Roger & Me

A Film by Michael Moore

Roger & Me

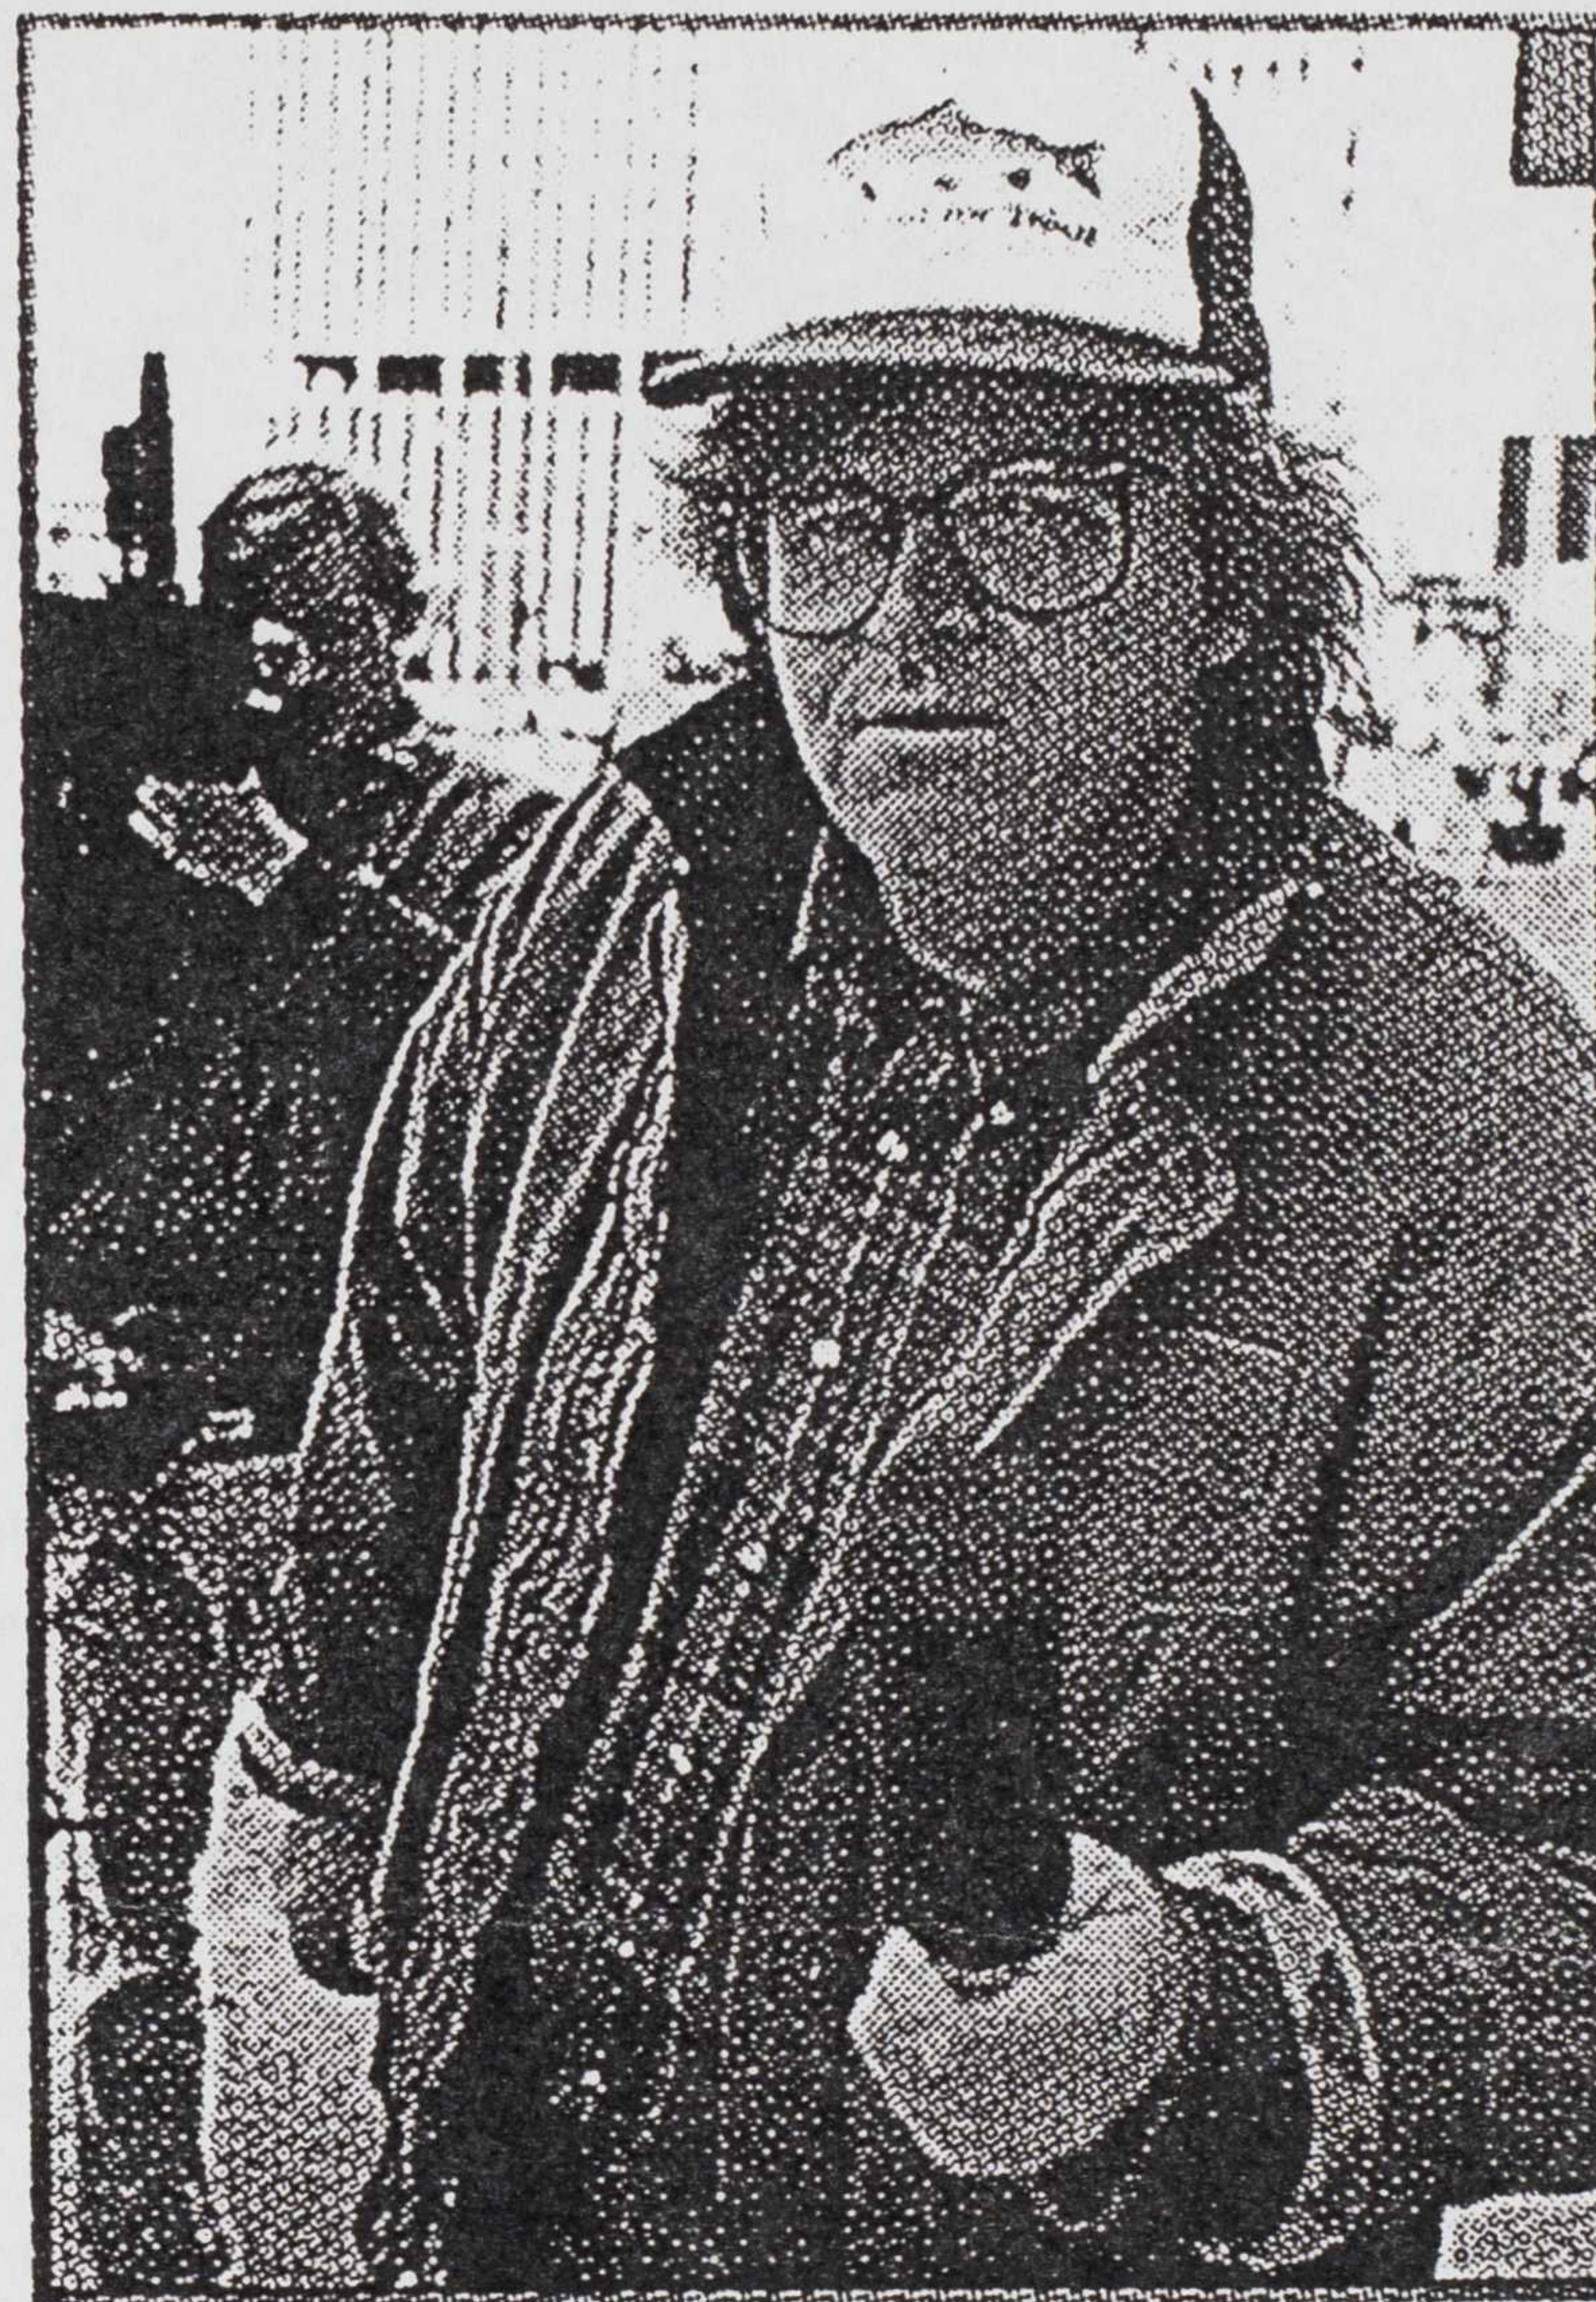

"The biggest, must-see, word-of-mouth underground smash of the season."

— Marshall Fine, GANNETT NEWSPAPERS

What would you do if hard times came to your hometown and made you mad as hell? If you're Michael Moore, you'd hold bingo-game fund-raisers every Tuesday night for three years. Sell your home and virtually everything in it. And sink nearly every penny into making Roger & Me, the uproariously funny movie named to more than 80 film critics' 1989 10-Best lists. It also won year's-best awards from the New York, Los Angeles and National Society of Film Critics and the National Board of Review.

