
of his most breathtaking photographs, including such famous works as "Mt. McKinley and Wonder Lake, 1948", "Sand Dunes, Sunrise, Death Valley National Monument, 1948", and "El Capitan, Sunrise, Yosemite Valley, 1968". Each photo is truly a work of art. Each one will evoke in you what Ansel called the "response of natural beauty that is one of the foundations of the environmental movement."

We have reserved a limited number of this collection of Ansel Adams' photographs to offer as special gifts to new members. We'll be pleased to mail your personal copy as soon as we receive your Membership Acceptance Form. (Please allow 6-8 weeks for delivery.)

You will be delighted and inspired by this portrait of the photographer and his art. By sending it to you, The Wilderness Society will fulfill Ansel Adams' wish that through his photography all people might celebrate the American earth, and learn that preserving the land enriches the human spirit.

The Wilderness Society 900 Seventeenth Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20006
