

The book was written by Percival Davis and Dean H. Kenyon. Dr. Kenyon is a professor of biology at San Francisco State University. Dr. Charles B. Thaxton is the academic editor of the book. You will recall that Dr. Thaxton was involved in the publication of The Mystery of Life's Origin which was so very popular among our friends and partners.

Of Pandas and People has dozens of full-color pictures and charts and also comes with a Teacher's Guide.

The introduction says: "This Teacher's Guide is designed to give you additional tools to increase the practical uses and applications of the biology supplement...for your classes. The Guide provides you with chapter by chapter study goals, discussion questions, and lists of references."

This elaborate book (with all the color pictures and Teacher's Guide is rather expensive, but will be worth the cost.

This great book is being offered to school textbook committees in various states. You will want to be sure that it is made available to your science textbook selection committee in your state when the committee meets, usually every other second or third year.

I believe this book should be placed in the hands of thousands of high school science teachers.

Please order the book, read it, then pass it on to your local science teacher in a school in your city.

Or, get a group together to raise funds to buy enough of the books to give to all the science teachers in your city.

This would be a wonderful project and would have a far-reaching effect.

Your faithfulness to stand with us financially this summer will be a great encouragement to us here at the home office. Typically families take summer vacations, send their children to summer camp, etc. and there just don't seem to be enough funds to go around for everything we would like to do.

But for this summer I'm standing on the Words of Jesus when He Said: "Give and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over shall men give into your bosom."

That's the promise I'm claiming for you as you give to this ministry during these summer months.

God bless you, dear friend.

Sincerely in Christ,

Bill

Bill Keith, President
The Legal Defense Fund