Word of mouth about Roger & Me spread like wildfire. Moore himself emerged as a modern folk hero. All because he doggedly and hilariously tried to do what every working stiff dreams of: talk to the man at the top. Moore's efforts to meet General Motors Chairman Roger Smith and persuade him to visit Moore's hometown of Flint, Michigan, provides the framework of a film that uses humor to devastating effect. Roger & Me champions people over profits. And it howlingly lampoons corporate America as it shows how the working men and women of Flint cope with economic setbacks.

"All I'm asking is that as we go through these changes, we ask ourselves, what's the best way to provide employment for people in a humane way?" -- Michael Moore, 1996

Westchester Jobs for All invites you to join us to watch "Roger and Me," Michael Moore's award-winning documentary about General Motors and Flint, Michigan. We also invite you to join us in a community discussion about the film, and next steps in the struggle to create good jobs for everyone who wants to work.

Over 17 million people in the U.S. are currently unemployed, or working part-time when they want full-time work. Millions more work at low-paying jobs with poor working conditions and few or no benefits.

This meeting will also be a fundraiser for Westchester Jobs For All. Everyone is welcome to attend, especially people on limited incomes and the unemployed. However, we will ask for voluntary contributions to help support Westchester Jobs for All's organizing work, including our recent efforts to conduct community education and outreach during National Jobs for All Week in October. Refreshments will be served.
