

ABOUT THE CATALOG

Meeting America's energy needs while safeguarding the environment is no easy task in the decade of the seventies. The business of finding, producing, refining, transporting and marketing petroleum is a complex and challenging one. The American Petroleum Institute, its member companies and others have produced many entertaining and informative movies dealing with this fascinating world of oil. Those that are primarily non-technical in nature are listed in this catalog. All titles listed are sound films.

As you glance through this catalog you will see that there is a movie to suit almost every type of audience: business, civic and fraternal groups; employee meetings; farm and rural organizations; women's clubs; and high school and college classes.

All film descriptions are based on information supplied by the sponsoring company or organization. The film titles are also listed in the Index. In addition, the names and addresses of all sponsors and distributors may be found in the Sources section, following the Index. Inquiries or requests for films should be directed to the source listed with each title. All other inquiries concerning the catalog, including requests for additional copies, may be addressed as follows:

American Petroleum Institute
Public Relations Department
Photographic and Film Services
2101 L Street, Northwest - Room 701
Washington, DC 20037

The editor of "Movies About Oil" hopes that this fifteenth edition proves a valuable aid in obtaining petroleum films that will appeal to the audiences that see them.