

generation represents the future of the country and is the successor to the revolutionary cause. After all, the future of the country and the revolution depends on how the new generation is brought up.

Bringing up native cadres is a decisive guarantee for energetically promoting the revolution and construction. Cadres decide everything. Without cadres well prepared politically and ideologically, and technically and practically, we cannot successfully solve the difficult and complex problems arising in the building of a new society nor can we rapidly develop the economy, culture, science and technology of the country.

School should actively contribute to the cause of socialism and communism by working efficiently to rear the new generation into people of a communist type and to train native cadres.

In order to fully discharge its mission, school should correctly organize and carry out the work of educational administration before anything else.

What is fundamental in educational administration is to ensure that the work of educating the students goes through the necessary pedagogical processes exactly.

The first process in the pedagogical processes is to map out the education program. The educational administrative organs and institutions of higher learning should draw up education programs well on the basic principle of socialist pedagogy and in conformity with the demands of our revolution and the actual conditions of our country and with the processes of the development of the ideological consciousness of people and the law governing the processes of acquiring science and technology, and should correctly carry them out.

The educational administration of schools should give guidance to the teachers so that they may make adequate preparations for teaching. The cardinal point in preparing for teaching is to map out good teaching plans. The educational administration of schools should check up the teaching plans drawn up by the teachers without fail and complete them through collective discussion. When teaching new subjects and giving lectures on new problems, model lectures or demonstration lectures should be organized without fail.

The educational administration of schools should guide the teachers so that they teach the students well what is set forth in the education programs.

The key problem in the guidance of instruction work is to maintain the political and ideological principles and scientific accuracy in teaching. The educational administration should see to it that teachers thoroughly establish Juche in instruction work and base the lessons strictly on the Party policy and impart to the students working knowledge useful for the revolution and construction. Besides, the latest achievements of science and technology should be introduced quickly to further enrich the content of teaching and to steadily raise the scientific and theoretical level of instruction.

The educational administration should guide the teachers so that they improve the methods of teaching and correctly give all forms of lessons envisaged in the teaching schedule including lecture, discussion about subjects, experiment and practice and preparations of papers on subjects.

The educational administration should regularly examine and take note of how much the students have digested what they have learned and organize the work of improving their scholarly performance.

Regularizing and standardizing school work is an important task of the educational administration.

This means that educational work should be conducted in conformity with the requirements of the scientifically-arranged pedagogical processes and that the revolutionary system and discipline is established in school.

A scientific system of educational administrative guidance should be established in school; educational work be geared up thoroughly to the demands of the pedagogical processes; and the whole work of the school educational administration from the drawing up of educational plans to their implementation, should be organized and guided in a unified way.

Strict educational discipline of correctly carrying out the education program should be established in school. Correct implementation of the education program is a legal task assigned to school and the first and foremost educational discipline. School should establish the revolutionary discipline of exactly implementing the education program and unconditionally and thoroughly carry out teaching schedules and teaching programs.

School should guide the extra-curricular activities and political and organizational life of the students with responsibility.

In socialist society school is entirely responsible for the education of the students. That is why school should be responsible not only for teaching work but also for the extra-curricular activities of the
