Dear Friend,

Family Research Council has a NEW tool to help parents, grandparents, educators, and clergy.

It's called Making Your School Family-Friendly and it's a "must read" for everyone who cares about their children or grandchildren's education.

In the next 30 days, before the start of the new school year, I want to get thousands of copies of Making Your School Family-Friendly into the hands of parents, educators, youth group directors and pastors. But I need your help to do it.

Can I count on you?

Will you help me distribute Making Your School Family-Friendly by doing two important things right now?

First, please use the back of the enclosed Acceptance Reply Form to write down the names and addresses of three (3) friends or family members you think might like to receive a copy of Making Your School Family-Friendly.

Second, please help me get this important tool into the hands of thousands of people by making a contribution of $250, $100, $50 or even $25 to FRC today.

FRC's Making Your School Family-Friendly is a Pocket Policy booklet that helps equip parents, grandparents, educators and clergy alike with the tools they need to get involved in the education debate, take advantage of educational options, protect our children's religious freedoms, and defend against big-government influences like Outcome-Based Education (OBE) and Goals 2000.

In fact FRC's Making Your School Family-Friendly is such an invaluable resource, and one which needs as wide a distribution as possible, that I have reserved a copy for you and each person who contributes as much as $25 in the next 30 days.

And let me tell you why distributing Making Your School Family-Friendly is especially important during this particular school year: Perhaps now more than at any other time in our nation's history an entire generation of children appear to be in real trouble. Consider for a moment two

Over, please . . .
