(12 to 24 pages; no charge for single copy)

THE BILL OF RIGHTS, by Dean Russell

A concise and readable discussion of the nature and meaning of a keystone of individual liberty.

BLESSINGS OF DISCRIMINATION, by F. A. Harper

If man were deprived of the ability or the right to discriminate, he would perish.

CHARITY: BIBLICAL AND POLITICAL, by Russell J. Clinchy

A minister finds no Christian charity in the compulsory device of governmental aid.

CRISIS ACCORDING TO PLAN, by John Jewkes

A British citizen examines the results of Britain's recent experience with a planned society.

EATING THE SEED CORN, by F. A. Harper

An analysis of the decline of capital formation in America.

THE FIRST LEFTIST, by Dean Russell

The first Leftists were actually against governmental controls! But when they finally came to power in government, something happened to them.

THE GUARANTEED LIFE, by Maxwell Anderson

A leading playwright points out the harsh truth that "Men who are fed by their government will soon be driven down to the status of slaves or cattle."

THE INDIVIDUAL IN SOCIETY, by Ludwig von Mises

Under a system of private ownership of the means of production, the buyer depends on the seller and the seller on the buyer. Within the range of the market, each member of society is free because he serves others only in serving himself.

INFLATION, by F. A. Harper

The dictionary defines inflation as a "sudden increase in the quantity of money or credit relative to the amount of exchange business." Then whoever controls the money supply is solely responsible for the inflation and the resulting high prices.

LIBERALISM STANDS FOR FREEDOM, by Towner Phelan

A compelling discussion of traditional liberalism versus the economic platform shared in common by fascists, communists, and left-wing or neo-liberals.

NOT WORTH A CONTINENTAL, by Pelatiah Webster

A modern description, written in 1780, of the fatal consequences of governmental tampering with money.

ON MINDING ONE'S OWN BUSINESS, by William Graham Sumner

"Laissez faire means: Mind your own business. It is nothing but the doctrine of liberty."
