

Here is What Anita Bryant Ministries Christian Heritage Institute is all about!

The Christian Heritage Institute is dedicated to preserving American Christian Heritage and educating the general public about America's history.

However, this institution is dependent solely on the support of generous and concerned citizens. We hope to accomplish many goals but are dependent on the support of others.

Here are some of the long-range goals we are seeking to develop:

America's First Christian Heritage Library

We are hoping to develop and establish a Christian Heritage Library, which will contain an uniquely comprehensive collection of extremely valuable but little-publicized books, pamphlets, essays, articles and films. All material will clearly reveal the social implications of Biblical Christianity of America's history.

Provided funding is available, the Heritage Library will embrace not only the substantial volumes suited to serious scholars, ministers, and educators, but the simple, most popular books which will appeal to millions of young persons and thoughtful Christian laypersons.

National Christian Heritage News

The Christian Heritage Institute will provide its friends with a Christian Heritage News service. This news service will from time to time inform you about helpful organizations and outstanding books and other publications, and keep you posted on national developments of special importance.

Publicity On Our Christian Heritage

Mass communications is another primary task of the Christian Heritage Institute. We hope to bring attention to the many great books about our heritage, especially by reaching out to the millions of receptive Christians. Also, we want to relate how America's basic principles can guide us in coping with our national problems today.

With your support the Christian Heritage Institute will launch a major mass communications effort via such means as the Anita Bryant radio and TV programs and other available mass media resources.
