

brief scripture Paul states "confess with thy mouth." Doing so helps to finalize and make personal salvation a definite and settled matter.

Christ stated the following in Matthew 10:32: "Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven."

There should be no effort on the part of the personal worker to stir up the inquirer's emotions. If the Holy Spirit does so, it is good and well. It is the will and the understanding of the inquirer that are important and the determining factors.
