

- () POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES
by Donald Bogue
The only up-to-date single source on the statistical makeup of our population. Where it is, what it is, what it does, what it has. Before now the information was scattered in hundreds of books, special government reports, and unpublished tabulations. This book makes readily accessible an incredibly vast amount of specific material in immediately usable form. For planners, market analysts, opinion pollsters, politicians, social research organizations, news analysts, and anyone who needs an encyclopedia of facts on our population. $17.50
- () BLACK BOURGEOISIE
by E. Franklin Frazier
"The book is an audacious treatment of the problems faced by a racial group conceived in a culture which preaches the idea of equality...The bourgeoisie becomes the shadow...Whether it is read with passion or reason, with pity or glee, one cannot escape the challenge which it hurls at American behavior and values." — Washington Post. $4.00
- () ESSAYS ON FREEDOM AND POWER
by Lord Acton
Selected and with an Introduction by Gertrude Himmelfarb
"Acton, together with Tocqueville and Jacob Burckhardt, is one of the few nineteenth century historians who today deserve and attract wide attention...Of the three he has perhaps the most to say to our generation." — New York Times. $6.00
- () THEORIES OF THE UNIVERSE
by Milton K. Munitz
From earliest ages until now the night sky has stimulated the finest minds to devise theories of the origin and nature of our universe. These selections from different periods of man's scientific development, from the Babylonian Genesis to the modern theory of the Continuous Creation and the Expanding Universe, are fascinating stories. And the scientists writing the modern sections are as witty in their presentation as Lucretius, knowing much less, was in his time. $7.50
- () POLITICS AND THE ARTS
Letter to D'Alembert on the Theatre
by Jean Jacques Rousseau
Translated by Allan Bloom
This new translation of Rousseau's work makes available to English readers the most effective statement of the classical view that there is a tension between the arts and civil society, and that the requirements of civil society demand a renunciation of much that is today considered liberal and fine. This is the best introduction to the paradoxes of Rousseau's thought. It provides the clearest picture of the temper which led him to repudiate the hopes of the Enlightenment. It is also some of the most sensitive literary criticism ever written. $4.00
- () CREATIVITY AND THE INDIVIDUAL
by Morris I. Stein and Shirley J. Heinze, Center for the Study of Creativity and Mental Health
In an effort to identify and stimulate the characteristics of the creative process, the authors, on the basis of their own research, have selected and summarized more than 300 articles and books which they feel are fundamental and will be helpful to anyone seeking a better understanding of the creative process. $10.00
- () WORDS AND THINGS
by Roger Brown
Brown shows language as the specially human thing that it is. He looks for the origin of language in the world of children and primitives and traces its development into the subtle tool of propaganda and advertising. We come to understand the world of the primitive who has but one word for both blue and green, and why we can guess the meaning of foreign words with more than chance success. In 1956 Roger Brown gave a series of very popular radio broadcasts on the psychology of language. "Brown has produced what is undoubtedly the best systematic introduction to the psychology of language." — Public Opinion Quarterly. $6.75
- () THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE
by Herbert Butterfield
We do not know when the first question was asked about the physical universe. But many of the greatest minds of every recorded age have sought to give satisfactory answers by the discovery of new truths and new laws. In this book fifteen eminent scientists have written essays on the important periods in the development of science. $3.50
- () MAN AND THE SACRED
by Roger Caillois, editor of Diogenes
Starting from the traditional opposition of the sacred and the profane, the author shows how man's confused attitudes toward the sacred influence his actions and his culture. The author uses a great variety of detail. He examines instances of sacred taboos and transgressions and analyzes the role they play in the social cohesion of the group. $4.50
- () DELINQUENT BOYS
The Culture of the Gang
by Albert K. Cohen
The gang is studied as a socially organized group. "...a distinct contribution to the study of delinquency and crime." — Henry D. McKay, Institute for Juvenile Research. $4.00
- () AMERICAN THOUGHT
by Morris R. Cohen
An exciting survey of our intellectual history. "...a valuable legacy from one of the distinguished American philosophers of this century." — Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. $6.00
- () THE ELEMENTARY FORMS OF RELIGIOUS LIFE
by Emile Durkheim
This classic study leads you to consider profoundly the social character of religion. It studies the primitive cult and reveals its social meaning and importance. Durkheim also points out the religious origin of other great forms of social activity, in particular philosophic thought. $6.00
- () SUICIDE
by Emile Durkheim
In some groups suicide is required of a person when they are no longer able to contribute to the welfare of the group. In some religions suicide rates are high, and in others low. In some cultures suicide is considered success. Why should the rates for suicide be high in times of depression, but also high in times of prosperity? "In the history of sociology (this book) occupies a major and an honored place..." — Isis. $6.00
- () PRINCIPLES OF ECONOMICS
by Carl Menger
Translated by James Dingwall and Bert F. Hoselitz with an Introduction by Frank H. Knight
