

Next month, in this mailing, you will find a special reply card.

Let us know if you are receiving too much mail from FRC or if you would like to give us feedback on our policies and publications.

As paper and postage costs continue to increase, we want to make certain we are being good stewards of our - and your - limited resources. If you find our mailings helpful and you wish to stand with us in the pro-family cause, we want to continue providing you with the materials you've come to enjoy. Perhaps, however, there are some publications that you currently receive from us that you've not found useful or others that you'd like to receive. This is the time to let us know.

Notice

each dollar you give just as carefully. Tailoring our publications to your needs will help us to serve you better. Look for the special reply card next month - and let us hear from you.

As an organization, we realize our dependence on the "widow's mite." We know that the gifts you give to FRC to support our work are made thoughtfully and deliberately. In response to your generosity, we want to assure you that we seek to spend
