
"The Foundation for Economic Education has been an effective means of changing the attitudes of people for one fundamental reason: it has been wholly consistent to the basic principle on which it rests, the principle that each person shall be free to pursue his own objectives so long as he does not interfere with the ability of others to do so."

MILTON FRIEDMAN

Nobel laureate, 1976

"What The Foundation for Economic Education, with Leonard Read at its head, and all his co-workers and friends are committed to is nothing more nor less than the defense of our civilization against intellectual error."

FRIEDRICH A. HAYEK

Nobel laureate, 1974

"There is something contagious about the spirit and ideals of FEE. Just think of how many similar organizations it has inspired in other countries. FEE has a very special kind of dedication to the ideals of liberty."
