

FAMILY RESEARCH COUNCIL

Credit Where Credit Is Due:

The 1997
Tax Law
&
Your Family

★ Credit Where Credit Is Due - The 1997 tax relief package passed by Congress gave American families a $100 billion break! It offers a brand new child tax credit, estate tax relief, education tax benefits for families with students, and a capital gains tax cut. Like everything else Congress does, however, this tax package has "wrinkles." Phase-outs. Exclusions. Eligibility rules. How will it impact your family? To help answer this and other commonly asked questions, Family Research Council has prepared "Credit Where Credit Is Due: The 1997 Tax Law and Your Family." This convenient, 32-page booklet summarizes the most important family provisions of the new law, and tells you who and what are covered. As you plan your family budget for 1998, "Credit Where Credit Is Due" will help you get off to a fast start.

"Helping families keep more of what they earn" are watchwords at FRC. The 1997 tax law is a step in that direction. Order your copy today.

Gary Bauer and Alan Keyes

Family Research Council Celebrates Promise Keepers "Stand in the Gap: A Solemn Assembly of Men" October 3-4, 1997

This cassette recording helps document one of the most historic gatherings in America's history, Promise Keepers' "Stand in the Gap: A Solemn Assembly of Men" in Washington, D.C. FRC president

Gary L. Bauer pays tribute to the efforts of America's "promise keepers" in a riveting speech before an enthusiastic crowd of pro-family supporters. Special guest of FRC, the Honorable Alan Keyes, also speaks before the live audience on the importance of being a "promise keeper." This patriotic cassette will allow you to experience (or re-experience) what is being hailed as the largest spiritual gathering in U.S. history. Order your copy today!

DEFENDING FAITH, FAMILY, AND FREEDOM