because his own church had educated him well in how to rewrite history. He could recognize and point out the fallacies, the distortions, the deliberate lies and deceptions. In addition, from his own independent research, after having been freed from the intellectual strictures which the church had imposed upon him, he was able to weigh the material at hand.

With this small handbook as a guide, any amateur historian can start to take an educated look at what is offered to us today in place of real history and immediately uncover the fraudulent posits which are so apparent when once we have a guiding light. The scholarly historian can now peel back the layers of religious accretion and find some small, true, semblance of truth — what might have really happened.

The raison d'être of American Atheists is to educate: to sort out fact from fiction, truth from fantasy. But, again and again we are faced with a job which is overwhelming. How does one deprogram an entire nation, a group of nations, the world? How does one dig out from the myriad of lies, that which has some semblance of reality? When religious fanatics have systematically, for hundreds of years perverted the truth, from whence can come a viable and accurate record?

Hope is here at last in this small book. It is highly recommended. You will enjoy every page of it. The old Haldeman-Julius copies, yellowed with age, the pages fragile, the print often worn were selling for $3.00 a copy. They are now absolutely unobtainable. The last one was sold in July, 1983.
