

Oil should belong to the people.

But it doesn't.

This pamphlet explains how a few super-rich families got control of this vital resource, and why the people have every right to take it back from them.

Vince Copeland is a former steelworker and a national leader of Workers World Party. His articles appear frequently in Workers World newspaper, and he has written a number of books and pamphlets, including Expanding Empire and Blast Furnace Brothers.