"Certainly one of the great books in the development of economic theory..." — Social Order. $6.00
- () THE END OF IDEOLOGY
by Daniel Bell
In this vigorous and penetrating commentary, Daniel Bell, former Labor Editor of Fortune Magazine, explores the significance of the failure of ideology in contemporary America and the rise, among intellectuals, of a new fear of the masses and social action. $7.50
- () THE PROFESSIONAL SOLDIER
by Morris Janowitz
"...the biography of a profession in its organizational setting, a fascinating portrait that explains much in the behavior of the military that civilians often find puzzling." — The Nation. $6.75
- () THE EFFECTS OF MASS COMMUNICATION
by Joseph T. Klapper, American Association for Public Opinion
A book for those concerned with the impact of television, radio, comic books, and newspapers on minds young and old. It reveals what the experts have learned about such problems as the effects of crime and violence in the media, how children are affected by adult programming, the extent to which media shape attitudes and opinions, and create apathy and passivity. $5.00
- () THE INTELLECTUALS
A Controversial Portrait
edited by George B. de Huszar
What is the responsibility of the intellectual? Which poet saw in the 1843 revolution no more than a good chance to set fire to his step-father's house? When and where was the intellectual's position of ruling importance to society? What is that position now? Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Kautsky, Dostoevsky, Schopenhauer, and many more. Other authors writing general articles. A comprehensive portrait drawn from the penetrating observations of men of intelligence from the French Revolution to the present. $7.50
- () THE POLITICS OF MASS SOCIETY
by William Kornhauser
Analyzes the historical and contemporary instances of social conditions favorable to mass political movements. What impels men to take the extra-legal action of revolution? The author's theory of mass society offers many new clues to the origins and nature of mass political movements. "...I feel obliged to assert emphatically that the book is required reading for all students of the sociology of modern politics." — American Sociological Review. $5.00
- () THE PSYCHOLOGY OF SOCIAL CLASS
by Maurice Halbwachs translated by Claire Delavenay
"...a solid piece of historical research that illustrates the way in which the sociological has to make use of the historical perspective in order to gain insight into current situations." — Social Order. $4.00
- () THE STORY OF MY MISFORTUNES
by Peter Abelard
translated by Henry A. Bellows Abelard's love for Heloise was the basis for the recent popular play. Here for the first time in English, except for limited editions, is a lively, lovely translation of the great monk and scholar's own account of his tragic life and love. $3.50
- () LOGICAL POSITIVISM
edited by A. J. Ayer
This volume reproduces, in the words of the founders of the movement, the revolutionary theories of logical positivism. Selections from Bertrand Russell, M. Schlick, R. Carnap, C. G. Hempel, H. Hahn, O. Neurath, A. J. Ayer, C. L. S. Stevenson, F. D. Ramsey, G. Ryle, F. Waismann. Professor Ayer has contributed a detailed introduction explaining the main ideas of logical positivism. $6.75
- () THE ADOLESCENT CITIZEN
by Franklin Patterson
The author is vitally concerned with the need to create an atmosphere in schools that will be conducive to healthy individual development and to learning responsible behavior. This volume forcefully tells how educators can utilize the findings of behavioral science to help American students become mature citizens. $6.00
- () REFLECTIONS ON VIOLENCE
by Georges Sorel translated by T. E. Hulme and J. Roth with an introduction by Edward A. Shils
This is the clearest and most honest exposition of the psychology of the revolutionist. "We owe to Georges Sorel the rediscovery of the relationships between democracy and absolutism, and their point of intersection in centralization," wrote Robert Michels, author of Political Parties. $5.00
- () RELIGIONS OF THE EAST
by Max Weber
This is the monumental work of the Twentieth Century on religion. It includes complete accounts of Confucianism, Taoism, Hinduism, Jainism, Ancient Buddhism, Mahayana Buddhism, Hinayana Buddhism, Zen Buddhism, Shivaism, Vishnuism, Lamaism, Sikhism, and Judaism. A beautiful boxed set. 3 vols. $15.00
- () A MODERN INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY
edited by Paul Edwards Introduces the beginner to philosophy by a discussion of basic problems rather than by a purely historical approach. Conflicting viewpoints are fairly represented usually by their outstanding spokesmen. $7.00
- () THE CAUSES OF WEALTH
by Jean Fourastie
translated by Theodore Caplow
A haircut cost a worker in ancient Egypt as much of his working time as it costs a working man now. This study is concerned with the human consequences of technical progress. The author establishes the close relationships within the distribution of the labor force, the structure of national income, and the budget pattern of families. Fourastie's work has greatly changed the study of poverty and wealth. $5.00
- () THEORIES OF HISTORY
edited by Patrick Gardiner
A collection of many of the outstanding writings on the philosophy of history throughout the ages. The detailed introductions and the prefatory comments before each selection are valuable for the development of the reader's understanding. $8.50
- () A READER'S GUIDE TO THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
edited by Bert F. Hoselitz
For the general reader interested in the problems studied by those sciences. It is also for the specialist who needs to know which are the useful books written by his fellow scientists in other fields. Chapters on anthropology, economics, sociology, political science, history, geography, and psychology. $6.00