

- What a "surge" is, and how we can insure that the next surge is toward liberty and not oppression
- Why we can win in the next 20-30 years. How this can be done peacefully, and where to find the precedent in our own history. You may be surprised.
- What underlies the four libertarian strategies, political and non-political alike
- How drama, music, humor, religion, and journalism will help us to complete the libertarian movement, and why we can expect leaders in these areas to become libertarians

The wealth of insights and know-how which the Advocates have brought to the libertarian movement just goes on and on.

How do you find out more about the Advocates? How can you take part? Start by becoming a financial supporter. You'll receive the Liberator as well as notices about upcoming seminars and new tapes and guide books developed by the Advocates.

You'll also help to fund new Seminar Teams. These teams are our frontline effort to recruit new people to the movement. They are working, but we need more of them. And that means money.

The Advocates must raise $120,000 this year in order to keep growing. That's not very much as such organizations go, but we can't do without it. Our immediate goal is to raise our monthly pledge base to $5,000 a month from $1,275. This will cover 1/2 the need. The other half is by annual contributors, one-timer donors, Marshall's speaking fees, and the sales of merchandise.

I hope you can help us reach that monthly goal. (One thing you should know - all contributions to the Advocates are tax deductible.)

There are four contribution levels that offer useful premiums:

Associate	Liberator newsletter; chock-full of helpful tools and success stories of others using the tools. Contribute $10 or more per year to be an Associate.
Member	Liberator , plus four gift-quality hardbound copies of Robert Ringer's best-seller, Restoring the American Dream . Plus the audio cassette of Marshall's superb speech, How to Become a Black-Belt Libertarian (Communicator) . Contribute $10/month or $100/year.
Sponsor	Liberator , twenty-five (25!) Ringer books, and a 10-pack of audio tapes all aimed at keeping your ears and brain working toward liberty when your eyes and hands are
