

As difficult as it may be to believe that anyone would hurt a baby, what happened to Ana Rosa happens every day in Oregon and across America. Abortion techniques, like the deadly D&X shown below, demonstrate the billion-dollar abortion industry's commitment to make sure that babies like Ana Rosa do not survive.

D & X Abortion Procedure

D&X is a new abortion procedure described at a September 13, 1992 "Risk Management Seminar" sponsored by the National Abortion Federation, the trade association of the largest abortion facilities in the United States.

Illustrations are certified as medically correct by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and were adapted from drawings appearing in the February '93 issue of Life Advocate magazine, Portland, Oregon.

For more information on how you can help stop the killing contact:
Advocates for Life Ministries • P.O. Box 13656 • Portland, OR 97213

1993